Emergency Action May Prevent Great Steel Strike

ROOSEVELT MAY APPEAL TO WORKERS

Congress Also May Be Called on to Enact Special Legislation, is Said

OFFICIALS ARE GLOOMY

Rank and File of Steel Men Bitter at Johnson and Turn Down His Proposal

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(UP)—The government may take action to smash the steel strike before it is called, it was indicated today after a White House conference.

Sen. Robert F. Wagner, D., N. Y., chairman of the national labor board, who, with Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, conferred with President Roosevelt, admitted there was a discussion of "government action."

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(UP)—Threat of a crippling and probably bloody steel strike grew so strong today that early emergency action was believed capable of preventing it.

Three final steps were under consideration. President Roosevelt might make an appeal to labor. Congress might rush through special legislation or Gen. Hugh S. Johnson could attempt a personal appearance before unionists who meet Thursday to decide definitely whether to walk out Saturday night.

Officials made no attempt to conceal their gloom over the situation. The angry withdrawal from Washington of militant rank and file leaders of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers left negotiations here at a standstill.

These leaders rejected a proposal submitted by Johnson for an arbitration board. The plan had been accepted by the Iron & Steel Institute but the union heads characterized it as a "trap" to "tighten the company union chains that bind workers in the steel industry."

They were particularly bitter at Johnson for his remarks about them in an address Friday night. In view of this many doubted whether even the picturesque general's undoubted oratorical powers would be of great worth at the strike meeting at Pittsburgh Thursday. It was feared this might lead only to further antagonizing of the rank and file element which already has indicated lack of confidence in Johnson and other recovery administration executives.

The principal hope for averting the strike seemed to lie in action by President Roosevelt or congress.

Such action might be coupled with passage by congress of special legislation.

This would be a bill setting up a form of arbitration similar to that provided in the railway mediation act.

Seven Bills Go Out But Only 6 Return

GOFF, Kan., June 11.—(UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bell and the five little Bells took a Sunday ride in the family car.

They bumped along, Mama and Papa discussing the drought in the front seat, the five children crowded in the tonneau.

Only four little Bells were present when they returned home. Frantic appeals to county officers led to discovery of the younger in bed at a neighbor's house.

He suffered only a scalp wound when he bounced through a rear curtain.

GOV. MERRIAM GETS SUPPORT OF RICHARDSON

Former Governor Says He Will Not Be Candidate for Office

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—(UP)—Friend W. Richardson, state building and loan commissioner and former governor, today announced he will not seek the Republican nomination for governor but will support the candidacy of Acting Governor Frank F. Merriam.

Richardson urged other candidates to withdraw in favor of Merriam in order to present a "united front" within the party.

"Governor Merriam has a record of 17 years of faithful, intelligent, honest and able service to the state," Richardson's statement read. "I will support him wholeheartedly."

"A number of good men are seeking the Republican nomination. In the interest of good government these candidates might well retire and unite to face the monolithic Socialist Union Sinclair who seems to have the Democratic nomination within his grasp."

Richardson conferred with Merriam at Sacramento last week.

SPEEDBOAT PILOTS LOSE LIVES SUNDAY

ELSINORE, June 11.—(UP)—The waters of Lake Elsinore were dragged today for the bodies of two speedboat pilots who were drowned when their crafts shot out of control.

C. J. Swanson, Los Angeles mechanical engineer, was drowned during a trial run in which he was tuning up his boat for his step-daughter who was to pilot it in a race. Hitting a turn at high speed, the boat struck a rough spot in the water, throwing Swanson out. He sank immediately.

Searchers were grappling for his body when Walter Seager suffered a similar fate. Neither of the victims were left preservers.

The double tragedy forced postponement of the racing program.

Family Feud Results In Five Deaths

Four Members of Susanville Family and Friend Are Found Murdered

SUSANVILLE, Cal., June 11.—(UP)—An old family feud brought to this country from Sicily 20 years ago was believed today to have resulted in the murder of five persons.

The victims of the feud were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fazio, their daughter, Sadie, 22, and son, John, 26, and a friend, Mrs. Anna Amistani, 42. All had been stabbed to death last night.

Peter Aloisi, 45, a Sicilian, who was said to be a cousin of the Fazio, was held for investigation after Sheriff J. B. Leavitt learned there had been ill-feeling in the family. Aloisi denied murdering the five.

Killed in Tub
Fazio, about 53, had been stabbed and then hacked to death in a bathtub in the house where he lived alone, Sheriff Leavitt said.

The assassin knowing the customs of the family, then waited for Mrs. Fazio and her son to deliver eggs to the husband and father and then killed them as they entered the house. Fazio and his family had been living apart, Sheriff Leavitt said.

When Mrs. Fazio and the son failed to return home, the daughter accompanied by Mrs. Amistani went to look for them.

Body is Hidden
The girl dashed from the machine and fled, screaming for help. The killer followed her and stabbed her to death and then hid her body in bushes near the mill pond.

The murders were discovered when two men saw a man alight from the Fazio machine in a suspicious manner and disappear in the bushes. Upon investigation the pair found the girl's body and notified Sheriff Leavitt. When Leavitt went to inform the father, he found the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Fazio and John Fazio.

The murders were believed by Sheriff Leavitt to have been premeditated. He said the murderer apparently knew Mrs. Fazio and her son took eggs to Fazio, and after killing them, went to slay the daughter in an effort to wipe out the entire family.

Aloisi was arrested shortly after the bodies were discovered. He had been seen to take a knife from a planing blade at the lumbermill where he worked. A similar knife was found at the scene of the killings.

NEW YORK, June 11.—(UP)—Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, French transatlantic fliers, took off from Floyd Bennett airport in their Blériot monoplane, the Joseph Le Briz, for Montreal at 8:20 a. m., E.S.T., today.

From Montreal the fliers will visit many Canadian and United States cities on a good-will tour. The damaged propeller, which forced the fliers to land at the Brooklyn airport in their attempted non-stop flight from Paris to California, has been repaired.

Before taking off, the fliers said the plane again was in perfect condition.

QUINTUPLETS ARE REPORTED IMPROVED

NORTH BAY, Ont., June 11.—Yvonne and Marie, two of the Dionne quintuplets, were improving today. Yvonne responded to special treatment of oxygen-carbon dioxide and rum administered when she had a sinking spell. Marie, who is the smallest and the weakest of the three-week-old babies, has been gaining gradually in strength.

BACCALAUREATE SERMONS DELIVERED BEFORE J. C. AND S. A. H. S. GRADUATES

Material Possessions Do Not Mean Success Says Rev. Perry Schrock

Wealth and material possessions do not mean success in the full sense, and life should be lived by the "gospel standard," which demands a high quality of life and service, the 276 graduates of Santa Ana High school were told by the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, Congregational minister, at baccalaureate exercises last night.

The impressive dignity of the occasion, blended with the beauty of flowers and music, and deepened by the reverence of prayer, made the event memorable. The auditorium of the First M. E. church was filled for the affair, with an overflow program in the First Christian church.

Quoting from the Apostle Paul's final message to the Philippians, "let the lives you live be worthy of the gospel of Christ," the Rev. Schrock said that he could do no better than repeat Paul's advice, as a course to be followed by the class of '34, in achieving successful and happy careers.

DARROW BOARD TO FILE THIRD REPORT SOON

Second Report Now in Hands of President; Will Be Released Shortly

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(UP)—Another chapter of the Darrow board-NRA controversy was in the making today as the critically minded recovery review agency prepared new data with which to attack the blue eagle.

The Darrow board is at work on a third and final report to President Roosevelt which will be submitted late this month. A second report is in the hands of the president now. It will be released soon, probably after the NRA has been given an opportunity to submit a simultaneous defense.

The second report, the United Press learned, is couched in much the same language as the first. Of 13 codes studied, only one, the oil code administered by Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes is commended.

The others are attacked on varying grounds. The retail code is alleged not to be the one accepted by the industry. Two points of the code are praised, however. These are provisions against "loss leaders"—the practice of selling certain merchandise below cost to attract customers—and mark up regulations providing for addition of 10 per cent to invoice or delivery cost to cover wage payments.

The lumber and the cement codes are attacked for fostering collusive prices and "phantom freight rates."

The cement code hampers small firms by preventing them from expanding until large companies are operating at capacity the board said.

The president studied the report over the week end and was expected to submit it to the NRA shortly for preparation of an accompanying statement.

20 REPORTED KILLED

MADRID, June 11.—(UP)—An express train wrecked on an autobus filled with excursionists from Asturias near Leon today. Estimates were 20 dead and 10 injured. Pieces of the wrecked bus were scattered as far as 500 yards.

Airliner Is Discovered In Catskills

Plane Destroyed by Flames With All Occupants on Board, Reported

LIVINGSTON MANOR, N. Y., June 11.—(UP)—The big American Air Line transport plane which vanished with seven persons aboard while en route from Newark to Chicago Saturday night was found in the rolling Catskill mountains today, destroyed by fire and with all of its occupants dead.

The plane, object of a huge search by land and air since Sunday dawn, was found by William H. Hallock and Lee Lewis, two volunteer fliers, who landed beside the demolished craft.

Hallock told the United Press that the plane was a tangled mass of wreckage, twisted and destroyed by fire. He said that the occupants apparently did not have a chance to escape.

Hallock and Lewis found the demolished plane at 11 a. m., while the search was concentrated slightly north and east of this district in the historic Catskill region where the Rip Van Winkle legend originated.

The transport plane, with four passengers, a pilot, co-pilot and stewardess, left Newark at 4 p. m. Saturday and reported 45 minutes later that all was well over Newburgh, up the Hudson river. Then it vanished into a thunderstorm.

The department of commerce suppressed first information concerning the finding of the plane, pending arrival of officials for an investigation. The local coroner started for the scene, about 11 miles north of Livingston Manor, shortly after noon.

Lee Lewis, who piloted Hallock when the plane was found, told the United Press that the two did not land beside the demolished craft.

They did not know how many persons were supposed to be on board, Lewis said, but he added that it was obvious that none of the occupants escaped.

They said that it was not possible for them to land beside the plane because of the rough terrain. The plane fell near a gully.

Clyde Hollbrook, pilot, 38, of La Grange, Ill.
John Barron, co-pilot, 38, of Chicago.
Miss Ada Hunkley, 38, stewardess, of Henshaw, Ky.
Harry Pinsky, of Great Neck, L. I., employee of the Music Corporation of America, in New York.
Harold C. Coppins, 42, of Buffalo, married with one child.
William A. Cues, 38, of Buffalo, married with three children.
William Baxter Bader, 31, of Buffalo, married with three children.

ELEVEN ARRESTED IN STRIKE RIOTS

SAN PEDRO, June 11.—(UP)—Eleven men were in police custody today, charged with inciting to riot as result of a fierce pitched battle between striking longshoremen and strikebreakers at the Panama Pacific dock on Terminal Island.

The battle, attended by an undetermined number of casualties, raged for nearly 30 minutes before police squads routed the fighters with tear gas. At least a dozen rioters were injured, some believed seriously.

The riot broke out as strikebreakers were unloading the S. S. California.

DOLLFUSS ACTS TO END TERROR REIGN

VIENNA, June 11.—(UP)—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss today invoked a national vigilante system, unfettered by ordinary law, to end an unprecedented reign of terror for which he blamed Austrian Nazis sheltered by Germany.

Last Surviving Son of Gen. Grant Passes

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif., June 11.—(UP)—Funeral services were held here today for Jesse Root Grant, 73, last surviving son of Gen. Ulysses Grant, famous Civil War leader. Burial, with full military honors, took place at the Presidio in San Francisco.

Grant, a civil engineer, lived in Los Altos, the scene of his death, since 1924. He is survived by a widow, Elizabeth Grant, San Diego; Major Chapman Grant, Indianapolis; a son and Mrs. William Cronin, San Diego, a daughter.

ESTIMATE DEAD IN HURRICANE WILL BE 2000

Relief Workers Say Flood Waters 20 Feet Deep Cover Entire Area

SAN SALVADOR, June 11.—(UP)—Relief workers today estimated the dead at 2000 in the hurricane which devastated this area last week. They emphasized that the total was a rough estimate pending an official check up.

Reports of relief workers and aviators, however, made it certain that the death toll would be huge.

Pine pilot reported he flew over the stricken district and found only a few buildings standing at Acajutla. He said an unidentified steamship had been sunk at the mouth of the Rio Lempa. Only the top of one funnel showed.

Many bodies were floating near the wreckage and other bodies were sighted on shore.

The pilot said a railroad train had been hurled from the tracks and carried 100 yards by the hurricane. The train wreckage, upside down, could be plainly seen, he reported.

Flood waters were as deep as 20 feet in many places and covered a huge area.

Lakes Guila and Coatepeque rose 20 to 30 feet and the bodies of hundreds of cattle were seen floating there and on the swollen rivers. Most of the damage was caused along the lakes and rivers, although some villages were destroyed by avalanches from the high volcanic mountains.

The government, which instituted martial law last week in the stricken area, today issued a decree forbidding increases in prices of food. It also abrogated import duties on grain for four months, seized gasoline supplies and otherwise took drastic measures to protect the refugees and the population.

Fear of an epidemic continued strong and every relief and sanitary measure possible was taken to combat disease. A plow was sent out for serum to aid in fighting disease.

Damage in the Rio Lempa valley was great. The crops, chief income for a large part of the country, were ruined.

No Agreement to Prevent General Armament Race is Taken by Delegates

NOTHING SALVAGED

Appointment of Committees to Discuss Security Proves Discouraging

GENEVA, June 11.—(UP)—The World Arms conference, unable to approach even the vestige of an agreement to prevent a general armament race, adjourned today indefinitely.

Even the attempt to salvage something from the conference by setting up committees to discuss security and other disarmament problems was discouraging.

Italy and Hungary announced they would merely "observe" the work of the security committee, and Great Britain said she would aid the committee but would not sign any pacts guaranteeing a further measure of mutual aid and non-aggression than was established by the Locarno treaty.

Arthur Henderson of Great Britain, president of the conference, proposed that the security committee be restricted to European nations. Disarmament advocates of Hungary, condemned attempts to restore various European alliances such as led to the World war and said the conference should attempt to achieve security by the general equalization of arms.

MUSSOLINI MOVES FOR EUROPEAN PEACE
ROME, June 11.—(UP)—Blunt, outspoken Premier Benito Mussolini made plans today to forward the consolidation of European peace and at the same time to prepare for Italy's defense in event of war.

It was disclosed that three suites of rooms had been reserved for Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany at the Grand Hotel, Venice, for a conference with Mussolini Thursday.

At the same time it was announced Italy would use 70,000 tons allotted to it in the Washington naval treaty and with it build two powerful battleships of 35,000 tons each.

Hitler is due to arrive in Venice by airplane at noon Thursday, accompanied by Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, his foreign minister, and others. He is expected to confer with Mussolini Thursday afternoon and Friday.

Mussolini hopes to calm Hitler and to make a bid for leadership in peace work.

TWO MORE NATIONS DEFAULT PAYMENTS

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(UP)—The movement toward a general default of all governments owing war debts to the United States, initiated by Great Britain last week, spread today with notification of two additional defaulters that they will default on June 15.

Both Belgium and Czechoslovakia served formal notice on Acting Secretary of State William Phillips that they would default.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(UP)—The house today refused to reimburse the Philippine treasury for losses suffered by its reserves on deposit in the United States when the dollar was devaluated. The vote, 191 to 123, was not a two-thirds majority as required under suspension of rules.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(UP)—The senate today rejected the Thomas amendment to the silver bill which would have based the 75-25 ratio between gold and silver monetary reserves on the market price of silver rather than on its monetary value.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(UP)—The house today rejected the conference report on the bank deposit guarantee extension bill. Senate approval will send the vital measure to the White House.

L. A. ATTORNEY WILL SEEK STATE POST

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 11.—(UP)—Patrick J. Cooney, prominent Los Angeles Democratic lawyer, will be a candidate for attorney general on Upton Sinclair's "end poverty league" ticket. It was announced today by the capital offices of the Sinclair campaign.

Cooney will seek the post held by U. S. Webb, one of the oldest public officials in California.

The Los Angeles Democrat, who has been active in party politics in California since 1918, organized the first Roosevelt-for-president association in this state in 1930, and aided materially in spreading the movement up the Pacific Coast.

Family Feud Results In Five Deaths

Four Members of Susanville Family and Friend Are Found Murdered

SUSANVILLE, Cal., June 11.—(UP)—An old family feud brought to this country from Sicily 20 years ago was believed today to have resulted in the murder of five persons.

The victims of the feud were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fazio, their daughter, Sadie, 22, and son, John, 26, and a friend, Mrs. Anna Amistanti, 42. All had been stabbed to death last night.

Peter Aloisi, 45, a Sicilian, who was said to be a cousin of the Fazio, was held for investigation after Sheriff J. B. Leavitt learned there had been ill-feeling in the family. Aloisi denied murdering the five.

Killed in Tub

Fazio, about 33, had been stabbed and then hacked to death in a bathtub in the house where he lived alone, Sheriff Leavitt said.

When Mrs. Fazio and the son failed to return home, the daughter accompanied by Mrs. Amistanti went to look for them.

Body Is Hidden

The girl dashed from the machine and fled, screaming for help. The killer followed her and stabbed her to death and then hid her body in bushes near the millpond.

The murders were discovered when two men saw a man alight from the Fazio machine in a suspicious manner and disappear in the bushes. Upon investigation the pair found the girl's body and notified Sheriff Leavitt. When Leavitt went to inform the father, he found the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Fazio and John Fazio.

The murders were believed by Sheriff Leavitt to have been premeditated. He said the murderer apparently knew Mrs. Fazio and her son took eggs to Fazio, and after killing them, went to slay the daughter in an effort to wipe out the entire family.

Aloisi was arrested shortly after the bodies were discovered. He had been seen to take a knife from a planing blade at the lumbermill where he worked. A similar knife was found at the scene of the killings.

Last Surviving Son of Gen. Grant Passes

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif., June 11.—(UP)—Funeral services were held here today for Jesse Root Grant, 79, last surviving son of Gen. Ulysses Grant, famous Civil War leader. Burial, with full military honors, took place at the Presidio in San Francisco.

Grant, a civil engineer, lived in Los Altos, the scene of his death, since 1924. He is survived by a widow, Elizabeth Grant, San Diego; Major Chapman Grant, Indianapolis; a son and Mrs. William Cronin, San Diego, a daughter.

ESTIMATE DEAD IN HURRICANE WILL BE 2000

Relief Workers Say Flood Waters 20 Feet Deep Cover Entire Area

SAN SALVADOR, June 11.—(UP)—Relief workers today estimated the dead at 2000 in the hurricane which devastated this area last week. They emphasized that the total was a rough estimate pending an official check up.

Reports of relief workers and aviators, however, made it certain that the death toll would be huge.

Pine pilot reported he flew over the stricken district and found only a few buildings standing at Acapulco. He said an unidentified steamship had been sunk at the mouth of the Rio Lempa. Only the top of one funnel showed.

Many bodies were floating near the wreckage and other bodies were sighted on shore.

The pilot said a railroad train had been hurled from the tracks and carried 100 yards by the hurricane. The train wreckage, upside down, could be plainly seen, he reported.

Flood waters were as deep as 20 feet in many places and covered a huge area.

Lakes Guila and Coatepeque rose 20 to 30 feet and the bodies of hundreds of cattle were seen floating there and on the swollen rivers. Most of the damage was caused along the lakes and rivers, although some villages were destroyed by avalanches from the high volcanic mountains.

The government, which instituted martial law last week in the stricken area, today issued a decree forbidding increases in prices of food. It also abrogated import duties on grain for four months, seized gasoline supplies and otherwise took drastic measures to protect the refugees and the population.

Fear of an epidemic continued, strong and every relief and sanitary measure possible was taken to combat disease. A plea was sent out for serum to aid in fighting disease.

Damage in the Rio Lempa valley was great. The crops, chief income for a large part of the country, were ruined.

Troops led the relief work today, clearing debris from the streets. The city water works is partially restored. Some electric power is available.

QUADRUPLETS BORN TO IOWA RESIDENTS

SAC CITY, Ia., June 11.—(UP)—How to support nine children, including newly born quadruplets, on $14 a week was the problem facing Larry Wycoff and his wife today.

Mrs. Wycoff, who does not believe in large families, rested comfortably today and listened to the lusty squalls of the four youngest additions to the family: Lester Dean, 4 pounds, 4 ounces, and his three sisters, Laverna Darlene, 4 pounds; Lavonne Darnene, 3 1/2 pounds, and Lorraine Delaine, 2 1/2 pounds.

Dr. G. H. Swearingen who delivered the babies by lamp light Saturday night in the three room Wycoff cottage, said all had an excellent chance of survival.

SESSION IS TERMINATED INDEFINITELY

No Agreement to Prevent General Armament Race is Taken by Delegates

NOTHING SALVAGED

Appointment of Committees to Discuss Security Proves Discouraging

GENEVA, June 11.—(UP)—The World Arms conference, unable to approach even the vestige of an agreement to prevent a general armament race, adjourned today indefinitely.

Even the attempt to salvage something from the conference by setting up committees to discuss security and other disarmament problems was discouraging.

Italy and Hungary announced they would merely "observe" the work of the security committee, and Great Britain said she would aid the committee but would not sign any pacts guaranteeing a further measure of mutual aid and non-aggression than was established by the Locarno treaty.

Arthur Henderson of Great Britain, president of the conference, proposed that the security committee be restricted to European nations. Disorganizing Tanczos of Hungary, condemned attempts to restore various European alliances such as led to the World war and said the conference should attempt to achieve security by the general equalization of arms.

MUSSOLINI MOVES FOR EUROPEAN PEACE

ROME, June 11.—(UP)—Blunt, outspoken Premier Benito Mussolini made plans today to forward the consolidation of European peace and at the same time to prepare for Italy's defense in event of war.

It was disclosed that three suites of rooms had been reserved for Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany at the Grand Hotel, Venice, for a conference with Mussolini Thursday.

At the same time it was announced Italy would use 70,000 tons allotted to it in the Washington naval treaty and with it build two powerful battleships of 35,000 tons each.

Hitler is due to arrive in Venice by airplane at noon Thursday, accompanied by Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, his foreign minister, and others. He is expected to confer with Mussolini Thursday afternoon and Friday.

Mussolini hopes to calm Hitler and to make a bid for leadership in peace work.

TWO MORE NATIONS DEFAULT PAYMENTS

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(UP)—The movement toward a general default of all governments owing war debts to the United States, initiated by Great Britain last week, spread today with notification of two additional defaults that they will default on June 15.

Both Belgium and Czechoslovakia served formal notice on Acting Secretary of State William Phillips that they would default.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(UP)—The house today refused to reimburse the Philippine treasury for losses suffered by its reserves on deposit in the United States when the dollar was devaluated. The vote, 191 to 123, was not a two-thirds majority as required under suspension of rules.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(UP)—The senate today rejected the Thomas amendment to the silver bill which would have based the 75-25 ratio between gold and silver monetary reserves, on the market price of silver rather than on its monetary value.

REV. SCHROCK TALKS BEFORE H. S. GRADUATES

"Remind us that a man can be rich and still be a failure." Life by the gospel standard would be useful, good and happy, he stated.

Gospel Standard
Six aspects of the gospel standard were described by the minister. One, he mentioned, was that the gospel standard demands a high quality of personal life. "By their fruits ye shall know them," he quoted. "The gospel quality of life calls for a life of personal purity. When men fall in the business of living, there is generally something wrong with the inner, personal life. The gospel standard calls for fundamental honesty and integrity. We justly condemn the man who is dishonest in business. But the man who won't think straight—who will let his prejudices or hope of gain, or fear of censure, warp his thinking, is just as dishonest. The gospel standard calls for intelligence. God can guide an intelligent person better than He can a dumb-bell."

"A life of right relationship with other people" is another aspect of the gospel standard, said the Rev. Schrock. When Jesus said "Love your neighbor as yourself" and even went so far as to say "Love your enemies," he referred not to affection but to an attitude of absolute good will toward neighbor and enemy, said the speaker.

A life of service was mentioned as a third demand of the gospel standard. "We are saving many hard things about the profit motive these days. Without doubt it is responsible for many of our ills. If service instead of profit had been the motive in business and politics, we would not have needy, starving people in a world of abundance." The career of Cushing Eells, who came to the Northwest Territory in 1855 as a missionary among the Indians, and who founded two colleges and many churches, besides acting as counsellor and guide to Indians and Whites, was cited as a life of service.

Loyalty to Truth
Loyalty to truth was discussed as a fourth gospel demand, and the speaker said it probably would be costly, citing the curse of war and the censure heaped upon those who oppose it.

The gospel standard includes a social idea, he said. This will be a society that provides a favorable environment for the gospel quality of personal life; that organizes its activities upon a just and right relationship; in which the service motive supplants the profit motive.

Cooperation with God was stated as the final demand of the gospel standard. "This is not an easy standard," he said. "Unless there is some sort of help available, most of us are not going to use it with any assurance of success. But anyone who sincerely wants to live a life worthy of the gospel of Christ will have the assurance of the help and cooperation of God."

"It does not mean that one must accept any particular creed. However, one may have a definition and he may have a creed. When we try to live the gospel standard we are rowing with the stream of life, not across or against it."

The speaker concluded with an appeal to the graduates, on behalf of their parents and teachers, to live the kind of life he had outlined as the gospel standard.

Musical Program

The high school seniors marched in to fill the center of the church as Alan Revill played the processional march, Clark's "March Romaine."

All available space was taken for the audience that attended the annual baccalaureate. This group sang two hymns: "Faith of Our Fathers" and "Come, Thou Almighty King." Other musical contributions to the service included the singing of "Gloria From the Twelfth Mass" by Mozart, offered by combined girls' and boys' glee clubs; and "Song of Praise," sung by the girls' sextette.

Dr. W. J. Hatter, pastor of the Episcopal Church of the Messiah, read the scripture, and Dr. Albert Kelly, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, pronounced the benediction.

COMPOSER DIES

PARIS, June 11.—(UP)—Frederick Delius, British composer and one of the greatest musicians of his generation, died last night at Grez-sur-Loing, on the edge of Fontainebleau Forest, blind and nearly paralyzed.

WARMER TALKS TO GRADUATES OF JR. COLLEGE

ed at Atlanta, who had reformed and quieted the arch trouble maker of the prison, a colored life-terminer chosen as his cell-mate.

"Understanding of religion will remake those who comprehend," he told the graduates.

Three things about religion "which are trying to be born, but which we have held back until they are in danger of being still-born," were listed and discussed by Dr. Warmer.

Religion Needed

First, he said, an adequate religion completes the objective of life. Life may have an objective without the seming acceptance of any particular religion, but the central drive of human existence is greatly aided by what religion has to offer. Religion, he added, aims to produce intelligence, develop skill and unleash kindness.

"My young friends," said the speaker, "we are under a most powerful temptation to declare a moratorium on intelligent thinking in the fog of the days through which we are passing.

"This depression is not unconquerable. The whole trouble can be put in a single phrase, viz.: faulty distribution of the products of agriculture and industry; failure in the management of plenty."

"If we would allow the economics of Laissez-Faire to exit and welcome the Economy of Abundance, and give it opportunity for experimentation, the fog would begin to lift."

Secondly, said Dr. Warmer, a worthy religion develops the highest values of life. "We have just come through a time when the major emphasis has been upon things. We have not excluded thoughts—the thought that have given us electrical appliances, airplanes, radios and a myriad else. But thoughts about folks have been in the discard."

Genius Killed

"By war, we killed the genius as well as the masses of a generation in four bloody years on Flanders field. Out of the slaughter came a revolution in Russia, a dictator in Italy, a Hitler in Germany, a government of old men in France, a confession of statecraft in Britain, and the present economic chaos in an age of plenty in these United States of America. Thirty-five million fed by organized welfare while our surplus is greater than at any time in our history. As Stuart Chase said, an economic system is to provide a means, without excessive waste and loss, whereby those who live under it may eat."

"Life is cheap but life is important—abundant life is possible and must be won, not for the few but for all the sons of God."

"What are the values? Righteousness, forgiveness, service, sacrifice, loyalty, peace, love, which is active goodwill. Should the church, the school and the home give themselves to making these values the procedure of organized society a revolution indeed would speedily occur."

A superior religion is control, said Dr. Warmer, as his third point, pointing out that religion can never wisely be a compulsion. Life does not move according to the moods of external compulsion, but rather by the urges of internal impulse, he declared.

Jesus' Philosophy

"Life should not be inhibited, but directed. Religion is a control not when it is a legal statute, but when it is a philosophy that grips and drives. The philosophy of Jesus was very simple yet very potent. He died on the cross, not to appease an angry God but to satisfy himself and the future that He believed that His philosophy of life was worth dying to initiate. Jesus centered His philosophy in the golden rule. May we rephrase it. The golden rule for today: 'The hurt of the least must be the concern of all.'"

"When a philosophy of the common good becomes the program of society, the problem of distribution of the goods of life on a basis of the necessities and some of the luxuries for all will shortly eventuate. Let us dedicate ourselves to the task of making the social goal to be 'the hurt of the least is the concern of all.'"

Graduates March

Don graduates marched into the pews at 4:30, with Alan Revill at the console, playing Tchaikowski's Andante Cantabile. The college faculty followed, dressed as were students in black cap and gown, with the traditional red and white scarf as hoods for the ensemble.

The congregation, which filled every available seat in the auditorium and side rooms, sang in unison the Doxology, and two hymns, "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life," and "Faith of Our Fathers." Musical specialties were offered by the college A. Capella choir in the form of the negro spiritual "Steal Away," and "Holy Art Thou." Singers were dressed as were graduates in commencement attire. All music was accompanied by Alan Revill at the organ.

Dana King Hammond, also dressed in graduation gown, read the thirteenth chapter of Corinthians as the scripture lesson for the service. Frank A. Henderson, superintendent of Santa Ana city schools, wearing Don commencement attire, introduced the speaker with the thought that the church and the school have always been closely allied and without the former the latter never would have existed.

illegal acts. I challenge any man to deny the truth of my statement that these amendments would enormously increase the powers of the AAA, and would make Secretary Wallace the Hitler of American agriculture."

Referring to the AAA amendments, Tugwell said earlier: "It has been said that we've tried to minimize their importance. We said they were 'clarifying.' These amendments are to make it unquestionably clear that what we are doing has been clearly defined by congress."

Says Consulted

Bankhead asked if Tugwell had "anything to do with formulating plans or policies other than those in the agriculture department."

"No," Tugwell replied, "except that I may be consulted from time to time by officials of other departments."

Shouts of "Hurrah for Byrd," and "We want Tugwell" were heard as the crowd applauded first one side and then the other. As one spectator, standing near Wheeler, started to shout, the senator shouted:

"If you've anything to say, say it before the committee or get out. I've never seen a proceeding of this kind."

"If this meeting has been called for the purpose of having someone make a stump speech, it appears to me a political racket."

The committee members quieted their loud wrangling among themselves and returned to debate on farm legislation and constitutional government.

Rotary club officials of 11 foreign countries will discuss economic problems in their homelands in a pre-convention program from Chicago over the Columbia network tomorrow morning from 9:30 until 10 o'clock, it was announced today by Secretary R. C. Smedley. Fourteen officers in all will discuss world recovery.

The public has been invited to attend an open meeting at the Southern Counties Gas company auditorium at the time of the broadcast. A radio will be installed.

The list of distinguished speakers includes: John Nelson, Montreal, Canada, president of Rotary International, an insurance executive; Clinton P. Anderson, Albuquerque, N. M., immediate past president, now state treasurer of New Mexico; Chesley R. Perry, secretary; Herbert Schofield, third vice president, an English educator and scientist;

Maurice Duperrey, second vice president, French manufacturer; Otto Fischer, director, German banker; Paul T. Thorwall, director-nominee, Finnish advertising executive; Frederick Ernest James, director, member of the Madras (India) legislative council; Fong Foo Sec, director, Chinese editor of the Commercial Press, Shanghai;

Tsunefiro Miyaka, director-nominee, Japanese authority on international law; Thomas Armstrong, director, railroad executive of New South Wales; Victor M. Echeverria, director, public utilities executive of Columbia; Donata Gamilara, director-nominee, a civil engineer of Montevideo, Uruguay and John B. Reynolds, president of the Chicago Rotary club, a special life insurance agent.

The famous Santa Ana Rotary club gavel, which has traveled twice around the world, will be used in the broadcast.

The meeting will not take the place of the regular noon meeting at James' cafe tomorrow, where Assemblyman James B. Utt will be the speaker of the day.

Farm Union Meet Set For Tonight

Hervey C. Craner, declared to be an able and outspoken speaker, will be the featured speaker at an open meeting for all farmers and growers at 8 o'clock tonight in the auditorium of the Intermediate school on North Glassell street in Orange.

The meeting is sponsored by the National Farmers' Union. All farmers will be welcome at the meeting. Secretary George Randall said, whether or not they are members of the Farmers' Union.

NEW RECORD IS SET BY HUSE AIR LINER

NEWARK, N. J., June 11.—(UP)—A new transcontinental record for transport of passengers was claimed today by TWA Pilot L. G. Fritz who made the Los Angeles-Newark run in 18 hours and 45 minutes.

The plane left Los Angeles at 3:15 p. m. (PST) and arrived here at 9 a. m.

The previous record of 18 hours and 2 minutes, Fritz said, was made without passengers. Otis Brown and Edward A. Beland flew the plane from Los Angeles to Kansas City where it was taken over by Larry Fritz who completed the run.

PARALYSIS CASE IN COSTA MESA

Infantile paralysis invaded southern Orange county for the first time Saturday, when one case was definitely diagnosed at Costa Mesa. The patient is Percy Clemens, a third-grade pupil at Lindbergh school, Costa Mesa. The new case brings the total in the county to 24 cases this year, according to Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer. Until Saturday the epidemic had been localized in the Placentia-Fullerton-Brea area.

Howard Humphres Dies At His Home

Howard W. Humphres, 41, resident of El Modena for the past seven years, died at his ranch home yesterday following an illness of several weeks duration. He was an orchardist.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Florence Humphres; a son, James Allen Humphres; two daughters, Virginia and Esther Humphres; his father, James Humphres of El Modena; three brothers, Orin Swearer, Los Angeles, Homan Swearer, Manila, P. I., and Ludie Swearer, Kansas City, Missouri.

Funeral services will be held from the chapel of the Winbiger Funeral home, 609 North Main street, Wednesday at 10 o'clock.

Put a GARAGEMAN to Work!

Maybe the old bus still runs, but HOW does she run?

Does she spit, sputter, and groan? Does she labor and buck and roar, covering the ground with great agony of car and driver?

And what is the effect upon YOU? Do you whistle blithely as you drive along, in peace with the world, or do you gnash your teeth in rage as if you were driving an army mule?

All of these things are for you to answer, of course, for YOU are the party to be pleased by your car's performance.

But if you ask us, we'd say that your automobile is one of your greatest friends and should be treated as such.

It takes you to work, it takes you to pleasure, it takes you to sports and realization. It takes you EVERYWHERE, and at ANY TIME, if it is maintained in first class repair.

Your car should add to your comfort and pleasure and happiness in life. It should be ready to go at any moment, regardless of the weather or distance, to take you anywhere you want to go.

So, Put a Garageman to Work, and have him keep your car in the best of operating condition as well as in good appearance.

It has taken him many years to learn what he knows about YOUR car, and that knowledge is yours for the asking. Let him check over the car frequently for small repairs, and thus prevent the bigger repair bills.

Don't ruffle your disposition and waste time fooling around with the car yourself, when there are many car service men specializing in such work in Santa Ana who need jobs.

Keep them busy, at good pay, and then they will have the means to buy what YOU have to sell, and you are both better off by following your own specialized vocations.

Put the Garageman to Work. Give him a job.

You'll get more pleasure and safety out of driving your car. You'll help solve the unemployment problem in Santa Ana. And everybody will be happy.

Take the dents out of the fenders. Repaint the car. Replace broken glass. Repair the top, or recover it. Fix the radiator. Put in new battery, new wiring, new plugs, new upholstery, any new rubber all around. It's time to spruce up the car, as well as the home; to smile, to build, to modernize, to go forward with America into the New Deal.

G. V. MERRIAM GETS SUPPORT OF RICHARDSON

Reports said Merriam may appoint him to the post of state banking superintendent to replace Edward Rainey.

Following closely the death of Gov. James Rolph Jr., which automatically boosted Merriam to the chief executive's position, Richardson's action made Merriam the outstanding candidate for the Republican nomination, observers believed.

Richardson has been a power in California politics for more than a decade, holding wide influence in the conservative element of the party. His support, added to the fact Merriam will be publicized daily during his reorganization of the Rolph administration, will, in the opinion of many, give the acting governor a decided advantage in the primary election.

Given Choice

In return for his support, Richardson will have the choice of almost any appointive position he desires, politicians believed. Merriam may appoint him state banking superintendent or state finance director, replacing Edward Rainey or Roland Vandegrift, although Richardson said he did not want the finance directorship. Either job would pay him $10,000 a year—the same salary received by the governor.

LOYD BANKS SEEKS POST AS AUDITOR

City Auditor Lloyd Banks, of Santa Ana, today revealed his intention of becoming a candidate for county auditor, as an opponent of W. T. Lambert, the incumbent, by applying for a nomination petition at the county clerk's office. Banks is the third candidate to appear for that office Lambert and John B. Joplin, of Anaheim, having previously taken out petitions. Banks and Ralph A. Frost Jr., candidate for justice of the peace of Laguna Beach township, were the only candidates to apply for petitions today.

He died on the cross, not to appease an angry God but to satisfy himself and the future that He believed that His philosophy of life was worth dying to initiate. Jesus centered his philosophy in the golden rule. May we rephrase it. The golden rule for today: 'The hurt of the least must be the concern of all.'"

"When a philosophy of the common good becomes the program of society, the problem of distribution of the goods of life on a basis of the necessities and some of the luxuries for all will shortly eventuate. Let us dedicate ourselves to the task of making the social goal to be 'the hurt of the least is the concern of all.'"

Graduates March

Don graduates marched into the pews at 4:30, with Alan Revell at the console, playing Tchaikowski's Andante Cantabile. The college faculty followed, dressed as were students in black cap and gown, with the traditional red and white scarf as hoods for the ensemble.

The congregation, which filled every available seat in the auditorium and side rooms, sang in unison the Doxology, and two hymns, "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life," and "Faith of Our Fathers." Musical specialties were offered by the college A. Capella choir in the form of the negro spiritual "Steal Away," and "Holy Art Thou." Singers were dressed as were graduates in commencement attire. All music was accompanied by Alan Revell at the organ.

Dana King Hammond, also dressed in graduation gown, read the thirteenth chapter of Corinthians as the scripture lesson for the service. Frank A. Henderson, superintendent of Santa Ana city schools, wearing Don commencement attire, introduced the speaker with the thought that the church and the school have always been closely allied and without the former the latter never would have existed.

Special Rotary Program Tuesday Open To Public

Rotary club officials of 11 foreign countries will discuss economic problems in their homelands in a pre-convention program from Chicago over the Columbia network tomorrow morning from 9:30 until 10 o'clock. It was announced today by Secretary R. C. Smedley. Fourteen officers in all will discuss world recovery.

The public has been invited to attend an open meeting at the Southern Counties Gas company auditorium at the time of the broadcast. A radio will be installed.

The list of distinguished speakers includes: John Nelson, Montreal, Canada, president of Rotary International, an insurance executive; Clinton P. Anderson, Albuquerque, N. M., immediate past president, now state treasurer of New Mexico; Chester R. Perry, secretary; Herbert Schofield, third vice president, an English educator and scientist; Maurice Duperrey, second vice president, French manufacturer; Otto Fischer, director, German banker; Paul T. Thorwall, director-nominee, Finnish advertising executive; Frederick Ernest James, director, member of the Madras (India) legislative council; Fong Poo Sec, director, Chinese editor of the Commercial Press, Shanghai; Tsunejiro Miyakawa, director-nominee, Japanese authority on international law; Thomas Armstrong, director, railroad executive of New South Wales; Victor M. Echeverria, director, public utilities executive of Columbia; Donata Gaminara, director-nominee, a civil engineer of Montevideo, Uruguay; and John B. Reynolds, president of the Chicago Rotary club, a special life insurance agent.

The famous Santa Ana Rotary club gavel, which has traveled twice around the world, will be used in the broadcast.

The meeting will not take the place of the regular noon meeting at James' cafe tomorrow where Assemblyman James B. Utt will be the speaker of the day.

RENOVIZE YOUR HOME

Put a GARAGEMAN to Work!

Maybe the old bus still runs, but HOW does she run? Does she spit, sputter, and groan? Does she labor and buck and roar, covering the ground with great agony of car and driver? And what is the effect upon YOU? Do you whistle blithely as you drive along, in peace with the world, or do you gnash your teeth in rage as if you were driving an army mule?

All of these things are for you to answer, of course, for YOU are the party to be pleased by your car's performance.

But if you ask us, we'd say that your automobile is one of your greatest friends and should be treated as such.

It takes you to work, it takes you to pleasure, it takes you to sports and realization. It takes you EVERYWHERE, and at ANY TIME, if it is maintained in first class repair.

Your car should add to your comfort and pleasure and happiness in life. It should be ready to go at any moment, regardless of the weather or distance, to take you anywhere you want to go.

So, Put a Garageman to Work, and have him keep your car in the best of operating condition as well as in good appearance.

It has taken him many years to learn what he knows about YOUR car, and that knowledge is yours for the asking. Let him check over the car frequently for small repairs, and thus prevent the bigger repair bills.

Don't ruffle your disposition and waste time fooling around with the car yourself, when there are many car service men specializing in such work in Santa Ana who need jobs.

Keep them busy, at good pay, and then they will have the means to buy what YOU have to sell, and you are both better off by following your own specialized vocations.

Put the Garageman to Work. Give him a job.

You'll get more pleasure and safety out of driving your car. You'll help solve the unemployment problem in Santa Ana. And everybody will be happy.

Take the dents out of the fenders. Repaint the car. Replace broken glass. Repair the top, or recover it. Fix the radiator. Put in new battery, new wiring, new plugs, new upholstery, any new rubber all around. It's time to spruce up the car, as well as the home; to smile, to build, to modernize, to go forward with America into the New Deal.

GOV. MERRIAM GETS SUPPORT OF RICHARDSON

Reports said Merriam may appoint him to the post of state banking superintendent to replace Edward Rainey.

Following closely the death of Gov. James Rolph Jr., which automatically boosted Merriam to the chief executive's position, Richardson's action made Merriam the outstanding candidate for the Republican nomination, observers believed.

Richardson has been a power in California politics for more than a decade, holding wide influence in the conservative element of the party. His support, added to the fact Merriam will be publicized daily during his reorganization of the Rolph administration, will, in the opinion of many, give the acting governor a decided advantage in the primary election.

Given Choice

In return for his support, Richardson will have the choice of almost any appointive position he desires, politicians believed. Merriam may appoint him state banking superintendent or state finance director, replacing Edward Rainey or Roland Vandegrift, although Richardson said he did not want the finance directorship. Either job would pay him $10,000 a year—the same salary received by the governor.

LLOYD BANKS SEEKS POST AS AUDITOR

City Auditor Lloyd Banks, of Santa Ana, today revealed his intention of becoming a candidate for county auditor, as an opponent of W. T. Lambert, the incumbent, by applying for a nomination petition at the county clerk's office.

Banks is the third candidate to appear for that office Lambert and John B. Joplin, of Anaheim, having previously taken out petitions.

Banks and Ralph A. Frost Jr., candidate for justice of the peace of Laguna Beach township, were the only candidates to apply for petitions today.

NEW RECORD IS SET BY HUSE AIR LINER

NEWARK, N. J., June 11.—(UP)—A new transcontinental record for transport of passengers was claimed today by TWA Pilot L. G. Fritz who made the Los Angeles-Newark run in 18 hours and 45 minutes.

The plane left Los Angeles at 3:16 p. m. (PST) and arrived here at 9 a. m.

The previous record of 18 hours and 2 minutes, Fritz said, was made without passengers.

Otis Bryan and Edward A. Beland flew the plane from Los Angeles to Kansas City where it was taken over by Larry Fritz who completed the run.

A WORD OF COMFORT

You must keep on praying and continue going faithfully to church. Only so you keep your soul's power of perception keen so that you will distinguish between good and bad and between the helpful and the harmful.

If you omit these practices, your perceptions are dulled like those of people busied in the poisonous atmosphere of overheated, crowded room. You need, day by day, the clean, fresh air which is to be found as you draw near to God seeking refreshment and strength which He is ready to give.

FINCH—In Santa Ana, June 9, 1934, Floyd E. Finch, aged 29 years. Mr. Finch was the golf instructor at Santa Ana Country club and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Martha Finch. Funeral services will be held in Portland, Oregon, to which place the remains were forwarded Sunday by Smith and Tuttle.

BEEMER—In Pasadena, June 10, 1934, Mrs. Catherine Wallace Beemer, aged 60 years. Mrs. Beemer is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Paul R. Bauman, Washington, Indiana, and Mrs. Warren R. Williams, Terre Haute, Indiana, and a granddaughter, Catherine Jane Hausman, and a brother, Bob Wallace, of Orange. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. from Smith and Tuttle's chapel, Interment Fairhaven cemetery.

RONFELDT—June 9, 1934, at her home, 1520 West Second street, Mrs. Sadie Ronfeldt, age 73 years. She is survived by one brother, Morgan Smith, and two sisters, Mrs. Melissa Chandler and Mrs. Laura Weaver, all of Santa Ana. Announcement of funeral later by Harrell and Brown.

MAY POSTPONE ORANGE WOMAN LIQUOR CASE KILLED IN L. A. PROSECUTIONS AUTO ACCIDENT

Because of the possibility of having a jury conviction appealed and heard by the superior court in the next few days and the virtual necessity that City Attorney Clyde Downing confine himself to other city business this week, it appeared today that the next two or three scheduled jury trials on liquor law violators would be postponed until a later date.

Downing is making every effort to find a solution to the problem of avoiding a large increase in the tax rate, following a recent supreme court decision concerning 1915 Improvement bonds. Santa Ana tax delinquencies amount to $218,000 for 1931, 1932 and 1933 and will be higher following the last tax assessment.

Since Downing was ordered by the city council to confer with legal authorities in Los Angeles and other cities, he has temporarily dropped the prosecution on the alleged liquor law violators. He spent last Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Los Angeles and San Diego and was undecided today whether it would be necessary for him to go to San Francisco and Sonoma tomorrow. He intimated that he would be successful in preventing the assessment of a heavy tax levy.

The appeal to the superior court is being made by Attorney Morris Cain on behalf of his client, E. G. Minnemam, who was found guilty in police court of operating and conducting a public barroom and saloon. Cain has filed notice of appeal and expects to have his statement completed and submitted to the court this week. On stipulation of both attorneys, it is hoped that a hearing can be held in the near future.

If the Minnemam conviction is upheld by the higher court, Downing said he would continue the prosecution of scheduled cases at once. He said that when juries would fail to convict after such damaging evidence was presented as in the case against Charlie's Barn case on South Main street in court last Thursday, he felt it was a waste of taxpayers' money to continue paying jurymen and court costs.

In the trials to date, one defendant was convicted, one was acquitted, three juries disagreed and were dismissed while Judge J. G. Mitchell holds a sixth case under advisement.

Two cases were scheduled this week, E. F. Hardy tomorrow and Claude R. Irby Thursday. Both men were charged with the barroom complaint.

Downing said he would confer with Judge Mitchell today regarding the continuing of the trials until such time as the higher court makes a decision.

"MAY I PRESENT YOU WITH A TICKET?"

Captain Henry Meehan of the California Highway Patrol got the surprise of his life yesterday when he stopped Miss Hazel Lee in a speedy Buick sedan on Santa Ana boulevard. She told him she was rushing tickets for the Mid-Summer Motor Pageant to the Fullerton agency of the Reid Motor company to secure votes in the queen contest. And in exchange for the traffic citation, she persuaded the officer to buy a ticket for the motor show on June 27 in the Municipal Bowl.

COURTS GRANT NINE DIVORCE DECREES HERE

Seven divorces in seven minutes was the speed record of the divorce mill in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court Friday, records showed today.

Two other divorces were granted Friday and Saturday, one by Judge G. K. Scovel and the other by Judge Lloyd Griffin, of San Diego. Judge Scovel granted a decree to Gladys M. Wyatt against Henry E. Wyatt, on grounds of cruelty and nonsupport. They were married in Kansas City, December 8, 1920, and separated September 5, 1932.

Judge Griffin granted Mrs. Doris Cullen a divorce from George W. Cullen on grounds of intemperance and cruelty. The Cullens were married in Riverside May 25, 1927 and separated April 20, 1934.

Doris Jones against Floyd Jones, grounds cruelty. Mr. and Mrs. Jones married in 1918 in South Dakota and separated April 3, 1934.

Hova M. Gray against Leo L. Gray, grounds desertion and nonsupport. The couple married January 13, 1926, in Los Angeles, and separated April 5, 1931.

Frank R. Potts against Lena A. M. Caspari, 34, proprietor of the Hot Brau cafe, was arrested at 1:30 a. m. Sunday for selling liquor after midnight in violation of the recently adopted city ordinance regulating the sale of intoxicating beverages.

After Caspari sold a glass of beer to E. Brown in the presence of Police Captain Jess Buckles, he was taken to the police station, booked and released without bail. Time for arraignment was set for 2 p. m. today, at which time it was understood that Caspari would plead guilty, be sentenced by Judge J. G. Mitchell and then appeal the case to the superior court, or bring the matter before the superior court on a habeas corpus writ.

Local liquor dealers are understood to have banded together to make a test case on the new ordinance. They contend that the recent city ordinance is unconstitutional when it sets the closing time at midnight, which is two hours sooner than state laws. The city council, acting on the recommendation of City Attorney Clyde Downing, proceeded on the theory that a city may restrict the state law within reason.

A. F. Granas, manager of the Coast Beverage company, was tried by a jury in police court on May 22 on the same charge but the jury disagreed and was dismissed by Judge J. G. Mitchell. No date was set for the retrial of his case.

Miss Esther Garrett, an employee in the cafe of James Jackson at 112 North Main street, was the first person charged with violating the midnight law. She pleaded guilty and was fined $50 but the fine was suspended because she said she was acting on Jackson's instructions and he was coming up for trial on the barroom charge with the other defendants arrested in a series of arrests made by Santa Ana police officers on the day Chief Floyd Howard announced his candidacy for sheriff.

Caspari was one of 20 persons arrested in the recent liquor raids by police and had a jury trial scheduled for May 15 on a charge of conducting a public barroom and saloon. He succeeded in having the case continued, however, and it is scheduled for June 20.

The arrest Sunday night was pre-arranged with the city police department.

Wm. Billingsley, OF PIONEER FAMILY, CALLED BY DEATH
William Patterson Billingsley, 50, formerly of Villa Park and a member of one of the pioneer families of Orange county, died Saturday night at the California Lutheran hospital at Los Angeles following a long illness and a major operation performed Saturday morning. He was living at 4204 Chevy Chase drive, Los Angeles.

He is survived by his widow, Clara Berghatt Billingsley; a son, Billie Billingsley who is a student at the University of California at Los Angeles; a brother, Harlowe R. Billingsley, of Santa Ana, and two sisters, Mrs. Ross O. Anthony, of Villa Park and Mrs. Stanley A. Seale, of Glendale.

Born in Vinton, Iowa, he had been a resident of Southern California since early childhood. He was the eldest son of Ray Billingsley, attorney and rancher of Orange county and pioneer settler of Villa Park. Mr. Billingsley was a graduate of Orange Union High school and of Santa Ana Business college, and studied two years at Iowa State university. He was a realtor for the greater part of his career.

Funeral services will be held at Forest Lawn Memorial park, Los Angeles, tomorrow at 1:30 p. m.

VOTESPOURING IN FOR AUTO PAGEANT QUEEN

Votes in the queen contest for the Mid-Summer Motor Pageant on June 27 are beginning to pour into the ballot boxes as pretty girls all over Orange county strive to win the first prize of a week's vacation trip to Catalina.

Each of the queen candidates is sponsored by a county automotive firm. The contest and pageant are under the sponsorship of the Automotive Trades association of Orange County and the Santa Ana American Legion post.

The motor pageant in the Santa Ana Bowl on June 27 will feature regular midget auto races, fashion show, showing of new cars and trucks, band music and other forms of entertainment.

Votes are secured by buying tickets to the pageant, clipping auto race ads from this paper and attending the Wednesday auto races.

COMMERCIAL WORK ON J. C. SCHEDULE AT SUMMER SCHOOL

Typing and shorthand courses in Santa Ana junior college summer school, June 15 to July 27, will be designed to assist adults engaged in secretarial work who wish to make improvements on their present skill, as well as to give students instruction in the work, it was announced today by Miss Genevieve Humiston, instructor in secretarial practice.

"Although speed cannot be stressed in a short summer school course," states Miss Humiston "we are able to give the foundations for typing and shorthand in that time so that beginners will be able to practice on their own time."

Instructions will be given also in business arithmetic, a course which must be taken before finishing Santa Ana junior college, unless students are able to pass a mathematics test. Students who take this in summer school will not have to include it in their regular curriculum, McKee Flak, jaycee dean, said. Mathematics courses will also include algebra and plane geometry, under the instruction of H. O. Russell, acting dean while Flak attends school in Los Angeles.

Political science, which is required for jaycee graduation, will be taught by L. L. Beeman. He will also offer courses in high school history and civics. Milton V. Newcomer will teach regular curriculum courses in geography and economics.

Further information on summer school courses may be secured from the junior college office at Walnut and Ross streets.

OBSERVE 48TH ANNIVERSARY OF ORANGE CHURCH

ORANGE, June 11.—With many former members present, with others from distant points sending letters of greeting which were read to the assemblage, and with the Rev. Alonzo Petty, of Los Angeles, who organized the church nearly a half century ago, in attendance, the Orange Baptist church celebrated its 48th birthday anniversary Sunday with a series of special meetings.

The morning session was marked with a Children's day program at 9:30 o'clock, with special music by the choir, solo, "Leave It With Him," by Bob Neece, and sermon by the Rev. Mr. Petty, who served as first pastor of the church, "The Jesus That Jesus Preached."

Harry Putnam, of Azusa, son of Mrs. Ida Putnam, prominent member of the church, sang at the morning service. Baptismal services were conducted for six new members and the hand of fellowship was extended to them, as well as a number of other new members, at the communion service which followed.

New members included Mrs. Mary Tarango, Ethel and Victor Tarango, William E. and Mrs. Martha Smiley, Glenn Spurlock, Andy Allen, Mrs. Mary Powell and Wesley Powell, Louis, Tommy and Mary Moreno, Mrs. Ma-Linda Morse, Edith and Dorothy Morse, Mrs. Bertha Peralto and Mrs. Anna Schaffert.

At the close of the communion service, the dinner was enjoyed, during which the letters of greeting from distant former members were read, and testimony given by long-time members of the church, some of whom were members 45 and 46 years ago.

Following the union baccalaureate service at the high school in the evening, addressed by the Rev. Mr. Sheerer of this church, the young people's meeting was held, and addressed by Leonard Eilers, "cowboy evangelist," who had conducted revival services here. He talked on the subject "Punching Cows for the Lord."

The evening service at 7:30 o'clock was featured by an address by the Rev. William H. Galbraith, of Long Beach, and a former pastor of the local church. "The Cure for a Troubled Heart," and special music, including a solo by Elbert Burt, special music by the choir, and numbers by the Calvary Four, of Wilmington, including Henry Hedrick, John Canfield, Bob Haley, and Charles Thomas. Miss Louise Allen acted as accompanist at the day's services.

ORANGE, June 11.—The greatest need of America is not that she be developed, but that the American be developed," stated the Rev. H. F. Sheerer, pastor of the First Baptist church, in a sermon given at the union baccalaureate services held Sunday evening in the High school auditorium.

He further related that graduation is a time to predict and plan achievements for one's life. "In order to realize these predictions, one must have courage, conviction, concentration and consecration," he declared.

"March of the Priest," by Mendelssohn, the processional march, was played on the organ by Percy Green, who also accompanied the group singing. Invocation was led by Dr. Robert Burns McAlay, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, while the Rev. J. A. Shirley, rector of the Trinity Episcopal church, read the scripture.

"The Lord Is Exalted," West, was sung by the combined boys' and girls' glee clubs, under the direction of Green. Benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Franklin Minck, pastor of the First Christian church, followed by the organ postlude, "Finale from Sonata No. 6," Merkel, played by Green.

GROWTH URGED IN CHRISTIAN LIFE, IDEALS

VILLA PARK, June 11.—Urging a continued growth in the life and ideals of Christianity, as Jesus "increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man," the Rev. Wesley P. Ford delivered his first sermon at the Villa Park Community church Sunday following his recent ordination to the ministry.

He said, in part: "I think our biggest task is to keep growing after we have started, but how easy it is to become fixed or stationary, there to live until we die. In a city there was a building. At first they had planned to have a 10-story building, but after the foundation was laid there was not enough money, so it was only a two-story building. Think of a two-story building on a 10-story foundation! I think I have seen lives like that. God made the beasts of the earth after their kind, and everything that creepeth after its kind. And God said 'Let us make man in our image, after our likeness.' Man was changed to the thing that he was of God.

"God laid the foundation and gave us a world of other materials. God says to man, 'I give you the foundation for your life, take it and build what you will. What cheap materials the world uses. How many take only the cheap material things! How little of God do we see!"

"How much can be crowded into the window at a cheap store, and nothing very worth while. Sometimes I think lives are like that. How often we fill our lives with little things. Jesus didn't. I have no right to stand in the way of God's progress; I have no right to lay a stumbling-block in the life of a brother. If we let cheap materials come into our lives, His kingdom is not complete. 'There is work to be done; there are slaves to be freed, there is a kingdom to be built. Dare I be anything but loving to my fellow men regardless of race, color or creed? When men the world around know God we will find ourselves living in the kingdom of God. We cannot separate God from any human life for God is there, a part of every human life."

PETTY THEFTS KEEP ANAHEIM POLICE BUSY AT IRVINE PARK

ANAHEIM, June 11.—Theft of one automobile and several petty thefts kept the police department busy during the week end.

James Gulariti of Riverside, living at Citrus Camp in this city at present, reported this morning that his automobile had been driven away from the camp some time between 10 p. m. last night and 6:30 this morning. He said that he suspected a man who came into the camp late last night and left early this morning for Los Angeles. The co-operation of Los Angeles police in recovering the automobile has been requested by local police.

R. A. Groninger, Silverado, reported to the police yesterday that someone stole the radiator cap off his automobile during the early morning hours. He had stopped for a meal at a local cafe and when he started to drive away discovered the loss of the cap. Mr. Petty, who served as first pastor of the church, "The Jesus That Jesus Preached."

Harry Putnam, of Azusa, son of Mrs. Ida Putnam, prominent member of the church, sang at the morning service. Baptismal services were conducted for six new members and the hand of fellowship was extended to them, as well as a number of other new members, at the communion service which followed.

JUNIORS AND SENIORS HOLD ANNUAL DINNER

ORANGE, June 11.—Members of the senior class of the Orange Union High school were entertained Saturday night by the junior class at the annual junior-senior banquet, held in the school cafeteria. Tables were attractive in pastel appointments, with light provided by tall tapers.

Bob Clark, president of the junior class, presided as toastmaster, delivering the address of welcome. The response was given by Vernon Mansur, president of the senior class. A short skit, "Jimmy," was presented by the Visel studio after which Cleo Smith, of Santa Ana, sang several vocal solos. A monologue was interpreted by Miss Jeanette Bodman.

A trio composed of Miss Dorothy Aming, piano; Miss Gertrude Aming, cello and Miss Gloria Schre, violin, played several instrumental numbers, followed by a reading given by Miss Shirley Haines. An original impersonation was given by Miss June Arnold, of Santa Ana. David Wettlin was in charge of arrangements for the program.

ANAHEIM, June 11.—Capt. Marcus Andrade, veteran police officer of the Anaheim department has returned to duty after having been seriously ill for several days. Captain Andrade, his wife and two grandchildren were stricken Thursday night with severe attacks of ptomaine poisoning after having eaten lemon pie obtained from a local bakery.

Captain Andrade returned to duty at the police department yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Andrade and the children also are recovering from the effects of the poisoning.

Extended Illness Results In Death Of Walter Davis
Walter C. Davis, 60, resident of Santa Ana for the past 13 years, died at his home, 1821 West Eighth street, yesterday, following an extended illness.

He was the husband of Mrs. Tillie Davis; father of Mrs. Leona Vinson and Don Davis of Santa Ana, and brother of Mrs. Flora Everett, of Santa Ana.

Notice of the time of funeral services will be given later by the Smith and Tutill Funeral home.

'ZEKE'S BUNCH' HOLDS REUNION AT IRVINE PARK

"Zeke's Bunch," composed of persons who attended the Tustin school during the 20 years when J. J. Zielan, known as "Zeke," was principal of the school, held an annual reunion yesterday at Irvine park.

It was the eleventh annual reunion and several hundred former students of the instructor, who now lives in Santa Ana, gathered to honor their former school head.

An unique feature of the event was the ringing of the old Tustin school bell, which used to call the students, now pioneers of the county, to their classrooms. Zielan was principal of the Tustin school from 1889 to 1909.

Another feature of the reunion was the distribution of printed booklets, which included an introduction by Supervisor W. C. Jarome, the story of Tustin schools by Zielan, a record of the teaching staff, a record of deceased and of known addresses.

Mr. Jehnland, special Factory Representative of the National Pressure Cooker Co., of Eau Claire, Wis., will demonstrate how to cook more tasty and healthful meals in less time and with less fuel in their New DeLuxe Pressure Cooker. He cordially invites every housewife in Orange Co. to attend. The demonstration will be held in Wiesseman's New Basement Store.

ROEHM SEEKS RE-ELECTION AS CONSTABLE

Cornish J. Roehm today announced that he will be a candidate for re-election as constable in the Santa Ana township. "In the belief that a record of efficient public service is the paramount qualification for return to office," Roehm, in making his announcement, referred his record of nine years' experience in law enforcement work, to the inspection of the voters.

The statement said: "Roehm has lived in Santa Ana for the past 22 years. A large part of his experience in law enforcement work was obtained here, thus giving him a loyalty to the community and a broad understanding of the conditions in the city where he intends to continue making his home.

"His local work as a peace officer began seven years ago when he became a member of the police force here. He served successfully in that capacity for three years, and at the time of his election as constable was known to hundreds of Santa Ana residents as 'the smiling traffic cop' at Fourth and Broadway. He is just completing his first term in his present office."

"Constable Roehm graduated from grammar school and high school in Santa Ana. He is 35 years of age, is married and is the father of four children. Having served in the World War, he is a member of Santa Ana post No. 131 of the American Legion. He also is affiliated with the Masonic lodge."

CLASS HOLDS REUNION

Those attending were Phyllis Snow, Lanelle Love, Irene Lutter, Sara Louise Ostot, Ellen Edward, Edna Lee Harrison, Mitseo Sugita, Satsue Sadakane, Marvin Penhall,

ASKS RETURN

Cornish J. Roehm, below, today announced his candidacy for re-election as constable of Santa Ana township.

Richard Ferguson, William Broyles, Ray Canigo, Matsonia Mimemoto, Takayuki Tashima, John Montgomery, John Mori, Raymond Best and Melba Crane.

DAUGHTER AND FATHER UNITE AFTER 28 YEARS

The joy of being reunited to a daughter whom he had not seen for 28 years, and of whom he had lost all trace, is being experienced by Henry J. Schmidt, 905 East Washington avenue, a well known piano finisher and cabinet maker of the city. Recent arrival of his daughter, Mrs. Walter Grubb, and her own two young daughters, Jeanne and Helen, from their home in Bellvue, Ohio, brought this reunion, the joy of which, Mr. Schmidt declares made him the full 28 years younger.

Separation of members of the little family occurred in Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1906, when Henry J. Schmidt went to New York. He had been employed in the Packard piano plant at Fort Wayne, and continued the same line of work in New York and later in Wisconsin and Illinois, and eventually as head of the finishing department in the Brunswick, Balke, Collender company of Dubuque, Iowa. Through these various moves, he and his daughter and son completely lost touch with each other, and the father, marrying again, finally located in Santa Ana where he has been established for more than a dozen years for himself, after working one year with Robert R. Shafer.

It was through an uncle of the present Mrs. Schmidt, H. N. Lykuf of Fort Wayne, a frequent winter visitor in California, that the brother and sister finally got in touch with their father, and the present joyous family reunion was the direct result.

Mrs. Grubb has been living for the past 25 years in Bellvue where Mr. Grubb is with the Nickel Plate railroad. She and her daughters, the Misses Jeanne and Helen Grubb, will spend the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt.

BULLETINS TELL LAGUNA P. O. RULES

LAGUNA BEACH, June 11.—In anticipation of a heavy mail business during the summer months, taxing to the utmost the limited service facilities of his office, Postmaster Brayton S. Norton today posted bulletins in the post-office lobby, calling attention to regulations governing lock boxes.

In order to insure accurate and prompt delivery of mail to box holders, especially to those residing here for the summer season, Postmaster Norton suggested that box numbers be placed on all incoming mail. If mail is being forwarded from another office to Laguna Beach, patrons should furnish that office with the local lock box number, an arrangement which will go far to speed distribution and delivery, he explained.

He also requested that those having mail sent in care of lock boxes do not ask the post office officials to open boxes for them except in cases of emergency or absolute emergency. If a boxholder desires another person to receive his mail, it is suggested that he furnish him with the key or combination.

It's an ELECTROLUX

They Display it With Pride

Of course they're proud of their new ELECTROLUX.

Proud because it is so modern, so chuck full of the new conveniences, so attractive ... and so ECONOMICAL!

"Kitchen parties" are frequent in the home equipped with this natural gas refrigerator. Guests are eager to see it, owners are proud to show it.

It is surprising how much free and unsolicited "word-of-mouth" advertising Electro-lux receives from enthusiastic owners.

That probably accounts for the record breaking sales. Just as the happy married woman is an inveterate "match-maker" for her girl friends, so is the proud owner of ELECTROLUX an enthusiastic sales promoter for this modern refrigerator among his friends and acquaintances.

P.-T. A. GIVES COMMENT ON RECENT MOVIES

Mrs. M. W. Hollingsworth, newly appointed chairman of the moving picture committee of Santa Ana Council of Parents and Teachers, today released a bulletin containing recommendations made by the California Congress of Parents and Teachers on recent films.

Recommendations on the pictures by the P.-T. A. are as follows:

"He Was Her Man," Warner Brothers picture with James Cagney and Joan Blondell. "Adults, matter of taste; 14-18, unsuitable; 8-14, no."

"Little Man What Now," Universal with Margaret Sullivan and Douglas Montgomery. "Adults, food for thought; 14-18, too sophisticated; 8-14, no."

"Most Precious Thing in Life," Columbia with Jean Arthur and Donald Cook. "Family, adults and 14-18, good; 8-14, mature."

"Murder on the Blackboard," RKO with Edna May Oliver and James Gleason. "Adults, good; 14-18, yes; 8-14, no."

"Orders is Orders," British-Gaumont with Charlotte Greenwood and James Gleason. "Adults, matter of taste; 14-18, unsuitable; 8-14, no."

"Strictly Dynamite," RKO with Jimmy Durante and Lupe Velez. "Adults, fair; 14-18, perhaps; 8-14, no."

"The Thin Man," MGM with William Powell and Myrna Loy. "Adults, entertaining; 14-18, unsuitable; 8-14, no."

LEGION MEDAL IS WORN BY GRADUATE

NEWPORT BEACH, June 11.—Miss Phoebe Denison, of Newport Beach, is one of the proud wearers of scholarship medals awarded by the American Legion for outstanding attainments by members of this year's eighth grade graduating classes throughout Orange county. She received the coveted award at the graduating exercises at the Newport Harbor Union High school Thursday evening from Claude Pullen, representing the Legion. The scholarship award for boys was given to Daniel Campos at the same time.

As the student of highest ranking in the class, Miss Denison gave the salutatory address, and was also given a citation for her winning essay on "The United States of the World," a second citation winner being Miss Patricia Smith.

ROEHM SEEKS RE-ELECTION AS CONSTABLE

Cornish J. Roehm today announced that he will be a candidate for reelection as constable in the Santa Ana township, "in the belief that a record of efficient public service is the paramount qualification for return to office."

Roehm, in making his announcement, referred his record of nine years' experience in law enforcement work, to the inspection of the voters.

The statement said: "Roehm has lived in Santa Ana for the past 22 years. A large part of his experience in law enforcement work was obtained here, thus giving him a loyalty to the community and a broad understanding of the conditions in the city where he intends to continue making his home."

"His local work as a peace officer began seven years ago when he became a member of the police force here. He served successfully in that capacity for three years, and at the time of his election as constable was known to hundreds of Santa Ana residents as 'the smiling traffic cop' at Fourth and Broadway. He is just completing his first term in his present office."

"Constable Roehm graduated from grammar school and high school in Santa Ana. He is 35 years of age, is married and is the father of four children. Having served in the World War, he is a member of Santa Ana post No. 131 of the American Legion. He also is affiliated with the Masonic lodge."

CLASS HOLDS REUNION

WESTMINSTER, June 11.—Members of the 1932 graduating class of Westminster school held their first annual class reunion recently, the group of 40 motorists to Irvine park in company with Prof. James Monroe and Miss Nellie French of the faculty for a day's outing and luncheon.

Those attending were Phyllis Snow, Lanelle Love, Irene Lutter, Sara Louise Oister, Ellen Edward, Edna Lee Harbison, Mitaco Sugita, Satsue Sadakane, Marvin Penhall, and Melba Crane.

ASKS RETURN

Cornish J. Roehm, below, today announced his candidacy for re-election as constable of Santa Ana township.

DAUGHTER AND FATHER UNITE AFTER 28 YEARS

The joy of being reunited to a daughter whom he had not seen for 28 years, and of whom he had lost all trace, is being experienced by Henry J. Schmidt, 905 East Washington avenue, a well known piano finisher and cabinet maker of the city. Recent arrival of his daughter, Mrs. Walter Grubb, and her own two young daughters, Jeanne and Helen, from their home in Bellvue, Ohio, brought this reunion, the joy of which Mr. Schmidt declares made him the full 28 years younger.

Separation of members of the little family occurred in Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1906, when Henry J. Schmidt went to New York. He had been employed in the Packard piano plant at Fort Wayne, and continued the same line of work in New York and later in Wisconsin and Illinois, and eventually as head of the finishing department in the Brunswick Bells, Collender company of Dubuque, Iowa. ## 345 SUPER STARS IN BIG MEET

World Records For Every Event Believed in Jeopardy

FOUR-MINUTE MILE PREDICTED

By AL WESSON

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—Fans here accustomed to movie terminology of "super," "colossal," "stupendous" and "epic" were hunting around for more potent adjectives today as they considered the tentative entry list for the N. C. A. A. track and field championships to be held June 22 and 23 under the sponsorship of the University of Southern California in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Performances this season of the 345 stars already tentatively entered in the National Intercollegiate championships indicate that national and world records are in jeopardy in almost every event, what with the Metcalfs, Klesels, Cummings, Bonthrons, Hornostels, Hardins, LuValles, Venkes, Sears, Martys, Torrances, Lymanas and other men of speed and might who will take part in the two-day carnival of champions.

Headed by Ralph Metcalf, the Marquette Meteor, who holds both the 100 and 200 championships at 3.4 and 20.4 seconds in the N. C. A. A. meet, and Bob Kiesel, the Berkeley Bullet, 1 C. 4-A. champ in both sprints and unbeaten this year, the sprint field contains six men who have done 3.6 seconds or better this year in the century and 14 men who have done 3.7 or better.

Beating 45 seconds is a common occurrence for many of the entries in the quarter-mile field.

and the defending champion, Glenn Hardin of Louisiana State, has a mark this year of 46.8 seconds. Hardin will face Jimmy LuValle, last year's 1 C. 4-A. 400-meter champ; Al Blackman, present 1 C. 4-A. champ; Ivan Fugua, Big Ten champ, and Johnny McCarthy, all of whom have done 47.3 or better this year, as well as an amazingly strong field of quarter-milers who have approached this mark.

Charley Hornostel of Indiana will defend his twice won half-mile title and will be out to lower his world's record of 1 minute, 50.4 seconds, which he set in the N. C. A. A. meet last year. He and Ben Eastman both have applied for the world's mark of 1:50.9.

Coch Dean Cromwell of the University of Southern California is authority for the statement that the winner of the Glenn Cunningham-Bill Bonthron-Gene Venke mile will set a new all-time mark of close to 4 minutes, while Ray Sears of Butler, who has run the fastest two-mile race ever stepped by an American, is frankly gunning for Paavo Nurmi's sensational record.

Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist and Sam Klopstock of Stanford, both of whom have run the high hurdles in 14.4 seconds this year, will find a fast field in which George Fisher of Louisiana State, Southeastern conference champion, heads the challenge. In the low hurdles, Hardin is an outstanding favorite to repeat the victory that he scored in 22.9 seconds last year, but Heye Lambertus, N. C. A. A. runner-up; John Herring, Southwest champion of Texas A. and M., and Klopstock, 1 C. 4-A. champ, will be hot on his trail.

Three javelin throwers who have exceeded 220 feet will head the strongest field in that event, with Jack Torrance of Louisiana State and John Lyman of Stanford in action. Torrance leads the field because of his tremendous heave of 55 feet, 1 1/2 inches made at the Drake Relays.

Hugh Cannon of Brigham Young university has thrown the discus 160 feet this season; Gordon Dunn of Stanford has reached 155.4, and Chester Cruikshank of Colorado State has a mark of 157.8.5. Cruikshank is considered more dangerous in the hammer, because of his mark of 170 feet, 10 inches.

Close behind are Don Favor of Maine, 1 C. 4-A. champion; Henry Dreyer of Rhode Island State, second to Favor this year, and Pete Zarembo of N. Y. U. 1 C. 4-A. winner in 1932 and 1933 and third place winner in the 1932 Olympic games.

Walter Marty of Fresno State and George Spitz of N. Y. U. will meet in the high jump, and a new world's record is possible. Marty has cleared 6.9 or better twice this year, while Spitz, 1 C. 4-A. champion for the past two years, has a mark of 6.8 3/4. Bob Clark of California and Henry Little of William and Mary head a strong broad jump field, with Al Olson of S. C., as a strong threat. Little has a 40-foot record and Clark hit 24.11 3/4 recently.

CORNELL, NAVY MAY UPSET COAST CREWS

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 11.—(UP)—With all regatta crews on the river today, observers will train their eyes on the relative showing of Cornell and the Navy, to determine how they stack up against the giant invaders from California and Washington.

While the Huskies were made early favorites, and the Bears, on their showing on the river, have been spotted by experts as the crew to beat, Eastern rowing circles see strong possibilities in either Ithaca's eight or the Navy, an unknown quantity.

Cornell held a brief workout yesterday but it was chiefly unimpressive. The Navy arrived too late to get on the water. Shifts in lineup may have impaired the big Red crew beyond redemption. Syracuse has been improving and is showing well, but does not display the power of the smooth-rowing Californians.

It is expected the Bears will be favorites at race-time, with Washington and probably Syracuse in order, and the Navy the dark horse. Columbia is weak and Pennsylvania has not been impressive.

Italy Wins World Soccer Final, 2-1

ROME, June 11.—(UP)—Italy held the world soccer championship today, following a blistering duel with Czechoslovakia yesterday which Italy won after extra periods, 2-1.

WATSON JOINS OLIVE: BENEFIT GAME JUNE 23

Pitcher Paul ("Chandu") Watson, the man of many motions, will join Olive's National league ball club tomorrow night and pitch for the Packers against Westminster.

Watson's release from the sister American league, hanging fire since the beginning of the season, was finally obtained today by Ben Gelker, Olive business manager. San Bernardino held up the pitcher's transfer a month in a vain effort to secure his services but Watson stuck steadfast to a previous declaration that he never would return to inland territory — and San Bernardino eventually waived him out of its league.

"Chandu" was allowed to pitch for Westminster last season only on condition that he would revert to Colton at the end of the season. Colton could not use him, but an inter-league agreement forced Gelker to secure a written release from every manager in the American circuit before Watson became eligible in this wheel.

Perhaps the most colorful gunner in night ball, Watson's chief claim to fame and success is a trick delivery which last year had the best hitters of the league breaking their backs. Whittier was hopelessly in the cellar before Watson came to the club. After he reported, the Poets climbed into third place. Watson has been residing at Hanford, where he recently was married.

Night baseball's tribute game to its No. 1 batsman, the crippled Ora Sands, will be played at Anaheim the night of Saturday, June 23.

An all-star lineup of National league players, picked by newspapermen and Manager Ben Gelker of Olive, will oppose a similarly selected all-star team from the American league. All receipts will go to Sands, out of Olive's lineup indefinitely with a broken ankle. Sands was the best hitter in the game last summer with an average of .322.

Tickets will be put on sale in every city in National league territory, according to current plans.

Santa Ana gets its first glimpse of Randolph Bell's hustling Pullerton club at the Municipal Bowl tomorrow night in the first league contest played here in two weeks.

Pullerton has made all its games close and recently defeated Anaheim, 3-1. Bell is continually changing his roster in an effort to secure more hitting strength, the only thing Pullerton needs to become a genuine flag contender.

League statistics:

| NATIONAL NIGHT LEAGUE |            |            |  |
|-----------------------|------------|------------|--|
| Huntington Beach      | W. L. Pct. | W. L. Pct. |  |
| Westminster           | 5 3 .625   | 5 3 .625   |  |
| Olive                 | 5 3 .625   | 5 3 .625   |  |
| Anaheim               | 5 3 .625   | 5 3 .625   |  |

| Santa Ana             | 3 5 .429   | 3 5 .429   |  |
| Long Beach            | 3 5 .429   | 3 5 .429   |  |

Tuesday's Games
Pullerton at Santa Ana; Olive at Westminster; Anaheim at Long Beach; Torrance at Huntington Beach.

The Stars have three games on their schedule this week, meeting Pullerton Tuesday, Anaheim either Thursday or Friday, and then facing Huntington Beach here Saturday in a playoff of their rain-outed conflict.

This arrangement demands considerable of the Santa Ana pitching staff, especially since Huntington Beach plays Olive Thursday rather than Friday, so Santa Ana officials have requested Anaheim to shift the Santa Ana-Anaheim game ahead to Thursday. No decision had been reached at a late hour today.

San Bernardino continues to cling desperately to its narrow lead in the American league, pressed closely by Pomona, Riverside, pre-season favorite, is in the second division but still a mathematical possibility. The standings:

| AMERICAN NITE LEAGUE |            |           |            |

LASKY 10-8 CHOICE TO WHIP LEVINSKY

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—(UP)—King Levinsky, Chicago fish merchant, will take a beating at his speculators are right in the figures. Odds quoted on the eve of their scheduled 10-round battle established the Minneapolis mauler a 10-8 favorite.

Lichtenwalter And Foltz Clash Tonight

Lloyd Lichtenwalter and "Baldy" Foltz, two of the ace pitchers of the Santa Ana City Baseball league, hook up tonight when the Union Oilers and the Commercial National bank meet in the Municipal Bowl at 8 o'clock. The 7 o'clock preliminary matches the M. E. South Juniors and Weber's Bakery.

Foltz hurled a two-hit shutout against the Elks last week, and may be good enough to keep his team in the running for the championship.

President Kenneth Morrison today announced that Thursday's City league doubleheader, involving the M. E. South Juniors, the Elks and the 20-30 club, would not be played on account of Flag Day exercises at the Bowl that evening.

WILDE, SECOND IN PENTATHLON, TO SEE MEXICO

A trip to Mexico City, with all expenses paid, for the International Pentathlon finals August 4 was today's glowing prospect for Bob Wilde, Santa Ana high school youth, who finished second in the Southern California senior championships at Riverside Saturday.

Wilde scored 4706 points as runner-up to the winner, Jess Humber of Watts, a colored boy who aggregated 4720. Clarence Mackey of Watts was first and Don Muser of Highland Park second in the junior division. Lawrence Drusser of Santa Ana placing eighth.

Winners and runners-up will be sent to Mexico City by a Los Angeles newspaper which annually promotes the Southern California pentathlon.

Wilde defeated Humber in four of the five events, but his heavier co-efficient requirements enabled the Watts youngster to beat him 14 points. Wilde high-jumped 19 feet, 2 3/4 inches; ran 75 yards in 3 seconds; tossed 29 baskets, and shoved the 5-pound ball 58 feet, 9 inches. Humber defeated Wilde only in the high jump, 5:3 1-4.

La Habra Scores In Ninth To Nip Santa Anita, 2-1

In a contest replete with thrills, La Habra eked out a 2-1 victory over Santa Anita here Sunday, squaring a series between the two ball teams.

La Habra made its deciding run in the first of the ninth on Villa's single and Martinez's double. Santa Anita loaded the bases in the last of the ninth with none out on B. Koral's walk. Fred "Ricks" Single and Villa's infield hit but Maldonado forced Koral at the plate, Alcantar fanned and Miller forced Maldonado at second.

La Habra got its first run in the first inning. Alvarez walked, Grjalva was hit by a pitched ball and Ponce scored Alvarez with a single.

Santa Anita tied it in the sixth on Friend's single on which he went to second on Villa's error, and B. Koral's single.

BAER, CARNERA IN LAST DRILL FOR BIG FIGHT

NEW YORK, June 11.—(UP)—The battle of baffling ballyhoo is as good as on. Both parties, Primo Carnera, champion, and Max Baer, challenger, reported themselves fit as fiddles today as they moved in to final practice for their heavy-weight title scuffle Thursday.

Baer, who worked out yesterday before 3000 onlookers in what universally was pronounced the worst exhibition he has given since he started training, will wind up today with 10 rounds. Carnera expects to take a light workout tomorrow after his routine visit to the boxing commission for final okay.

The weird way the fight has been publicized virtually has closed all betting in the customary wagering marts. Carnera was a two-to-one shot last week, but smart money, wary of charges that Baer is a chump, is being withheld. Regular betting bazars have closed their books until the queer publicity is explained.

Meanwhile, Carnera himself appeared to be affected by the vague. His workout Sunday was one of the worst he has put on. He practiced his routine—left jab and right uppercut—with small success on his three punching partners. During five rounds he hardly landed a blow.

Whatever the idea may be behind it, talk of poor condition seems to have stimulated public interest. James Johnston, Madison Square Garden's matchmaker, reported that $250,000 already was in the coffers.

CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST TO BE BROADCAST

Should the Baer-Carnera fight be postponed from Thursday to the night after on account of weather conditions, radio listeners throughout the country still will receive a round-by-round description over National Broadcasting company networks.

Looking ahead to an unexpected emergency, NBC already has made arrangements to present the big encounter on the air Friday, June 15, at 6 p. m., Pacific Coast time. In case rain should cause officials to delay the match 24 hours.

NBC stations in the West scheduled to release the fight broadcast are KGO, KHK, KQO, KGW, KFI, KPSP, KJAR and KDYL.

NEW COUNTY LEAGUE WILL BEGIN SUNDAY

With a four-club membership—Anaheim Merchants, Anaheim Blue Eagles, Cypress and Garden Grove—a new Orange County Sunday baseball league will get under way next Sabbath. First games will pair Garden Grove and Cypress, and the two Anaheim teams.

Steve Luther's Anaheim Merchants took a 2-1 decision from Garden Grove yesterday in a pitcher's battle between Starkey and Miller. The Broncos rallied in the ninth, scoring once and having the tying run on base, before Miller tightened and retired the side. The box score:

BOXING ATTENDANCE JUMPS 40 PER CENT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 11.—Boxing and wrestling is on the upgrade in California now more than ever.

The first four months of the year showed substantial increases in receipts by the state boxing commission. In April the 5 per cent tax on athletic shows amounted to $7702.28 as compared with $5438.53 a year ago, an increase of 40 per cent.

"The total attendance at all shows in California during the month just passed was 206,446 as compared with 133,522 a year ago," a report revealed.

LITTLE BETTER THAN JONES? Czecho-Slovakia's Tennis Team Good Long Shot Bet CRICKET CHAMP ALSO GOLFER

By HENRY McLEMORE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, June 11.—Putting the sports shot here and there:

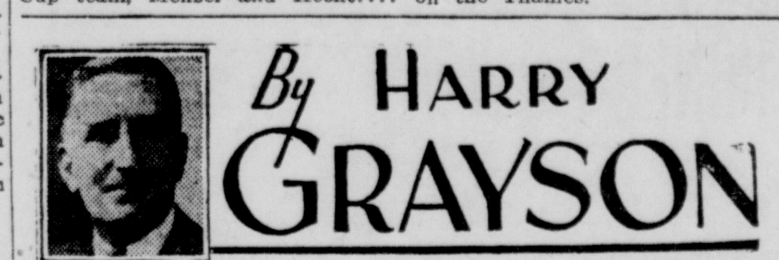

Bob Harris, several times British Amateur champion and one of the country's keenest golfing minds, rates Lawson Little a finer golfer than Bobby Jones at his best....Joan Ridley, ex-Wightman Cup performer, now runs a rabbit farm in Norfolk....and the coffee in the restaurants run by Betty Nuttall and her mother is terrible...."Bouncing Betty" by the way, now is enrolled in a cooking school....Britain's Davis Cup stock slumped considerably following the unexpected defeat of the team's members in the French championships....

Don McCorkindale, promising South African heavyweight, is through with boxing forever because of an injured back....Ray Arcel, one of the better known American fight trainers, is here and has been engaged by Harry Mizler, British lightweight champion, Marcel Thill, and a half dozen others to train them in New York next winter....If you want a good long shot tennis bet, get down a dollar or two on Czecho-Slovakia's Davis Cup team, Menzel and Hecht....

If Australia or America happens to have a bad day, the Czechs stand a good chance of going through to the challenge round....Don Bradman, world's best cricketer, an Australian, is a crack golfer, consistently shooting in the middle seventies....

Jimmy Wallace, out-of-work carpenter who went to the final of the British Amateur golf championship, has been offered a pro's job at a snooty London club....Wallace, by the way, is a grave-digger's son, and the first artisan to gain the final round of the amateur....even on the final day; when he was the hope of British golf, he was not allowed to enter the Prestwick club....Archib Compson agrees with Johnny Goodman that the only stymies that should be allowed are the ones a player makes for himself with a bad shot....

Peter Haig-Thomas, under whose coaching the Cambridge crew has defeated Oxford 11 straight; a row, has been fired because he would not stand for introduction of swivel oar locks....he is expected to take charge at Oxford, where the admiration for swivel oar locks is just as keen as at Cambridge, but where they'd smother this admiration for one victory on the Thames.

SLAPNICKA'S ERROR
Cyril Slapnicka never again will be washed out of a town when sent there for the purpose of inspecting a ball player. The "fox" forager of the Cleveland club would outlast a flood like Noah's.

Nor will Slapnicka ever again brand a pitcher a bug, even though he is a scoundrel who believes he is Napoleon, chases fire engines, and has a yen to be a snake charmer. There has been no snap judgment on the part of the Indianapolis agent since he journeyed to Alexandria, La., in 1929.

The Alexandria franchise was the property of Shreveport, which owed Cleveland $5000. The Shreveport management, eager to pay the debt with anything but money, suggested that Alva Bradley & Co. take an infielder at $1500 and a pitcher at $3500. They were the same age, 20, and the pick of the Alexandria team.

They had Cotton States league addictions excited, and "couldn't miss making good."

So Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland club, dispatched Scout Slapnicka to Alexandria. He was raining anvils in the Louisiana town the day Cy arrived. The Alexandria players—all save one—budded in the dugout. The exception sat on second base, which was all but floating in a driving rain, paddling an imaginary boat with barrel staves, to the great delight of a couple of barefooted kids.

His name is Lon Warneke, and Philip K. Wrigley would laugh right out loud in the face of any owner offering $50,000 for the loose

COUNTRY CLUB TO DELAY NEW APPOINTMENT

Mourning the death of the popular Floyd Finch, whose body was en route to Portland for burial, directors of the Santa Ana Country club said today they would take no action "for probably a month" toward appointing a new golf professional.

Finch passed away Saturday at 8:30 p. m. at St. Joseph's hospital where he had been confined since Tuesday, following an emergency operation for a ruptured appendix. The golfer's appendix burst before a physician was summoned. Peritonitis, which set in immediately, caused his death after four days. Only Finch's splendid physical condition enabled him to live that long, it was said.

Accompanied by Mrs. Finch, the professional's body was shipped late yesterday to the home of his mother in Portland, Ore. Mrs. Mattie Finch, 5355 Vancouver avenue, Finch would have been 30 Wednesday.

A handsome young man who had a striking facial resemblance to Bobby Jones, Finch had made a wide circle of friends among the golfing fraternity during his brief residence here. He was appointed three months ago, being the selection from a list of 25 applicants. Previously, he had been employed at Sunset Fields, Merced, Stanford University, and several golf stores in San Francisco and Portland. As coach of Stanford's team, he had instructed Lawson Little, British Amateur champion, and Charley Seaver, another widely known young player.

The board of directors of the Santa Ana club meets Wednesday night, but President G. C. Ross said only routine business would be considered. When Finch's successor will be appointed is not known, Dr. Ross said.

"We are all depressed by Mrs. Finch's death," said Dr. Ross. "He was tremendously popular with our membership. He was the finest type of sportsman, and it will be our aim to select a professional as nearly like him as possible."

Preston Piper, a graduating senior from Santa Ana High, and A. A. Beard, a veteran of the fairway wars, clash this week in the final round of the President's Cup tournament, one of the Santa Ana Country club's major golf events.

Eliminating C. P. Patton, the golfing jurist of Huntington Beach, in the semi-finals, young Piper qualified for the championship bracket in which another Saint player, Jack Robinson, won the cup a year ago. Beard put out A. W. Griffith, 2 and 1.

REV. MILLIGAN GIVES ADDRESS IN PLACENTIA

PLACENTIA, June 11.—Baccalaureate services for the first graduating class of the Valencia High school were held last night at the Bradford grammar school auditorium, with several hundred guests attending. Roy Tillery, the first student to be graduated from the school, is to be graduated

Tuesday at exercises to be held in the same place, with Vierling Kersey, superintendent of public instruction of the state, as principal speaker.

Peggy McFaul and Emma Bowers, violinists and Mrs. Thomas

Ralph Essert, superintendent of the schools, announced the exercises for the week, to include three programs for graduation groups.

Rev. Don Milligan, pastor of Calvary church, talked briefly of "The Glory of Young Men in Their Strength." He took the title and the theme from Proverbs and during the course of the address drew attention to the fact that spiritual strength is the great need of the individual as well as the nation.

She could shut her eyes, in the darkness, against anything too poignant to endure, but she could not close her ears. As she and Bill moved down the aisle her heart was pounding and a wild impulse to flee almost overpowered her.

Bill seemed to be enjoying himself hugely. Simple in tastes, with small opportunity for amusement he would have been a movie addict had he possessed the time. ## Baccalaureate Services Held For School Graduates

H. B. GRADUATES GET DIPLOMAS ON WEDNESDAY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 11.—Graduation exercises of the Huntington Beach Union High school will be completed this week. The baccalaureate service was held last night at the school auditorium and the presentation of diplomas will be held in the auditorium Wednesday night.

All the churches of the city dispensed with the usual Sunday night services on account of the baccalaureate sermon and program for the graduates. The school auditorium was filled to seating capacity.

The Rev. Luther A. Arthur, pastor of the Baptist church, presided as master of ceremonies. The Rev. William A. Matson, pastor of the Wintersburg Community Methodist church, pronounced the invocation. The Rev. Robert J. Coyne, pastor of the Seal Beach Community Methodist church, gave the scripture reading. The graduation sermon was delivered by the Rev. John H. Engle, pastor of the Methodist church of this city. The Rev. K. Kikuchi, pastor of the Japanese church at Westminster, pronounced the benediction.

BEACH CITY MAY GET BRANCH BANK

NEWPORT BEACH, June 11.—Possibility that the Bank of America might install a branch bank in Newport-Balboa was seen with the report by A. B. Rousseau, president of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, and Lew Wallace, director of the chamber, that D. W. Clark of the Bank of America in Los Angeles, was favorable to the plan.

The two local men, in company with C. K. Dodds of the Santa Ana bank branch, conferred with Clark last week, carrying with them statements of deposits and business given local banks in the two years prior to their closing, and estimates of the amount of banking business now going to Huntington Beach and Santa Ana banks.

It is said that the bank of America has undertaken surveys of the district with a view to establishing a branch and that there is some possibility of its so doing, owing to the fact that this community has been without a bank for so long. A report of the decision of officials of the institution is expected within the month.

CYPRESS STUDENTS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

CYPRESS, June 11.—Graduation exercises were held recently at the Cypress school auditorium. The entire program was presented by the class with the exception of the farewell talk by Jean Paulie of the seventh grade.

Diplomas were presented by G. E. Fridley, school trustee, to the following graduates: James Boehm, Mary Brown, Eugene Corey, Elizabeth Dusenberry, Teruyo Fukushima, Tomoki Nakamine, Paul Maser, Alvin Gonder, Helen Jamison, Elmer Proffer, Elizabeth Ledford, Margaret Ledford, Glen Williams, Mary Mori, Gertrude Nicholas, Reva Fridley, Frank Wirth, Doris Wirth, Marjorie Spies and Florence Varrieur.

Vote On Plan To Dissolve District Soon

CYPRESS, June 11.—A movement for dissolution of the Buena Park-Cypress Storm Water Protection district, which has been growing for some time, will culminate on June 26 in an election to dissolve the district, according to a call issued by the board of directors.

The balloting will be at the office of the Buena Park News in Buena Park and the election board will consist of Merrill Hunt, judge; Sam Miller, inspector; George McNeill, clerk; and J. F. Simpson, clerk.

PROPOSAL FOR SCHOOL ISSUE TURNED DOWN

CYPRESS, June 11.—Proposals for a $40,000 school bond issue, to be used in constructing a new school auditorium and extra class room, failed to meet with the approval of a representative group of taxpayers and school patrons, meeting in the schoolhouse Friday evening.

This was the second meeting on the proposal, first made several weeks ago, for a substantial expansion of the school plant. After considerable discussion, in which it was maintained that extensive additions are not essential at this time and that taxpayers do not look kindly upon additional burdens, the group adopted a motion recommending to the school board that the bond proposal be turned down at this time, and that the board build only two rooms, the money for which, $3500, is already available in a special building fund of the district.

There was also some discussion regarding school buses for pupils of the Cypress school but no action was taken.

THREE STREETS IMPROVED

WESTMINSTER, June 11.—The county is macadamizing three streets in Westminster, Olive street south from Westminster boulevard past the Hoover school, Plaza street and Locust street south from the Penhall Brothers garage. The improvement also consists of the widening to capacity of these streets.

GREATNESS IS DISCUSSED AT HARBOR SCHOOL

NEWPORT HEIGHTS, June 11.—The most important thing in life is to settle one's kinship with God, declared W. E. Robb, of Riverside, an army chaplain, who spoke to a World war, as he addressed the graduating class of the Newport Harbor Union High school on the theme, "The Measure of Greatness." In the school auditorium last night.

Men and women in history who have been impelled to help in the uplift of humanity have had a very definite kinship with God, he said. He further pointed out that no one has advanced very far into true greatness without a close relationship with Divinity. The measure of greatness is not the measure of freedom that one has, the speaker stated, pointing to a quotation from the Holy scriptures that says, "He who is great among you, must serve." Obedience to the divine will, and a willingness to serve one's fellowman, are two of the most marked signs of true greatness, he said.

Jerry Kiehl, former student body president, introduced the speaker. A large audience, representing the entire harbor district, was in attendance at the gathering.

The evening's program opened with a selection by the school orchestra, "Coronation March," by Meyerbeer, directed by Miss Marie Hiesch. The Rev. W. I. Lowe gave the invocation and Fred Briggs gave the scripture reading. The audience sang, "Come Thou Almighty King," led by Miss Hiesch and the boys' and girls' Glee club of the school sang "Seraphic Song." The glee club number included a solo by Miss Helen Davis and a violin obligato by Mauley Ropp. The Rev. Mr. Lowe pronounced the benediction.

Student speakers from the graduating class will occupy the main portion of the graduating exercises Wednesday evening, speaking on various phases of the subject, "Youth and America's Future." The speakers will be Miss Mary Phillips Currie, Miss Ardith Lowe, Miss Ruth Wasson, Miss Lorna Mills, Hugh McMillan and Ben A. Hitt. Musical numbers will be given by both the Boys' and Girls' Glee clubs. A senior mixed quartette and the school orchestra.

SEED IS PRODUCED BY POTATO PLANTS

TUSTIN, June 11.—A potato patch maintained by Harold Taylor on a lot owned by N. N. Jacobs on Bonita street, near the high school, contains a half dozen plants which are going to seed, according to Jacobs, who said it is the first potato seed he has seen in 35 years. Usually the propagation of potatoes is by tubers. It is an uncommon thing for the blossoms to become fertilized and produce seed, according to experts.

There is no marketable use for the potato seed, it is reported, and it is used only for experimental purposes in producing new varieties, improving existing varieties, and developing resistance to disease.

Christian Church Minister Resigns

BREA, June 11.—The Rev. J. Wesley Runyan has tendered his resignation as pastor of the Christian church of Brea, to take effect on July 15 and his resignation has been accepted by the church board.

The Rev. Mr. Runyan and his family will follow a two weeks vacation following cessation of his work here and they will then go to Nevada, where he will engage in the establishment of Christian churches as a missionary endeavor. According to the pastor, he will be working independently. He has filled the Brea pastorate since the resignation of the Rev. Remfy Hunt more than two years ago.

Exhibit Planned By Scout Troop

COSTA MESA, June 11.—A public exhibit of specimens that have been collected in biological, zoological and botanical projects, and other materials in art and handicrafts is planned by Boy Scout troop No. 8, officers of which met Friday night. It was also decided to hold a variety show soon, both projects to be for troop benefits. A troop court of honor will be held early in the summer vacation season.

Officers present were: Assistant Scoutmaster, Leonard Collins; senior patrol leader, Alf Pearce; patrol leaders, Howard Hill, William Viole, Elmer Henry and Robert Allen; and Scoutmaster, Lloyd Willcutt.

Executive Board Of Clubs To Hold Meeting At Beach

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 11.—The executive board of the Orange County Federation of Women's clubs will meet at the Huntington Beach Woman's club for an all day meeting Tuesday. The speaker for the afternoon will be Clara L. Byers, of Pomona, who will have as her subject, "What Are You Feeding Your Mind?"

A musical program is being arranged by Mrs. Marian Miller and Miss Jean Baldwin. Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake, county president, will introduce the newly elected presidents of clubs throughout the county. A luncheon will be served at noon by members of the local club. Reservations may be made not later than Monday noon with Mrs. C. B. Baldwin.

SPEAKER GIVES TAX WARNING IN PLACENTIA TALK

PLACENTIA, June 11.—After presenting facts and figures depicting the ever rising trend of taxes in the United States, J. T. Lindsey of the California Tax Payers' association last night warned people of Placentia at a mass meeting against taking any steps that would add to the tax rate.

His warning included the trend today of extreme governments, communism on the one hand and dictatorship on the other, and he said that no danger arises from communism so long as people are home owners and have the money to purchase food and clothing.

He outlined the "check inflation" period of prosperity of 1927, 1928 and 1929, and showed how the loss of credit has caused the present difficulty. He said the average of credits was wide, so wide that few understood it, and only a very few had the mental balance to handle it.

"This tendency tended to reckless movements and efforts to create wealth through magic," he said. "The answer is a debt situation, personal and national, that is trending into dangerous lines."

Two factors can remedy this situation, repudiation of debt, and inflation, Lindsey declared, adding that people must demand a reduction of taxes and vote in such a way as to get those taxes reduced. Means of reducing taxes include consolidation of districts, and abolition of many phases of government that are draining the country into a bureaucracy, he said.

Following the talk by Lindsey, general discussion was held as to whether it would be economy for the Placentia Union Grammar school district to vote $200,000 bonds next Friday, June 15, for establishing a Valencia Union high school plant one group contending it would be well to vote the district back into the Fullerton district and utilize the plant the Placentia Union district helped build, and the other that it would cost little more to build a plant in Placentia.

J. W. Buttery of the Commonwealth school district presided at the meeting, which had been called by a group of taxpayers opposing tax increases, many of whom protested withdrawal of the district from the Fullerton Union High school district a year ago. Leaders included J. D. Dyer, A. E. Roddeck, C. G. Teed and Dan Henry, representing the Richmond, Yorba and Commonwealth districts of the Placentia Union Grammar school district.

SUNSHINE GIRLS
INSTALL OFFICERS
TUSTIN, June 11.—Miss Vivian Maynard was installed as royal princess at the mid-term installation of the Pythian Sunshine girls of Blue Ribbon council No. 3, in Knights of Pythias hall. The installing officer was Hazelbell Comer, grand royal prelate.

Other girls installed were Barbara Kiser, charity; Genevieve King, friendship; Francis Whitaker, royal prelate; Theda Tucker, mystic; and Valerie Scott, royal guide; Marian Baxter, royal regent; Arlene Morrison, royal exchequer; Betty Lou Hannaford, royal sentinel; Virginia Matthews, royal warder. Mrs. F. C. Matthews is royal adviser and A. F. Hibbat, Mrs. John Kiser, Mrs. Vera Comer, Mrs. Sarah Matthews and Mrs. Beulah Hamilton are the counselors.

Following the ceremonies, a short program was enjoyed, which included a reading by Jean Linsan-bard of Santa Ana and a drill by members of the council.

'CITIZENSHIP' 2 ARRESTED ON DISCUSSED AT DRUNK COUNTS W. C. T. U. MEET IN BEACH CITY

TUSTIN, June 11.—"Good Citizenship as Regards the Training of Young Folks" was the theme of an interesting talk given by Judge Kenneth Morrison Thursday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Tustin W. C. T. U. held at the home of Mrs. Louise Satterwhite, Santa Ana. Mrs. Margaret Utt, president, presided.

Judge Morrison said that the use of liquor in the home has ruined many young people and that things are more dangerous today than in the days of the old saloon, adding that he hopes local option goes into effect.

H. F. Kenney, secretary of the county men's brotherhood, was present and distributed local option petitions to the officers of the union for circulation.

During the business session, it was voted to hold the annual picnic in August instead of in July. It was announced that Miss Ethel Hubler, noted temperance worker, of Los Angeles, will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the Tustin Men's brotherhood at 8:30 p. m. June 18 in the lower auditorium of the Tustin Presbyterian church. Every one is invited.

Mrs. J. Stuart Hydnus sang "Come Unto Me and Rest," accompanying herself on the harp. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. Kate C. Ebel and the devotional period was conducted by Mrs. M. C. Pollard, with Mrs. Cora Torrens offering prayer.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. William A. Hazen, served refreshments of food fruit juice and home made cookies and candies. Those present, other than Mrs. Satterwhite, were Mesdames Margaret Utt, J. O. Probie, Charles Whitney, Effie M. Crawford, Esther Suddaby, Mary Adamson, Cora Torrens, Sarah M. G. Brown, Vera Smith, Helen Finley, E. Trotter, John Wynn, W. D. Barnard, M. C. Pollard, William A. Hazen, Eldora Demarest, Laura Leonard, J. Stuart Hydnus, Kate C. Ebel, Bertha McMullan, J. D. Campbell, Laura Custer, Elizabeth Miller, J. L. Marshall, Miss Jennie Kroese, Dr. Evaline Poe, Judge Morrison and Mr. Kenney.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Donna Gabriel, circus performer, fell from the trapeze and injured. To please her partner, Madeline Siddal, Donna goes to Madeline's home to recuperate, pretending to be the other girl. She is ashamed of this deception but keeps it up, even when Bill Siddal, Madeline's cousin, asks her to marry him. Amos Siddal, Madeline's grandfather who owns the farm, is blind. Mrs. Plandine is a newspaper dispatcher by Donna, is her enemy.

Donna and Bill are married. Meanwhile Madeline has married Con David, circus animal trainer, and takes part in the animal act. Amos Siddal has a stroke. In New Orleans Madeline goes into the cage alone with the Bengal tiger. The tiger springs and she is killed. Con David, discharged from the circus, goes to work and decides to go to the Siddal farm.

Bill goes a letter Donna wrote to Con and becomes jealous. They quarrel.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXX
Bill had a bad hour alone. He had had to fight his jealousy before. Many times, watching Donna working about the kitchen, he had contrasted her present life with her past, and a little green devil perched on his shoulder, whispering things he strove to put out of his mind. Often he had marvelled that anyone so lovely, so wholly desirable, should have given herself to him.

But his jealousy before had not been turned toward any individual. Now he knew that his wife—the glorious creature who spelled the heights of heaven for him—had written a letter to another man, a man she had once been accustomed to seeing daily.

Striding along, the raw wind whipping cold into his cheeks, Bill fought his battle. Fresh air did much to give him a clearer view of the situation. If he refused to believe her explanation that she had never written the man before and that the letter concerned her former partner, Bill would have to disbelieve everything she had said in the past. He would have to acknowledge their whole marriage a failure.

And if she had cared for this fellow, why had she married Bill? Looking at the matter sanely, he felt ashamed of himself, and when he returned to the house at five o'clock he was contrite and ready to beg forgiveness. Thus again Donna lost the opportunity to tell him that Madeline had married Con, and that Con was now a widower. It was not easy for Bill to apologize. Humble pie did not set well with him, but once he made up his mind to do anything unpleasant, he went through with it.

Donna was frying chicken in the kitchen, a rather warm smile on her face as she closed her ears to Minnie's gabbles. When Bill walked in unceremoniously and said he wanted to speak to her at once she anticipated another scene.

"I'm busy, Bill. Wait until I finish this."

"Can't let Minnie do it?" Donna gave Minnie the fork she had been using to turn the fragrant brown morsels and stepped into the pantry which opened into a hall leading to the dining room.

Bill waited until the swinging door closed. Then he sought her in his arms and crushed his mouth over hers. "I'm sorry," he mumbled, "I was a cad. Forgive me?"

"Oh Bill!" Donna sobbed happily. "Oh Bill, I wish I had showed you the letter! It was horrid of me to tear it up! I should have—" "No, no, did the right thing. It was a brute to doubt you. Common sense should have told me there couldn't be anything to it and that you never cared for that fellow. If you'll forgive me I'll never be jealous again."

"Of course I forgive you! And I want to tell you what was in the letter—" "I don't want to hear it I don't deserve to know."

Confession at that moment, with Bill's arms holding her close, Bill's lips against her hair, would have been very sweet and soul-cleansing and would have prevented many future heartaches. But Bill's attitude, his desire to be generous and chivalrous prevented confidence and Donna slipped from his embrace with the words unspoken.

He followed her into the kitchen and watched her continue preparing supper, feeling a glow of satisfaction in having mastered an ugly passion and a pride in her beauty and cleverness.

"You know, Honey," he said as she piled the chicken on a blue platter and stirred cream and flour into the browned butter to make gravy, "now that Grandpop is better we ought to get out a little. All work and no play—you know the rest of it. Why, it's been weeks and weeks since we've seen a picture show or had any kind of amusement. What say we take the old bus and go into town tonight? Sometimes they have pretty good pictures at the Elitte."

"I'd like it," Donna answered. "Do you think Grandfather would mind?"

"He'd be the first to urge us to go. You know Miss Perkins looks after us as if he was a baby and he'll be asleep long before we get home. Hurry up with supper, then do up your prettiest and we'll go off on a spree."

She smiled, loving him the more for his ability to cast aside trouble and to play, small boy fashion. It was a very good asset, for Donna had become a proficient cook, but only Miss Perkins had any appetite. Minnie grumbled as she

Island Circle To Sponsor Program Carnival In June

NEWPORT BEACH, June 11.—Plans for the next water carnival and regatta to be staged by the Balboa Island Water Carnival association will be completed at a meeting of the group to be held next Friday evening at the Balboa Yacht club.

The Carnival association officers met in the offices of J. A. Beek on the island recently and agreed to produce an affair similar to the carnival held May 29 and 30, sometime this month. It is planned to make the second of these affairs even more pretentious than the others, Beek, who is secretary of the organization, said.

Special stress will be laid on the children's swimming and boating races, held in conjunction with the regatta.

CONDUCT EXERCISES FOR MISSION PUPILS

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, June 11.—Commencement exercises for the eighth grade of the Mission Parochial school were held Sunday morning at the 8:30 o'clock mass. The Rev. Father Arthur J. Hutchinson officiated.

Those who graduated are Anthony Alarcon, Ysidora Fulton, Helen Lopez, Juanita Labat, Alfred Perez, Nadine Schlosser, Thomas Sepulveda, Elvita Sepulveda and Juanita Uribe. This is the second class to graduate from the Mission school.

The school closed Friday when a program was given by the eighth graders.

BIRTHDAY OBSERVED

WESTMINSTER, June 11.—A party held Friday at Slater park observed the sixth birthday anniversary of Marinel Grandy, children from the kindergarten of Westminster school being guests.

Mrs. Douglas Grandy, mother of the honoree, directed the games played by the children and served cream, birthday cake and fudge.

The children present included Marinel and Lois Grandy, Lily Stanley, Carlotta Lindman, Patty McCay, Turuko and Tomaroko Hiram, Roberta Skinner, Barbara Jean Taylor and Gouchi Surushiro.

After nibbling at a deep-dish cherry pie Donna ran upstairs and drew from the closet a shimmering brown chiffon velvet. Bill watched her in abject admiration as she slipped the russet folds over her gleaming copper hair. The beauty of her firm young arms and snowy throat had never ceased to awe him.

A damped brush set the waves in her hair and she was ready to leave.

"Have to get you a fur coat," Bill said as he held her heavy cloak. "Winters out here get pretty severe."

"I have one in storage, I must send for it." Then the sudden thought that the mink garment stored in New York was being held for Donna Gabriel made her wish she had not spoken.

"But," she added, laughing, "if I'm cold I've a good excuse to cuddle up to you."

"As if you needed an excuse!" The ride to town was sheer delight after the emotional storm of the morning. As in the days of their courtship, Bill drove with one hand and kept his other arm around her. Now and then when a cold, silvery moon hid behind a bank of clouds or became obscured by the over-lapping branch of fir trees he bent and kissed her.

Bill found a spot on side street to park the car. Then he insisted upon taking Donna into Granley's drug store for a soda. "We'll do it up brown tonight," he said. "Be regular yokels out celebrating."

As she sat before the soda fountain Donna could see to lights of the Elitte Picture House across the square. The lights twinkled on and off, but it wasn't until Bill walked up to the box office and handed over a dollar for two tickets that she realized the evening's attraction was "Poly of the Circus."

Had there been another picture theater in the town or a concert or even a skating rink Donna would have told her husband she did not care to see the picture and suggested that they find other entertainment. But it was "Poly of the Circus" or nothing, and Bill was grinning happily over his shoulder at her.

REV. MILLIGAN GIVES ADDRESS IN PLACENTIA

PLACENTIA, June 11.—Baccalaureate services for the first graduating class of the Valencia High school were held last night at the Bradford grammar school auditorium, with several hundred guests attending. Rev. Tillery, the first student to be graduated from the school, is to be graduated Tuesday at exercises to be held in the same place, with Vierling Kersey, superintendent of public instruction of the state, as principal speaker.

Peggy McFaul and Emma Bowser, violinists, and Mrs. Thomas, pianist, played the processional and recessional. The invocation was given by the Rev. R. C. Rogers, pastor of the Placentia Church of the Nazarenes.

Ralph Essert, superintendent of the schools, announced the exercises for the week, to include three programs for graduating groups.

Ruth Allen and Lawrence Allen sang, "To Do Thy Will," and the Rev. Don Milligan, pastor of Calvary church, talked briefly on "The Glory of Young Men Is Their Strength." He took the title and the theme from Proverbs and during the course of the address drew attention to the fact that spiritual strength is the greatest need of the individual as well as the nation.

Ed Backs sang as a solo, "My Creed," and the Rev. Frank Dowling pronounced the benediction.

MATRONS' CLUB MEETS

WESTMINSTER, June 11.—Members of the Matrons' club of the Westminster Presbyterian church met recently in the home of Mrs. Marie Rhea, with Mrs. Margaret Prindle acting as hostess. It was decided to omit the July meeting of the club.

Those present were Mrs. Mae Finley, Mrs. Vera Skinner, Mrs. Cleo Hazard, Mrs. Esther Grandy, Mrs. Orpha Price, Mrs. Flora Deke, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Muriel Hyton, Mrs. Bertha Hyton, Mrs. Joyce Hemstreet, Mrs. Margaret Prindle, Mrs. Wakefield, Mrs. Hazel Bebermeyer, Mrs. Rhea. Fruit salad and cookies were served.

nothing she would see or hear would bring back the tragedy of Madeline's death.

She could shut her eyes, in the darkness, against anything too poignant to endure, but she could not close her ears. As she and Bill moved away from the aisle he heard was rounding and a wild impulse to flee almost overpowered her.

Bill seemed to be enjoying himself hugely. Simple in tastes, with small opportunity for amusement, he would have been a movie fan had he possessed the time. He found Donna's hand and closed his over it, then settled back with the ease of contentment. It wasn't long, however, until he became conscious that she was trembling.

"Cold, sweetheart?" he whispered.

"No."

Donna, knowing that he was watching her, forced herself to look at the moving figures on the screen. Everything she saw there and every word uttered that had to do with circus life was like a knife thrust in her heart. When the heroine was injured in an accident a smothered cry came from Donna's lips.

"Bill, I'm—I'm ill," she stammered miserably. "Let's go home."

"Why, you were all right when we left the house. What is it? Do you think the ride—?" "I don't know, but I can't stay. I can't stay!" Half-hysterical, she arose, pushed past him and ran up the aisle as though in leaving the darkened auditorium she could leave behind the memories that tortured her.

Bill, dismayed and disappointed, followed her. Outside, in the car, Donna crouched in one corner and sobbed as though her heart were broken.

"Maddie! Maddie!" cried the bewildered man

54 PUPILS OF TUSTIN SCHOOL GET DIPLOMAS

TUSTIN, June 11.—With "The Value of Character" as his theme, Arthur Corey, assistant county superintendent, delivered a forceful address at the annual eighth grade graduation exercises held at 8 o'clock Friday evening in the high school auditorium.

The program opened with selections by the grammar school orchestra under the direction of Chester Stearns, and was followed by the entrance of the 54 graduates. The flag salute was led by a group of Girl Scouts, with the audience repeating the oath of allegiance. The invocation was given by the Rev. Howard F. Nason.

Chester Stearns entertained with a piano solo, "The Toledo Blade March," and the graduating class sang "Country Gardens" and "The End of the Cobblestone Road" with Marjorie Tubach as piano accompanist.

Superintendent C. A. Weiss made a short talk and presented the diplomas to the graduates. In recognition of the Cobblestone Road, a gift to Mr. Weiss. Students on the honor roll as announced by the superintendent are Robert Shostak, Tenna Mae Ashcraft, Evelyn Hull, Bob Marshall, Dorothy Leonard, Alice Bartholomew, Helen Betty Ritter and Betty Lou Hamanford.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON

By Paul Mallon

STEEL STRIKE

The big point behind all the steel strike menacing that has been going on is whether the union can afford to strike.

Employers assert the union is not strong enough. Their figures show only 10 per cent of the 400,000 steel workers are in the A. F. of L. union. Such figures are too low.

Just as far out of line with the truth is the union contention that the industry is 80 per cent organized.

A certain non-partisan official source has made a careful check and concluded that the real figure is somewhere between 30 and 40 per cent. Roughly, a third of the workers have signed up with Amalgamated (A. F. of L.). Another third can be classed as company union men. The last third is unorganized.

CONCENTRATION

Off-hand, you would think these impartial figures prove that the Amalgamated cannot conduct a first-class strike. There is, however, another phase.

The union is supposed to be strongest in the big mills, such as the plant of Carnegie Steel along the Monongahela river, and several of the largest in West Virginia, Gary, East Chicago and Indiana Harbor.

The effects of a strike, therefore, would certainly be concentrated in these areas.

It might embarrass steel production more than the number of union workers would indicate.

TALENT

An even more important union defect has been noticeable in the backstage maneuvering.

Union leaders have an enthusiasm which is not matched either by their brilliance or experience. They could use more money and personal unity. These are inadequacies from which all union movements suffer more or less.

Employers can and do hire the best executive, legal and publicity talent. For instance, one large steel corporation recently employed a vice president at a salary supposed to be $75,000 a year for the main purpose of organizing the company unions.

Their publicity directors function like a clock.

The union boys had so much trouble with their early leadership that their nominal leader (Mike Tighe) pulled out and went back to Pittsburgh during the thick of the fight. The quartet which took over the fight is advised by a young newsman, whose salary is far from $75,000 a year.

That is a highly important technical angle when you consider that the average outside citizen (who knows nothing of the merits of the steel strike case) would strike with nine million people out of work already.

POLITICS

The November census bill was a little too rough politically, even for many of the Democrats.

It was such a poorly disguised effort to dole out $2-a-day jobs for census takers that forty-four Democrats voted against the bill and fifty-one were absent, many purposely. (The Democratic leaders persuaded 261 to stay and vote for it.)

What let the political polecat out of the bag is the fact that the census takers are not to get the jobs until after they vote in the congressional elections.

When you get forty-four Democrats to oppose, and fifty-one to remain away from a patronage bill of that kind, you know it must be a rather brazen piece of monkey business.

THIRD PARTY

There will be no third party movement. All the talk about it since Henry Fletcher's election as head of the R. N. C. is only wishful hoping.

Most of the Republican progressives, like Senators Borah and Nye, are wise enough to keep boring from within the Republican party. They will unquestionably conduct an inner campaign to install liberals as county and state chairmen. Their aim will be to capture the Republican organization and take control of the next Republican national convention away from the Hillies and Hoover clans.

That sort of a campaign has some chance of success. A third party movement has none.

JOB

Fletcher's job will be two-fold (A) to get some money and (B) to keep peace in the Republican family. He can get a better start than most people on the money end by going into his own pocket. As for the second, his entire career has been devoted to diplomacy.

Many false claims are being made about his affiliation with Teddy Roosevelt. Those who were on the inside in those days say Fletcher was affiliated with Roosevelt because they were friends of Rough Rider days, and not because Mr. Fletcher was burning with zeal for the Roosevelt policies.

SPRY

Ex-Justice Holmes of the supreme court is as spry mentally as when he left the court. Leaving Washington recently for his Massachusetts country home, to spend his ninety-fourth summer, he sent birthday greetings to a friend who is seventy years old, saying: "My boy, preserve your youth. It is the only thing you have." (Copyright, 1934, by Paul Mallon)

NEW YORK

GENERALSHIP

New York conservatives—except for a few open-shop die-hards—are pleased with General Johnson's settlement of the textile squabble.

This appears inconsistent—because it exalts organized labor above their beloved company unions. But they figure this defeat was worth while as a solar plexus wallop to the radical labor element—whose gains have lately awakened lively apprehension here.

The radical's most potent weapon has been defeatist propaganda against NRA. The automobile settlement provided the text for their sales talk that Section 7A was a snare designed to lure labor into a false dream of progress and that the workers' only hope of salvation lay in violent self-assertion.

But now the textile unions have won unprecedented official recognition and this argument is punctured. Johnson is credited with the astute generalship he has shown to date.

LOCKOUT

The sharp contrast between the textile and automobile solutions has New York in a state of jitter as to which method will be applied to steel. Inside betting favors official support for the union cause and the boys don't like it.

Paradoxically many of those who applaud the textile outcome are dead against the same answer for steel. They claim the case is totally different—chiefly because the proportion of workers belonging to organized unions is much smaller in the case of steel and the company unions are much more firmly established.

Steel heads remain unswayed by the example of the textile industry and still believe their lockout card is a trump. The informed get word that the government's efforts to force a settlement may not be so strenuous as they were for textiles and moreover on the principle that a showdown without federal intervention is needed to clear the atmosphere and will do less harm to recovery in steel than in other major industries. Moreover textiles are an important factor in projected trade and tariff negotiations and steel is not.

CUNSEL

It's understood here that Michael F. Tighe—spokesman for the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers—is willing to discuss a compromise but would be heaved out on his ear by radical members of the union if he tried.

Insiders say that Edward F. McGrady is the only person short of the President who has the remotest chance of heading off the strike. He is characterized as the one realist in the NRA setup who holds labor's confidence.

DEBTS

Watch for more fancy jockeying on debts in the next week. The President's message was locally rated a political masterpiece signifying nothing. Informed sources will give you odds that Britain's thin escape from the onus of default will have fancy competition from other debtors.

New York is amused by the belated French agitation about boarding the non-default band wagon. Her object is simply to get on the same footing as Britain for future negotiations. Her expectation of doing so after being in default for a year and a half is referred to here as "a beautiful sample of Gallic gall."

JAPAN

New York bankers learn that the sensational Amam statement of Japanese policy toward China traces directly to plans for a bank in China to handle foreign loans.

The bank was being promoted by Rajchman and others with League of Nations affiliations.

and a number of important British and American financiers were interested. Japan was peeved because she wasn't asked to participate and suspicious that the project was a blind behind which to stir up anti-Japanese sentiment in China. Amam only meant to imply that Japan would do what she could to wreck the bank—not that she meant to make a vassal of China.

When the storm broke the bank's promoters belatedly hastened to ask Japanese cooperation. Mollified but cagey, Japan is now investigating to find out if the scheme is merely financial as it professes to be. If satisfied on this point she will probably take her share of it—which would help straighten out China's financial middle.

CORD

The informed say that Cord's American Airlines is by no means as far out of the picture as current mail contracts indicate. Frequent New York-Washington service will probably be announced soon. This is Eastern Air's territory—which goes to show that the old gentleman's agreement about sanctity of routes is a dead horse. Such a line would be a logical extension of Cord's Boston-New York schedules.

PAY

Cancelled contracts and sacrificial airmail bids have forced a truce in the pilots' pay ruckus. The pilots were threatening to strike for a return to mileage pay instead of hourly pay—because they flew the same miles in fewer hours in the new fast planes.

Lately they've been more worried about getting any pay than about how much. It's understood the men on one line volunteered a cut to $250 a month—from $600 and up—while the army flew the mail. They've now agreed to the hourly scale for the 3-month period of the temporary mail contracts.

Pilots aren't covered by the Air Transport code. The lines fervently hope the National Labor Board doesn't choose to come to bat right now.

SIDELIGHTS

EIGHTH GRADE PUPILS OF H. B. IN EXERCISES

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 11.—Graduation exercises for 71 eighth grade students were held Friday.

C. B. Baldwin, school superintendent, presented the class and A. M. Anderson, president of the school board, presented the diplomas. McClelland G. Jones, superintendent of the high school, addressed the graduates and welcomed them into high school. Mrs. J. E. De La Vergne distributed the American Legion auxiliary awards and James Ranney presented the athletic letters and the American Legion awards.

Audrienne Dorothy Wright was awarded the prize for highest scholastic attainments among the girls and Elden Katsumi Kanegae won the scholarship award for the boys. He is the first Japanese boy to win highest honors at the elementary school. Margaret Barry won the attendance award for never having been absent during the entire period of attendance at elementary school. Ruth Moody was given an award for attending school two years without being absent or tardy and there were several boys and girls who had one year with a perfect attendance record.

Jean Tarbox gave the invocation and Jeanette St. Claire pronounced

YOUR ENERGY VARIES DURING THE DAY

Feel Played Out?
Let CAMELS increase
Your Flow of Energy

Are you irritable...cross and fussy when tired? Then light a Camel. As you enjoy its cool, rich flavor...notice how quickly you feel your flow of natural energy restored.

This fact is known to many through their own experience. How that "done-in" feeling drops away. How your natural pep and energy come flooding back and you are again able to face the "next move" with a smile!

NATURAL ENERGY IS RELEASED
The effect is produced by Camels in a wholly safe, natural, and utterly delightful way. So, whenever you feel run-down, tired and irritable, just light a Camel. Enjoy its fragrance to the full—let your flow of energy swing back—and you are your real self again!

NO NERVE IRRITATION WITH CAMELS

You can smoke just as many Camels as you want—and it's a pleasure that actually helps you to maintain your energy.

And the finer, more expensive tobaccos in Camels never get on your nerves!

CAMELS Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

TIED OUT FROM SHOPPING...and then she smoked a Camel!

WATCH OUT for weariness and irritability that come from a low level of energy. Smoke a Camel for a quick comeback in the flow of natural, healthful energy...as frequently as you wish. You will feel like your real self again, and you'll like Camels—a matchless blend of costlier tobaccos!

54 PUPILS OF TUSTIN SCHOOL GET DIPLOMAS

TUSTIN, June 11.—With "The Value of Character" as his theme, Arthur Corey, assistant county superintendent, delivered a forceful address at the annual eighth grade graduation exercises held at 8 o'clock Friday evening, in the high school auditorium.

The program opened with selections by the grammar school orchestra under the direction of William G. Axworthy and was followed by the entrance of the 54 graduates. The flag salute was led by a group of Girl Scouts, with the audience repeating the oath of allegiance. The invocation was given by the Rev. Howard F. Mason.

Chester Stearns entertained with a piano solo, "The Toledo Blade March," and the graduating class sang "Country Gardens" and "The End of the Cobblestone Road," with Marjorie Tubach as piano accompanist.

Superintendent C. A. Weise made a short talk and presented the diplomas to the graduates. In behalf of the class, Marjorie Tubach presented a gift to Mr. Weise.

Students on the honor roll as announced by the superintendent are Robert Shostak, Tenna Mae Ashcraft, Evelyn Hull, Bob Marshall, Dorothy Leonard, Alice Bartholomew, Helen Betty Ritter and Betty Lou Hannaford.

Members of the graduation class are John Balzer, Melton Chittenden, Wesley Fisher, Floyd Gorton, Fred Hutter, Warren Kiser, Bob Marshall, Robert Shostak, Chester Stearns, Allen Stutsman, Bob Young, Alice Bartholomew, Virginia Diamond, Betty Lou Hannaford, Betty Jean Hendricks, Eloise Hull, Evelyn Hull, Gertrude Lambert.

-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

STEEL STRIKE

The big point behind all the steel strike menacing that has been going on is whether the union can afford to strike.

Employers assert the union is not strong enough. Their figures show only 10 per cent of the 400,000 steel workers are in the A. F. of L. union. Such figures are too low.

Just as far out of line with the truth is the union contention that the industry is 80 per cent organized.

A certain non-partisan official source has made a careful check and concluded that the real figure is somewhere between 30 and 40 per cent. Roughly, a third of the workers have signed up with Amalgamated (A. F. of L.). Another third can be classed as communist. The last third is unorganized.

CONCENTRATION
Off-hand, you would think these impartial figures prove that the Amalgamated cannot conduct a first-class strike. There is, however, another phase.

The union is supposed to be strongest in the big mills, such as the plant of Carnegie Steel along the Monongahela river, and several of the largest in West Virginia, Gary, East Chicago and Indiana Harbor.

The effects of a strike, therefore, would certainly be concentrated in these areas.

It might embarrass steel production more than the number of union workers would indicate.

TALENT
An even more important union defect has been noticeable in the backstage maneuvering.

Union leaders have an enthusiasm which is not matched either by their brilliance or experience. Likewise, they could use more money and personal unity. These are inadequacies which all union movements suffer more or less.

Employers can and do hire the best executive, legal and publicity talent. For instance, one of the large steel corporations recently employed a vice president at a salary supposed to be $75,000 a year for the main purpose of organizing the company unions. Their publicity directors function like a clock.

The union boys had so much trouble with their early leadership that their nominal leader (Mike Tighe) pulled out and went back to Pittsburgh during the thick of the fight. The quartet which took over the fight is advised by a young newsman, whose salary is far from $75,000 a year.

That is a highly important technical angle when you consider that the average outside citizen (who knows nothing of the merits of the steel strike case) cannot understand why anyone would strike with nine million people out of work already.

POLITICS
The November census bill was a little too rough politically, even for many of the Democrats.

It was such a poorly disguised effort to dole out $2-a-day jobs for census takers that forty-four Democrats voted against the bill and fifty-one were absent, many purposely. (The Democratic leaders persuaded 261 to stay and vote for it.)

What let the political polecat out of the bag is the fact that the census takers are not to get the jobs until after they vote in the congressional elections.

When you get forty-four Democrats to oppose, and fifty-one to remain away from a patronage bill of that kind, you know it must be a rather brazen piece of monkey business.

THIRD PARTY
There will be no third party movement. All the talk about it since Henry Fletcher's election as head of the R. N. C. is only wishful hoping.

Most of the Republican progressives, like Senators Borah and Nye, are wise enough to keep boring from within the Republican party. They will unquestionably conduct an inner campaign to install liberals as county and state chairmen. Their aim will be to capture the Republican organization and take control of the next Republican national convention away from the Hillies and Hoover clans.

That sort of a campaign has some chance of success. A third party movement has none.

JOB
Fletcher's job will be two-fold (A) to get some money and (B) to keep peace in the Republican family. He can get a better start than most people on the money end by going into his own pocket. As for the second, his entire career has been devoted to diplomacy.

Many false claims are being made about his progressivism, based on his affiliation with Teddy Roosevelt. Those who were on the inside in those days say Fletcher was affiliated with Roosevelt because they were friends of Rough Rider days, and not because Mr. Fletcher was burning with zeal for the Roosevelt policies.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

GENERALSHIP
New York conservatives—except for a few open-shop die-hards—are pleased with General Johnson's settlement of the textile squabble.

This appears inconsistent—because it exalts organized labor above their beloved company unions. But they figure this deal was worth while as a solar plexus wallop to the radical labor element—whose gains have lately awakened lively apprehension here.

The radical's most potent weapon has been defeatist propaganda against NRA. The automobile settlement provided the text for their sales talk that Section 7A was a snare designed to lure labor into a false dream of progress and that the workers' only hope of salvation lay in violent self-assertion.

But now the textile unions have won unprecedented official recognition and this argument is punctured. Johnson is credited with the astute generalship he has shown to date.

LOCKOUT
The sharp contrast between the textile and automobile solutions has New York in a state of jitter as to which method will be applied to steel. Inside betting favors official support for the union cause and the boys don't like it.

Paradoxically many of those who applaud the textile outcome are dead against the same answer for steel. They claim the case is totally different—chiefly because the proportion of workers belonging to organized unions is much smaller in the case of steel and the company unions are much more firmly established.

Steel heads remain unworried by the example of the textile industry and still believe their lockout card is a trump. The informed get word that the government's efforts to force a settlement may not be so strenuous as they were for textiles and moreover on the principle that a showdown without federal intervention is needed to clear the atmosphere and will do less harm to recovery in steel than in other major industries. Moreover textiles are an important factor in projected trade and tariff negotiations and steel is not.

CUNSEL
It's understood here that Michael F. Tighe—spokesman for the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers—is willing to discuss a compromise but would be heaved out on his ear by radical members of the union if he tried.

Insiders say that Edward F. McCarty is the only person short of the President who has the remotest chance of heading off the strike. He is characterized as the one realist in the NRA setup who holds labor's confidence.

DEBTS
Watch for more fancy jockeying on debts in the next week. The President's message was logically rated a political masterpiece signifying nothing. Informed sources will give you odds that Britain's thin escape from the onus of default will have fancy competition from other debtors.

New York is amused by the belated French agitation about boarding the non-default band wagon. Her object is simply to get on the same footing as Britain for future negotiations. Her expectation of doing so after being in default for a year and a half is referred to here as "a beautiful sample of Gallic gall."

JAPAN
New York bankers learn that the sensational Amai statement of Japanese policy toward China traces directly to plans for a bank in China to handle foreign loans.

The bank was being promoted by Rajchman and others with League of Nations affiliations and a number of important British and American financiers were interested. Japan was peeved because she wasn't asked to participate and suspicious that the plot was a blind behind which to stir up anti-Japanese sentiment in China. Amai only meant to imply that Japan would do what she could to wreck the bank—not that she meant to make a vassal of China.

When the storm broke the bank's promoters belatedly hastened to ask Japanese cooperation. Mollified but cagey, Japan is now investigating to find out if the scheme is merely financial as it professes to be. If satisfied on this point she will probably take her share of it—which would help straighten out China's financial muddle.

CORD
The informed say that Cord's American Airlines is by no means as far out of the picture as current mail contracts indicate. Frequent New York-Washington service will probably be announced soon. This is Eastern Air's territory—which goes to show that the old gentleman's agreement about sanctity of routes is a dead horse. Such a line would be a logical extension of Cord's Boston-New York schedules.

PAY
Cancelled contracts and sacrificial airmail bids have forced a truce in the pilots' pay ruckus. The pilots were threatening to strike for a return to mileage pay instead of hourly pay—because they flew the same miles in fewer hours in the new fast planes.

Lately they've been more worried about getting any pay than about how much. It's understood the men on one line volunteered a cut to $250 a month—from $600 and up—while the army flew the mail. They've now agreed to the hourly scale for the 3-month period of the temporary mail contracts.

Pilots aren't covered by the Air Transport code. The lines fervently hope the National Labor Board doesn't choose to come to bat right now.

SIDELIGHTS

BROWN SNAIL PEST CONTROL IS OUTLINED

BY DIXON W. TUBBS
County Agricultural Commissioner
The brown snail, Helix aspersa, which is the common garden snail has been on the increase in the orange groves of Orange county for some years. During the past season weather conditions have apparently been extremely favorable for the heavy infestations exist in many groves. The change of cultural methods employed by some growers to permit weed growth in the orchard between alternate irrigations has no doubt also contributed greatly to the improvement of the environment for snails.
During the past two months many complaints have been registered with the agricultural commissioner's office against neighboring infestations and many have requested information concerning methods of killing this omnivorous feeder. Since the cost of control is very reasonable compared to the damage done, it is felt that more attention should be paid to the control of this pest. In small yards or gardens satisfactory results can be obtained by the application of materials commercially on the market and recommended for use against snails, slugs and sowbugs; and for use on larger estates or for use in groves a cheap and effective formula is given herewith: to one pound of calcium arsenate and sixteen pounds bran, add enough water to make the mixture moist but not wet enough to adhere together in clumps. A cement mixer with a screen over the opening makes an ideal mixing device. Cane molasses or crushed oranges or lemons are sometimes recommended for grasshoppers, etc., but have not been found to be of advantage in the case of snails. The mixture should be broadcast in such manner that it will not fall in clumps and should be scattered following an irrigation or rainfall, such as we have just experienced.
From one-third to two-thirds of a pound of the poison bran if properly broadcast will be sufficient to control the snails on the average sized orange tree.
Care should be taken not to breathe the arsenical dust when mixing the material and great quantities of the material should not be placed in the crotch or about the trunks of trees because there is a slight danger of burning.

EIGHT SANTA ANAS IN SPECIAL CLASSES

Eight Santa Ana students have been enrolled for the spring term just closing at University College, downtown division of the University of Southern California, including Miss Esther H. Alquist, Miss Katharine H. Blank, Miss Eleanor J. Redmond, George E. Adams, Ray E. Dawson, John H. Ebersole, Charles L. Webber and Mearl A. Yonel.
Forty per cent of the University College students are from a 40-mile area outside of Los Angeles, it is stated. The six weeks summer course of the college opens the week of June 18.
DRIVE EXTENDED
MODESTO, Cal.—(UP)—The campaign against drunken drivers continues to extend to drivers of vehicles other than automobiles. Charles Meader recently was arrested on a charge of driving his bicycle while drunk.

S. A. MERCHANTS PREPARE FOR SUMMER SALES

Full cooperation of Santa Ana merchants in sponsoring a July buying event, to be known as "Santa Ana Clearance Days" has been assured following a committee meeting of the merchants division of the chamber of commerce, it was announced today by Manager A. Cavalli.
Definite dates for the buying event have not been determined, but it is probable the clearance sales will be conducted during the middle of July, according to Claude J. McDowell, chairman of the merchants division, who describes the event as being the most outstanding mid-summer sales classic ever planned for Santa Ana.
Arrangements are being made to offer reasonable merchandise to the public at greatly reduced prices, with the shops and stores featuring all types of goods, from furniture to the smallest items of women's apparel.
Special bus fares will be available to out-of-town shoppers each day of the cooperative clearance sale. "We want every community to take advantage of this important event which Santa Ana, the trading center of the county, is offering," remarked Cavalli.
Merchants of the city are understood to be backing the plan 100 per cent.

EPIC CLUBS HOLD PICNIC THURSDAY

The combined Epic clubs of Long Beach will hold a Democratic rally and picnic at Recreation park, Seventh street and Park avenue, Long Beach on Thursday, Flag Day, in which Orange county friends of the Epic movement are invited to take part, it was announced today.
Dr. Theodore Curtis Abell, director of the Hollywood Humanist Society, will speak at 3 p. m. on "An Interpretation of the American Flag." Other features will include a ball game, races, dancing, swimming and antics of the clown, "Happy-Go-Lucky."

EX-GOVERNOR WILL VISIT SANTA ANA

C. C. Young, former governor of California who was defeated for re-election four years ago by the late James Rolph Jr., will be a visitor in Santa Ana on Thursday, it was announced today. He will address the Santa Ana Lions club Thursday noon at James cafe, and in the evening will participate in the annual Flag Day program of the Santa Ana Elks lodge at the Santa Ana Municipal Bowl.
AUDITORIUM PLASTERED
WESTMINSTER, June 11.—The auditorium of the Westminster Presbyterian church is receiving a new coat of plaster, the work having started Thursday. The work is being done by the Westminster school district as pay for the use of the several buildings belonging to the church during the school term just closed.
As a result of the plastering job morning church services next Sunday will be held in the church social hall. The evening services are to be omitted owing to the high school services at Huntington Beach.

True to Navy Tradition, Sea-Going 'Lady Gobs' Seek Romance Ashore

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 11.—At least 12 of the 35,000 gobs seeing life in the big city this week seem bent on shattering navy customs. That is, they deny that they have sweethearts in every port. They don't saunter along Riverside drive in their nattiest uniforms casting appraising eyes on the promenaders. And most shattering of all, not one has ever been tattooed!

They're having the time of their lives, though, are these iconoclastic gobs, especially on Broadway and Fifth avenue. They've been to Chinatown and they're going to Coney Island, but chiefly what they like to do is shop and see the newest plays....

Appointments Are Made From Navy Hospitals
If you're a navy nurse, duty on the Relief is the detail you long for. You can only have it for a year, though, because it's such a coveted post that it has to be passed along. Some of the Lady Gobs are just beginning the exciting service; others are almost ready to give place to additional eager damsels who joined the navy in the hope of seeing the world. The appointments are made from among the 320 members of the navy nurse corps, registered graduate nurses who are on duty in the naval hospitals of the United States and the tropics, navy dispensaries and transports.

You have to pass a special examination before you undertake sea duty—but you are not graded upon your ability to escape seasickness, according to Miss Helen S. Wood, chief nurse.
You may go almost anywhere during your year of duty—Alaska, Hawaii, the Canal Zone, even Australia—that's the fun of it. Lady Gobs have plenty of shore leave, too, in any port and they make good use of it, they all admitted.

The Officers May Be "Good Company," But—

But they vigorously deny that many of them marry navy men, although there's some grumbling about it among the authorities. "At least, we have no romances aboard now," Miss Wood declared, smiling. "I won't say a romance is impossible. There are some traditional tales about girls who have married officers or sailors, but—no, I don't see any signs of prospective June brides around here. The nurse who marries loses her job—and most of them like their jobs."
"When they marry, they'll probably marry civilians and settle down to peace and calm on shore."

Some of the nurses were not so sure. A pretty red-headed girl from Texas admitted that the officers were "very good company." But another said that for keeps she preferred civilians.

The Lady Gobs are on duty for seven hours. Then they may go out. Unfortunately for shore leave they don't wear their crisp white uniforms with the gold anchors on the lapels and the becoming caps banded in black and gold. So they look pretty much like other women when they get on their light summer frocks and hats. Eight of the 12 have never been east before—and all are indefatigable shoppers.

They're Commissioned Officers In the Junior Grade
Strictly speaking, they aren't really gobs at all since they have the relative rank of commissioned officers in the junior grades. Their work on board the Relief is chiefly executive like that of the officers, too. Trained men of the hospital corps do the actual nursing, unless a man is seriously ill and then the Lady Gob pitches in and does her stuff.

Each ward has a supervisor, there is one nurse in charge of the operating room and another at the head of the special diet kitchen. The quarters of the Lady Gobs are about as big as good-sized clothes closets but the occupants manage to stow themselves away with the neatness of sailors. They have a roomy wardrobe, too, with cretonnes, flowers and a piano where their very good meals are served by Philippine mess boys.
The hospital part of the ship has all the up-to-date equipment of a first-class hospital on land, including x-ray machines in the latest mode, two dentist chairs, huge operating rooms with the latest lighting and cutting effects, a laboratory where blood and other tests are made, and an experiment station for work with mice and guinea pigs.

Relief is painted white to distinguish her from the battleships—and perhaps a special acknowledgment of the fact that she's the temporary home of the 12 Lady Gobs, sisters of mercy.

Crystal Gazer At Local Drug Store

Madam Amtra, crystal gazer and seer, will be featured in a special appearance at the McCoy Drug store at Fourth and Broadway streets during this week, according to an announcement made today by Paul McCoy, general manager of the drug company.
McCoy invited anyone interested in psychic phenomena and crystal gazing to visit the crystal gazer, who, he said, is an internationally known character.
In order to confine the opportunity to confer with Amtra, McCoy said, those who are really interested, it will be required that a small purchase be made in any of the McCoy stores.

BROWN SNAIL PEST CONTROL IS OUTLINED

BY DIXON W. TUBBS
County Agricultural Commissioner
The brown snail, Helix aspersa, which is the common garden snail has been on the increase in the orange groves of Orange county for some years. During the past season weather conditions have apparently been extremely favorable as heavy infestations exist in many groves. The change of cultural methods employed by some growers to permit weed growth in the orchard between alternate irrigations has no doubt also contributed greatly to the improvement of the environment for snails.
During the past two months many complaints have been registered with the agricultural commissioner's office against neighboring infestations and many have requested information concerning methods of killing this omnivorous feeder. Since the cost of control is very reasonable compared to the damage done, it is felt that more attention should be paid to the control of this pest. In small yards or gardens satisfactory results can be obtained by the application of materials commercially on the market and recommended for use against snails, slugs and sowbugs; and for use on larger estates or for use in groves a cheap and effective formula is given herewith: to one pound of calcium arsenate and sixteen pounds bran, add enough water to make the mixture moist but not wet enough to adhere together in clumps. A cement mixer with a screen over the opening makes an ideal mixing device. Cane molasses or crushed oranges or lemons are sometimes recommended for grasshoppers, etc., but have not been found to be of advantage in the case of snails. The mixture should be broadcast in such manner that it will not fall in clumps and should be scattered following an irrigation or rainfall, such as we have just experienced. From one-third to two-thirds of a pound of the poison bran is found to be sufficient to control the snails on the average sized orange tree.
Care should be taken not to breathe the arsenical dust when mixing the material and quantities of the material should not be placed in the crotch or about the trunks of trees because there is a slight danger of burning.

S.A. MERCHANTS PREPARE FOR SUMMER SALES

Full cooperation of Santa Ana merchants in sponsoring a July buying event, to be known as "Santa Ana Clearance Days" has been assured following a committee meeting of the merchants division of the chamber of commerce, it was announced today by Manager A. Cavalli.
Definite dates for the buying event have not been determined, but it is probable the clearance sales will be conducted during the middle of July, according to Claude J. McDowell, chairman of the merchants division, who describes the event as being the most outstanding mid-summer sales classic ever planned for Santa Ana.
Arrangements are being made to offer reasonable merchandise to the public at greatly reduced prices, with the shops and stores featuring all types of goods, from furniture to the smallest items of women's apparel.
Special bus fares will be available to out-of-town shoppers each day of the cooperative clearance sales. "We want every community to take advantage of this important event which Santa Ana, the trading center of the county, is offering," remarked Cavalli.
Merchants of the city are understood to be backing the plan 100 percent.

EPIC CLUBS HOLD PICNIC THURSDAY

The combined Epic clubs of Long Beach will hold a Democratic rally and picnic at Recreation park, Seventh street and Park avenue, Long Beach on Thursday, Flag Day, in which Orange county friends of the Epic movement are invited to take part, it was announced today.
Dr. Theodore Curtis Abell, director of the Hollywood Humanist Society, will speak at 3 p. m. on "An Interpretation of the American Flag." Other features will include a ball game, races, dancing, swimming and antics of the clown, "Happy-Go-Lucky."

EX-GOVERNOR WILL VISIT SANTA ANA

C. C. Young, former governor of California who was defeated for re-election four years ago by the late James Rolph, Jr., will be a visitor in Santa Ana on Thursday, it was announced today. He will address the Santa Ana Lions club Thursday noon at James cafe, and in the evening will participate in the annual Flag Day program of the Santa Ana Elks lodge at the Santa Ana Municipal Bowl.

AUDITORIUM PLASTERED
WESTMINSTER, June 11.—The auditorium of the Westminster Presbyterian church is receiving a new coat of plaster, the work having started Thursday. The work is being done by the Westminster school district as pay for the use of the several buildings belonging to the church during the school term just closed.
As a result of the plastering job morning church services next Sunday will be held in the church social hall. The evening services are to be omitted owing to the high school services at Huntington Beach.

True to Navy Tradition, Sea-Going 'Lady Gobs' Seek Romance Ashore

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE
Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 11.—At least 12 of the 35,000 gobs seeing life in the big city this week seem bent on shattering navy customs. That is, they deny that they have sweethearts in every port. They don't saunter along Riverside drive in their nattiest uniforms casting appraising eyes on the promenade. And most shattering of all, not one has ever been tattooed.
They're having the time of their lives, though, as these iconoclastic gobs, especially on Broadway and Fifth avenue. They've been to Chinatown and they're going to Coney Island, but chiefly what they like to do is shop and see the newest plays.

Appointments Are Made From Navy Hospitals

If you're a navy nurse, duty on the Relief is the detail you long for. You can only have it for a year, though, because it's such a coveted post that it has to be passed along. Some of the Lady Gobs are just beginning the exciting service; others are almost ready to give place to additional eager damsels who joined the navy in the hope of seeing the world. The appointments are made from among the 320 members of the navy nurse corps, registered graduate nurses who are on duty in the naval hospitals of the United States and the tropics, navy dispensaries and transports.
You have to pass a special examination before you undertake sea duty—but you are not graded upon your ability to escape seasickness, according to Miss Helen S. Wood, chief nurse.
You may go almost anywhere during your year of duty—Alaska, Hawaii, the Canal Zone, even Australia—that's the fun of it. Lady Gobs have plenty of shore leave, too, in any port and they make good use of it, they all admitted.

The Officers May Be "Good Company," But—

But they vigorously deny that many of them marry navy men, although there's some grumbling about it among the authorities. "At least, we have no romances aboard now," Miss Wood declared, smiling. "I won't say a romance is impossible. There are some traditional tales about girls who have married officers or sailors, but—no, I don't see any signs of prospective June brides around here. The nurses who marry lose their job—and most of them like their jobs."
"When they marry, they'll probably marry civilians and settle down to peace and calm on shore."

Some of the nurses were not so sure.

A pretty red-headed girl from Texas admitted that the officers were "very good company." But another said that for keeps she preferred civilians.
The Lady Gobs are on duty for seven hours. Then they may go out. Unfortunately for shore leave they don't wear their crisp white uniforms with the gold anchors on the lapels and the becoming caps banded in black and gold. So they look pretty much like other women when they get on their light summer frocks and hats. Eight of the 12 have never been

PUPILS HOLD PICNIC

BREA, June 11.—First grade pupils of Miss Dorothy Boyce's room at Laurel school enjoyed a picnic at the city park recently. The children enjoyed playing games on the park lawn. Others present were Miss Boyce and Mrs. C. S. Lee, Mrs. Frank Adams and Mrs. O. R. Meissner, grade mothers.

They're Commissioned Officers In the Junior Grade

Strictly speaking, they aren't really gobs at all since they have the relative rank of commissioned officers in the junior grades. Their work on board the Relief is chiefly executive like that of the officers, too. Trained men of the hospital corps do the actual nursing, unless a man is seriously ill and then the Lady Gob pitches in and does her stuff.

Each ward has a supervisor, there is one nurse in charge of the operating room and another at the head of the special diet kitchen.

The quarters of the Lady Gobs are about as big as good-sized clothes closets but the occupants manage to stow themselves away with the neatness of sailors. They have a roomy wardrobe, too, with cretonnes, flowers and a piano where their very good meals are served by Philippine mess boys.
The hospital part of the ship has all the up-to-date equipment of a first-class hospital on land, including x-ray machines in the latest mode, two dentist chairs, huge operating rooms with the latest lighting and cutting effects, a laboratory where blood and other tests are made, and an experiment station for work with mice and guinea pigs.

Relief is painted white to discourage the spread of battle-ships—and perhaps a special acknowledgment of the fact that she's the temporary home of the 12 Lady Gobs, sisters of mercy.

Crystal Gazer At Local Drug Store

Madam Amtra, crystal gazer and seer, will be featured in a special appearance at the McCoy Drug store at Fourth and Broadway streets during this week, according to an announcement made today by Paul McCoy, general manager of the drug company.
McCoy invited anyone interested in psychic phenomena and crystal gazing to visit the crystal gazer who, he said, is an internationally known character.
In order to confine the opportunity to confer with Amtra, McCoy said, those who are really interested, it will be required that a small purchase be made in any of the McCoy stores.

PICNIC POSTPONED

WESTMINSTER, June 11.—The annual reunion of the Westminster Junior Pioneer society has been postponed because of the infantile paralysis cases in the county. It was announced today. The reunion is expected to be held at a later date.

COOPERATIVE WORKER GROUP HEARS JONES

The people must not dwell so much on what has been accomplished, but must keep their attention steadily on the future in national recovery work, Harry L. Jones, of Los Angeles, assistant in the Federal office for Co-operative Relief Workers, said in an address that he gave in the Newport Beach Commissary rooms of the harbor district Co-operative Workers unit on Saturday at a meeting attended by representatives of the county organization.
Jones expressed the belief that the work being done by the Costa Mesa unit will meet with the hearty approval of the National organization. In answering questions that were propounded to him, he called attention to the necessity of each unit weeding out the drones occasionally. Spence Allen, president of the local unit, introduced the speaker immediately following the noon luncheon.
Mrs. Belle Spangler of the Orange county welfare department, stated that the department is turning those seeking aid through that channel to the S.E.R.A. Work will start about June 15, she said. Mrs. Belle Butler, secretary to the United Co-operative Workers, spoke briefly as also did Mr. Clark, head gardener for the La Habra unit, and Mr. Pape of Anaheim.
A potluck luncheon was served at noon to members of the United Co-operative workers of the county by the local unit. One hundred persons were served. In the evening the crowd enjoyed dancing at the Newport dance hall where dancing was enjoyed. The Newport Harbor Union high school orchestra furnished the music.
Announcement was made that a social gathering will be held by the local unit on June 20. It was also stated that a quilt and rug sale will be held in the near future by the Woman's Auxiliary.

S. A. ONE OF 25 COAST LEADERS IN BUILDING

Santa Ana is included among the 25 cities on the Pacific coast showing the greatest increase in building permits for the month of May over April, it was learned today in a report of a survey made by H. K. Baker and company of San Francisco.
Cities showing increases in May over April were Seattle, Portland, San Bernardino, Oakland, Glendale, San Mateo, Fresno, Ogden, Yakima, Tucson, San Francisco, Beverly Hills, Phoenix, San Marino, Alameda and Santa Ana.
The 25 cities showed a 25 percent increase over April, but due to the issuance of permits in 1933 for the construction of the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge, they were materially lower than in May, 1933.

Los Angeles leads in volume with $1,028,023, while Santa Ana is twenty-fifth in the list with $48,174 in May 1934, $39,773 in April, 1934 and $54,528 in May, 1933.

STAR ARRIVES FOR PART WITH PLAYERS

Miss Vera Deane, who has been prominent for several years in Pacific coast theatrical circles, arrived Saturday from San Francisco to play the leading feminine part in the Eight O'clock Players first production, Murder Holiday, which starts next Wednesday.
Miss Deane at one time played with Murphy's Comedians here. She has also played with the Dudley Ayers players, Charles King Players, and other companies throughout the coast.
Also added to the cast this week is Harry Layton, former Santa Ana high school student, who is now under an optional contract with Paramount movie studios. While in high school Layton wrote a one-act play that attracted the attention of motion picture executives.

Silverado Home Lends Setting For Annual Picnic

Sharing the hospitality of the Hugh Lowe cabin at Silverado canyon Friday members of Ebel Modern Literature section enjoyed a picnic luncheon and held election of officers as a feature of the annual meeting.

Mrs. Lloyd Chenoweth was named leader; Mrs. Robert Korff, treasurer; Mrs. Emmett Raitt, secretary; Mrs. Wilbur Barr, Mrs. Harry Matthews, program committee. Retiring officers include Mrs. George Dunton, leader; Mrs. Robert Alexander, secretary; Mrs. Harold Segstrom, treasurer; Mrs. Chenoweth, program.

Hostesses were Mesdames Harold Nelson, Paul Ragan, Clarence Nixson and Rodney Bacon, serving luncheon beneath trees in the grounds of the summer cottage. During the afternoon Mrs. William Spurgeon read excerpts from the diary of her world travels. Mrs. Terry Stephenson was a special guest of the day.

Announcement Made Of Wedding Ceremony In Vancouver

Announcement was made today by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Berk, 401 East Walnut street, of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Clarice Berk to Leonard Loetterle of Roseburg, Ore., the event taking place Monday, June 4 in Vancouver, B. C. Mr. Loetterle is son of Mr. and Mrs. George Loetterle of Deshler, Neb.

Miss Berk left this city on June 1 for the north. The quiet ceremony at which she became Mrs. Loetterle took place in the Lutheran parsonage at Vancouver. Wearing a blue tulle suit with white accessories, she made a very attractive bride. There were no attendants.

The young people are making their home in Roseburg, where Mr. Loetterle is employed as a government forester. He attended Kansas Agricultural college at Manhattan. His bride accompanied her parents from Nebraska, their former home, to Santa Ana, where they have been living since last September. She attended Santa Ana Junior college, where she was a member of the Girls' octet.

Farewell Surprise Has Various Enjoyable Features

Miss Janet Pruett, one of the city's exchange teachers this year from Burbank, and who is leaving soon for that city after having taught at Delhi school, was complimented Thursday night at a friendly farewell party given by Miss Cleora Fine, with whom she has shared an apartment at 518 Spurgeon street.

In planning the party, Miss Fine kept her own counsel so cleverly that all details were a complete surprise to her honor guest. The two, with Miss Margaret Young, followed a suggestion from Miss Grace Anderson, and her mother, Mrs. Christine Anderson, in their home, 539 South Shelton street. Arrival of the remaining guest group was completely unexpected by Miss Pruett, and was a delightful feature of the evening.

Card tables were called into service for progressive hearts, in which first and consolation prizes were awarded Miss "Hum" Kendall and Miss Kay Kendall.

Refreshments of a frozen dessert and wafers were served to the accompaniment of colored luncheon sets and green glass, with very charming effect. Miss Pruett received the second surprise of the evening, when guests presented her an electric sandwich grill and a set of mixing bowls.

Miss Pruett is returning to Burbank to teach again next year in the schools of that city, but her friends are aware of her engagement to Harold Dickes of Hollywood, and of her plans to be married in early winter.

Miss Fine's guests in addition to her honor, Miss Pruett, Mrs. Christine Anderson and Miss Grace Anderson, were Mrs. Donald Baldwin, Mrs. Robert Evans, Mrs. Robert Luby, the Misses Margaret Young, Kay Kendall, Hum Kendall, Grace Middlebrook and Lois Sturgeon.

Sisters Preside Over Shower For June Bride-Elect

Plans of Mrs. Alma Ditschel and Bernard Lombard for a June wedding inspired the bride-to-be's sisters to entertain with a miscellaneous shower Thursday night in the home of Mrs. Wilton Curtis, 1317 Cypress avenue. Hostesses were Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Henry Burdorf, Mrs. Frank Sedgley and Miss Ann Cordes.

Brightened with many flowers, rooms of the home provided an attractive setting for tables placed in readiness for games of cootie. Mr. Lombard's mother, Mrs. Veron Lombard, received a vase for scoring high, and Mrs. Ditschel was showered with many gifts.

Table appointments at the supper hour were in pink and white. Guests of the hostesses, Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Burdorf, Mrs. Sedgley and Miss Cordes were Mesdames Veron Lombard, Frank Sawyer, J. Thornhill, James Henry, Roy Shelton, William Jenks, Guy Thornhill, W. W. Tatum, Mrs. L. Jackson, John Jamison, W. L. Jackson, Judith Anne, H. B. Spayd, Nettie Davis, H. Sands and granddaughter, Shirley Ann Van Natta, Maggie Stratton, R. L. Hager, W. O. Sidman, G. W. Spencer, T. F. Nail and daughter, Shirley Mae, P. Gammell, Alvira Lees, O. M. Harrison, Lora G. McNeal, Hasele Hatfield, F. A. Fones, T. W. Ringland, Robert Emerson and G. W. Jamison.

Couple Married Here To Establish Home In Oregon

The marriage of Mrs. Dorothy Davenport Davis, daughter of C. E. Davenport and the late Mrs. Davenport of Tunnel City, Wis., to Charles Frederick Brougher, son of Mrs. Carrie Brougher of Anaheim, took place Friday evening, June 8 at 1:30 o'clock in First Methodist chapel. Many flowers had been arranged at the altar.

Pegasus club, in which Mrs. Davis held membership, relatives and close friends attended the impressive services, read by Dr. George A. Warner.

Mrs. W. B. Snow played organ selections and accompaniment for Mrs. George Warner as she sang "O, Promise Me." "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" and "Rest," words of which had been written by Mrs. George Bond, aunt of the bride. Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's wedding marches completed the bridal music.

Mrs. Davis wore peach taffeta and carried Tulleman roses and sweet peas. Mrs. Ralph Brougher, wearing pink taffeta, and the bride's sister, Mrs. Dick Boyd, in powder blue crepe, were her attendants. Their bouquets were of sweet peas.

Ralph Brougher was best man. Ushers were Harold Davis and Noel Brougher.

The wedding ceremony was followed by a reception in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Bond, 507 East Myrtle. Mrs. Bond wore pussy willow crepe and Mr. Brougher's mother, Mrs. Carrie Brougher, in navy blue and white. Their flowers were gardenias and sweet peas in corsage bouquets.

A lovely setting had been achieved through the use of roses, carnations, gladioluses and other blooms. Centering a fern-strewn table where tall cathedral candles glowed on the Irish lace cloth, was a handsome wedding cake. Mrs. Collin Campbell and Mrs. Robert J. Reed poured tea and coffee, and were assisted in serving by Mrs. Dick Boyd, Mrs. Clarence Bond, Mrs. Virgil Paxton and Mrs. Lawrence Mucken-thaler.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Brougher left for a wedding trip, with plans to return here before making their departure for Oregon, where they will live near Eugene.

Guests at the reception were Mrs. Carrie Brougher, Mr. and Mrs. John Brougher, Miss Amelia Weston, Mrs. Brougher, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Paxton, Noel Brougher, Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kearns, Garden Grove; Mrs. Dick Boyd, Santa Fe; Mrs. Robert Reed, Albuquerque, N. M.; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mucken-thaler, Rex Harris, Miss Jean Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Poote, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Brougher, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bond, Mrs. Rose Havelly, Miss Beverly Bond, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bond, Dr. and Mrs. George Warner, Mrs. W. B. Snow, Mrs. Stone and the bride's little daughter and son, Georgiana and Harold Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Jerry, 1334 South Barton street, are the parents of a son, Daniel Dennis Jerry, born Thursday, June 7, at St. Joseph hospital. Mrs. Jerry will be remembered as Miss Evangeline Wolford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wolford, 806 East Pine street.

Mrs. W. B. McConnell, 1218 Orange avenue, was in Los Angeles Sunday evening attending a dinner honoring Mrs. Blanche Green of New Haven, Conn. Mrs. McConnell was attending a lecture given by Mrs. Green at Biltmore hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson and daughter and son, Betty Ann and John Richard Thompson of Ada, Okla., have arrived to spend the summer with Mrs. Thompson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Richard, Pasadena avenue, Tustin.

The Rev. P. F. Schrock, 205 West Twentieth street, pastor of First Congregational church, leaves tomorrow morning for Claremont, where he will join Franklin Warner for a motor trip to Oberlin, Ohio, to attend the meeting of the national council of Congregational and Christian churches to be in session June 21 to 27. After the council meeting the Rev. Mr. Schrock will visit his sisters and brothers in Ashtabula, Ohio, returning home by train.

Robert O'Brien of Memphis, Tenn., has arrived to join Mrs. O'Brien who has been visiting with her parents and sisters, Mrs. Eva O'Brien and the Misses Helen and Irene O'Brien, 1216 South Flower street, since January. Mr. O'Brien will fill the pulpit at First Congregational church in the absence of the Rev. Mr. Schrock. Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will return to Memphis to take up their residence, where the former is a member of the faculty at Le Moyne college.

The Senior group of Junior American Legion auxiliary held its latest meeting in the home of Mrs. Franklin Grouard, 1076 West Fourth street. Margaret Johnson, president, conducted the meeting, during which the drill team had practice. Refreshments were served.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Fine of San Fernando Government hospital spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. West, West Seventeenth street.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL EAT AND GROW SLIM

Breakfast
1 eight-ounce glass of pure orange juice
1 cup warm skim milk with 1-2 cup black coffee
1 coddled egg with 1-2 tsp. butter, salt and pepper.
Calory total .....290
For one week, will you eat a semi-liquid breakfast? Not that you'll lose weight on it, but you will lose something better than weight—and that's that logy feeling you've carried around for the last month or so.

If all that liquid bothers you, take the orange juice as soon as you get up—before dressing—and the rest at breakfast time.

You women, lucky enough to have access to "ocean going" fish markets, will remember that when the salmon run is on, baby salmon steamed or poached in milk and water, wrap loosely in thin cloth for poaching, allowing the fish 10 minutes for every pound (poach, don't boil at a gallop). It should be served hot with egg sauce or with hollandaise. Cold, masked with mayonnaise, the garnish, sliced tomato, radish roses and crisp slices of cucumber, with cress wreathing the plate.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Delicious Hot Cakes
Mix and sift together
2 cups flour
1 scant tsp. salt and 4 tps. baking powder
2 egg yolks beaten with 1-4 cups sweet milk
1-4 cup cooking oil
2 egg whites well frothed
2 juicy apples, grated.

—Contributed Recipe.
After mixing and sifting flour and other dry items, add beaten yolk and milk to make a smooth batter. When well mixed add the oil and whip well, then the frothed whites, last of all the grated apples. Fry in small cakes and serve with crisp bacon or small sausages.

Omitting the apple you may have a delicious change in Pine-apple hot cakes. To the above recipe add 1 cup of crushed, drained pineapple and bake the cakes in butter.

An appropriate estimate for each hot cake would be about 60 calories. When butter and other things are added the total reaches a respectable figure for even one cake.

If you are tempted to buy, and do buy, those tiny squid chickens, don't attempt to fry them. . . . they'll dry up and blow away if you do. Just dredge them with flour, brown lightly in butter, transfer to a covered baking dish, add minced parsley and a little onion, butter and a cupful of milk. Baked very slowly until the chickens are tender, then uncover them to brown the breasts. A whole chicken won't be too much for each person, especially if they are the 5-for-a-dollar variety.

Tuesday: A One-Dish Meal which is actually all that its donor claims for it.

Tenn., has arrived to join Mrs. O'Brien who has been visiting with her parents and sisters, Mrs. Eva O'Brien and the Misses Helen and Irene O'Brien, 1216 South Flower street, since January. ## Graduating Nurses Are Complimented At Gay "Round Up"

When the graduating class members of Orange County General hospital responded Thursday night to clever invitations issued by the junior class to the "Last Round-Up," they followed the trail to Irvine park, where they found themselves honored at a most delightful affair.

The class banquet was served at tables most inviting with their colorful appointments. Places were indicated by tiny signposts planted in miniature cactus gardens, the dinner favors. Each signpost bore the name of one of the nurses, with a cowboy sobriquet, and one of the amusing features of the after-dinner program was when each had to rise and give her cowboy name. Dinner details included the use of red and blue handanna handkerchiefs as napkins, bright colored pottery bowls for serving the salad course, and countless other original touches.

The after-dinner program opened with an inspiring talk by Miss Grace Elizabeth Lansing, superintendent of nurses. Miss Marjorie Harris, class president, responded to this and expressed her good wishes to the class of 1935. Miss Ella Middleton, junior class president, accepted the remarks on behalf of the hostess group. Miss Shirley Criss, attired as a cowboy, gave the prophecy: Miss Hazel Freeberg gave the class history, and then the will was passed in the form of a booklet from which each senior nurse read a bequest.

Billy Rose will play violin selections.

Singing Organization Joins In Party For Mrs. Goodwin

Interest of Bel Canto club members in the plans of one of their number, Mrs. G. O. Goodwin, to make her future home in Keeler, Calif., was expressed the past week in friendly fashion when Mrs. W. M. Wells entertained in her home, 324 East Seventeenth street.

Mrs. Goodwin and her daughter, Miss Virginia Goodwin, a student at Junior college, have been living here with Mrs. Goodwin's mother, Mrs. H. E. Whipple, 3210 Greenleaf street. With the close of the college term they will re-join Mr. Goodwin, who is in the office of a mining corporation at Keeler. Mrs. Goodwin's personality and her lovely soprano voice have made her a valuable acquisition to Bel Canto club, Santa Ana Woman's club, and other organizations and social groups.

Mrs. Wells had planned an evening of bridge, played amidst artistically arranged flowers. High score in the contest was made by Miss Evelyn Hutton. When the prize was awarded it was signal for the presentation of a special gift from the club to Mrs. Goodwin for use in her new home. The serving of refreshments brought the evening to a close. Mrs. Wells welcomed as guests in addition to the honoree, the Misses Edith McDonald, Alta Weaver, Opha Coulson, Ruth LaLonde, Evelyn Hutton, Mrs. Earl M. Waycott, Mrs. Alpha Wright and Mrs. Blanche Hackleton.

EVERY GIRL SHOULD GRADUATE IN CHARM
PATTERN 1847
BY ANNE ADAMS

By the time a girl is ready to receive a diploma she has earned the prettiest frock a clever mind can create—and here it is! The bodice is just sufficiently moulded to emphasize a rounded young figure and the vest effect and ruffles give it importance proper to the occasion. It would be a charming thing in taffeta—if the graduation is to be "dressy"—or in a pretty cotton stuff, just a wee bit crisp in texture. And don't you like the way the sash emerges from under the front section, leaving the waistline unbroken at the very front.

Pattern 1847 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 takes 3½ yards 39 inch fabric and 2½ yards lace edging. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

The smartest warm weather fashions, the newest fabrics, and the summer season's outstanding accessories are illustrated and described in the NEW ANNE ADAMS PATTERN BOOK FOR SUMMER. ORDER YOUR COPY OF THIS HELPFUL NEW SUMMER BOOK. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Silverado Home Lends Setting For Annual Picnic

Mrs. Lloyd Chenoweth was named leader; Mrs. Dexter Ball, associate leader; Mrs. Robert Korff, treasurer; Mrs. Elmer Barr, secretary; Mrs. William Barry, Harry Herbert Miller and Mrs. George Matthews, program committee. Receiving officers include Mrs. George Dunton, leader; Mrs. Robert Alexander, secretary; Mrs. Harold Segstrom, treasurer; Mrs. Chenoweth, with program.

Hostesses were Mesdames Harold Nelson, Paul Ragan, Clarence Nisson and Rodney Bacon, serving luncheon beneath trees in the grounds of the summer cottage. During the afternoon Mrs. William Spurgeon read excerpts from the diary of her world travels. Mrs. Terry Stephenson was a special guest of the day.

Announcement Made Of Wedding Ceremony In Vancouver

Announcement was made today by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Berck, 401 East Walnut street, of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Clarice Berck to Leonard Loetterle of Roseburg, Ore., the event taking place Monday, June 4 in Vancouver. B. C. Mr. Loetterle is son of Mr. and Mrs. George Loetterle of Deshler, Neb.

Miss Berck left this city on June 1 for the north. The quiet ceremony at which she became Mrs. Loetterle took place in the Lutheran parsonage at Vancouver. Wearing a blue tulle suit with white accessories, she made a very attractive bride. There were no attendants.

The young people are making their home in Roseburg, where Mr. Loetterle is employed as a government forester. He attended Kansas Agricultural college at Manhattan. His bride accompanied her parents from Nebraska, their former home, to Santa Ana, where they have been living since last September. She attended Santa Ana Junior college, where she was a member of the Girls' octet.

Farewell Surprise Has Various Enjoyable Features

Miss Janet Pruet, one of the city's exchange teachers this year from Burbank and who is leaving soon for that city after having taught at Delhi school, was complimented Thursday night at a friendly farewell party given by Miss Cleora Fine, with whom she has shared an apartment at 818 Spurgeon street.

In planning the party, Miss Fine kept her own counsel so cleverly that all details were a complete surprise to her honor guest. The two, with Miss Margaret Young, followed a suggestion from Miss Grace Anderson, that they play bridge with her and her mother, Mrs. Christine Anderson, in their home, 529 South Shelton street. Arrival of the remaining guest group was completely unexpected by Miss Pruet, and was a delightful feature of the evening.

Card tables were called into service for progressive hearts, in which first and consolation prizes were awarded. "Hum" Kendall and Miss Kay Kendall.

Refreshments of a frozen dessert and wafers were served to the accompaniment of colored luncheon sets and green glass, with very charming effect. Miss Pruet received the second surprise of the evening, when guests presented her an electric sandwich grill and a set of mixing bowls.

Miss Pruet is returning to Burbank to teach again next year in the schools of that city, but her friends are aware of her engagement to Harold Dicks of Hollywood, and of her plans to be married in early winter.

Miss Fine's guests in addition to her honor, Miss Pruet, Mrs. Christine Anderson, Mrs. Donald Baldwin, Miss Jean Baldwin, Hunt-Inston Beach; Mrs. Kenneth Hill, Anaheim; Mrs. Robert Evans, Mrs. Robert Lufbery, the Misses Margaret Young, Kay Kendall, Hum Kendall, Grace Middlebrook and Lois Sturgeon.

A lovely setting had been achieved through the use of roses, carnations, gladioli and other blooms. Centering a fern-strewn table where tall cathedral candles glowed on the Irish lace cloth, was a handsome wedding cake.

Mrs. Colin Campbell and Mrs. Robert J. Reed poured tea and coffee, and were assisted in serving by Mrs. Dick Boyd, Mrs. Clarence Bond, Mrs. Virgil Paxton and Mrs. Lawrence Mucken-thaler.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Brougner left for a wedding trip, with plans to return here before making their departure for Oregon, where they will live near Eugene.

Guests at the reception were Mrs. Carrie Brougner, Mr. and Mrs. John Brougner, Miss Amelia Heaton, Ora Brougner, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Paxton, Noel Brougner, Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kearns, Garden Grove; Mrs. Dick Boyd, Santa Fe; Mrs. Robert Reed, Albuquerque, N. M.; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mucken-thaler, Rex Harris, Miss Jean Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Poote, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Brougner, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bond, Mrs. Rose Havelly, Miss Beverly Bond, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bond, Dr. and Mrs. George Warner, Mrs. W. B. Snow, Mrs. Stone and the bride's little daughter and son, Georgiana and Harold Davis.

Brightened with many flowers, rooms of the home provided an attractive setting for tables placed in readiness for games of cootie. Mr. Lombard's mother, Mrs. Veron Lombard, received a vase for scoring high, and Miss Evelyn Struthoff, an apron for scoring second high. Mrs. Ditschel was showered with many gifts.

Table appointments at the supper hour were in pink and white. Guests of the hostesses, Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Burdick, Mrs. Sedgwick and Miss Cordes were Mesdames Veron Lombard, Frank Sawyer, J. Thornhill, James Henry, Roy Shelton, William Jenks, Guy Thornhill, Don Wasser, W. Tatun and the Misses Lily Rasmussen and Marcel Harvey. Santa Ana; Mesdames Evelyn Manning, Richard Struthoff, Henry Cordes, William Perry, Edwin Haebler, Glenn Gray and the Misses Margaret Shafer, Evelyn Cordes, Evelyn Struthoff, Pat Struthoff, Mildred Cordes, Anaheim; Mrs. A. Cordes, Los Angeles; Mrs. Louis Walker, Orange; Mrs. Glenn Grouver, Huntington Beach, and the honor guest, Mrs. Ditschel.

Couple Married Here To Establish Home In Oregon

The marriage of Mrs. Dorothy Davenport Davis, daughter of C. E. Davenport and the late Mrs. Davenport of Tunnel City, Wis., to Charles Frederick Brougner, son of Mrs. Carrie Brougner of Anaheim, took place Friday evening, June 8 at 7:30 o'clock in First Methodist chapel. Many flowers had been arranged at the altar.

Pegasus club, in which Mrs. Davis held membership, relatives and close friends attended the impressive services, read by Dr. George A. Warner.

Mrs. W. B. Snow played organ selections and accompaniment for Mrs. George Warner as she sang "O Promise Me," "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" and "Rest," words of which had been written by the George Bond, aunt of the bride, Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's wedding marches completed the bridal music.

Mrs. Davis wore peach taffeta and carried Talisman roses and sweet peas. Mrs. Ralph Brougner, wearing pink taffeta, and the bride's sister, Mrs. Dick Boyd, in powder blue crepe, were her attendants. Their bouquets were of sweet peas.

Ralph Brougner was best man. Ushers were Harold Davis and Noel Brougner.

The wedding ceremony was followed by a reception in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Bond, 507 East Myrtle. Mrs. Bond wore pussy willow crepe and Mr. Brougner's mother, Mrs. Carrie Brougner, was in navy blue and white. Their flowers were gardenias and sweet peas in corsage bouquets.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Breakfast

1 eight-ounce glass of pure orange juice

1 cup warm skim milk with 1-2 cup black coffee

Calory total ..... 290

For one week, will you eat a semi-liquid breakfast? Not that you'll lose weight on it, but you will lose something better than weight—and that's that logy feeling you've carried around for the last month or so.

If all that liquid bothers you, take the orange juice as soon as you get up—before dressing—and the rest at breakfast time.

You women, lucky enough to have access to "Ocean Going" fish markets, will remember that when the salmon run is on, baby salmon can always be found in the markets. These fish won't weigh over six or eight pounds and are sold to be baked . . . did you ever bake one? I did, and for a guest dinner some years ago. When I took it from the oven it was the saddest looking little piece of food you ever saw . . . dry . . . tough . . . tasteless! The fish can be baked if wrapped in parchment paper, but are much nicer if steamed or poached in milk and water. Wrap loosely in thin cloth for poaching, allowing the fish 10 minutes for every pound (poach, don't boil at a gallop). It should be served hot with egg sauce or with hollandaise. Cold, masked with mayonnaise, the garnish, sliced tomato, radish roses and crisp slices of cucumber, with cress wreathing the plate.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Delicious Hot Cakes

Mix and sift together

2 cups flour

1 scant tsp. salt and 4 tsp. baking powder

2 egg yolks beaten with 1-4 cups sweet milk

1-4 cup cooking oil

2 egg whites well frothed

—Contributed Recipe.

After mixing and sifting flour and other dry items, add beaten yolk and milk to make a smooth batter. When well mixed add the oil and whip well, then the frothed whites, last of all the grated apples. Fry in small cakes and serve with crisp bacon or small sausages.

Omitting the apple you may have a delicious change in Pineapple hot cakes. To the above recipe add 1 cup of crushed, drained pineapple and bake the cakes in butter.

An appropriate estimate for each hot cake would be about 60 calories. When butter and other things are added the total reaches a respectable figure for even one cake.

If you are tempted to buy, and do buy, those tiny squid chickens, don't attempt to fry them. They'll dry up and blow away if you do. Just dredge them with flour, brown lightly in butter, transfer to a covered baking dish, add minced parsley and a little onion, butter and a cupful of milk. Baked very slowly until the chickens are tender, then uncover them to brown the breasts. A whole chicken won't be too much for each person, especially if they are the 6-for-a-dollar variety.

Tuesday: A One-Dish Meal which is actually all that its donor claims for it.

Tenn., has arrived to join Mrs. O'Brien who has been visiting with her parents and sisters, Mrs. Eva O'Brien at the Misses Helen and Irene O'Brien, 1216 South Flower street, since January. Mr. O'Brien will fill the pulpit at First Congregational church in the absence of the Rev. Mr. Schrock. Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will return to Memphis to take up their residence, where the former is a member of the faculty at Le Moyne college.

The Senior group of Junior American Legion auxiliary held its latest meeting in the home of Mrs. Franklin Grouard, 1076 West Fourth street. Margaret Johnson, president, conducted the meeting, during which the drill team had practice. Refreshments were served.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Fine of San Fernando Government hospital spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. West, West Seventeenth street.

Graduating Nurses Are Complimented At Gay "Round Up"

When the graduating class members of Orange County General hospital responded Thursday night to clever invitations issued by the junior class to the "Last Round-Up," they followed the trail to Irvine park, where they found themselves honored at a most delightful affair.

The class banquet was served at tables most inviting with their colorful appointments. Places were indicated by tiny signposts planted in miniature cactus gardens, the dinner favors. Each signpost bore the name of one of the nurses, with a cowboy sobriquet, and one of the amusing features of the after-dinner program was when each had to rise and give her cowboy name. Dinner details included the use of red and blue bandanna handkerchiefs as napkins, bright colored pottery bowls for serving the salad course, and countless other original touches.

The after-dinner program opened with an inspiring talk by Miss Grace Elizabeth Lansing, superintendent of nurses. Miss Marjorie Harris, class president, responded to this and expressed her good wishes to the class of 1935. Miss Ella Middleton, junior class president, accepted the remarks on behalf of the hostess group. Miss Shirley Criss, attired in cowboy, gave the prophecy: Miss Hazel Freeberg gave the class history, and then the will was passed in the form of a book let from which each senior nurse read a bequest.

Guests of honor at this gay party were the Misses Marjorie Harris, Gertrude Eldridge, Floretta Harman, Elizabeth Yearsley, Cary Gray, Hazel Booher and Florence Freeberg, graduate nurses; Miss Gertrude Schroeder, sponsor; Miss Lansing, superintendent; Miss Anna Elbing, assistant; Mrs. Julia Salisbury, instructor. Junior class members who were hostesses were the Misses Ella Middleton, Eleanor Post, Vivienne Watson, Margaret Nickell, Nancy Wason, Virginia Cameron, Velma Ryan, Lenore Terrell, Jean Triplett, Edith Johnson, Clare Codman, Vivian Bradbury, Shirley Criss, Clara Garrett, Corale Derr, Lottie Gilmore, Evelyn Pringle and their sponsor, Miss Gertrude Prichard.

At the close of a pleasant evening, the bride-elect was showered with miscellaneous gifts. Refreshments were served at small tables spread with pretty linens. Many colorful flowers were used in decorating.

Present for the occasion with Miss Ann Liebermann and Mrs. Cozad were Mesdames Frank E. Finster, Vera Robinson, Mary Booth, Irene Cleary, Clarissa Fowler, Hazel Paul, Angie Carlson, George Barrett, Raymond Ross and the Misses Elizabeth Spohr, Verna Jones, Zenida Bodier, Grace Johnson, Margaret Walkinshaw, Rose Liebermann, May Salter, Mary Gail and Carrie Morse.

Singing Organization Joins In Party For Mrs. Goodwin

Interest of Bel Canto club members in the plans of one of their number, Mrs. G. O. Goodwin, to make her future home in Keeler, Calif., was expressed the past week in friendly fashion when Mrs. W. M. Wells entertained in her home, 324 East Seventeenth street.

Mrs. Goodwin and her daughter, Miss Virginia Goodwin, a student at Junior college, have been living here with Mrs. Goodwin's mother, Mrs. H. E. Whipple, 3210 Greenleaf street. With the close of the college term they will rejoin Mr. Goodwin, who is in the office of a mining corporation at Keeler. Mrs. Goodwin's personality and her lovely soprano voice have made her a valuable acquisition to Bel Canto club, Santa Ana Woman's club, and other organizations and social groups.

Mrs. Wells had planned an evening of bridge, played amidst artistically arranged flowers. High score in the contest was made by Miss Evelyn Hutton. When the prize was awarded it was signal for the presentation of a special gift from the club to Mrs. Goodwin for use in her new home. The serving of refreshments brought the pleasant evening to a close.

Mrs. Wells received as guests in addition to the honoree, the Misses Edith McDonald, Alta Weaver, Opha Coulson, Ruth LaLonde, Evelyn Hutton, Mrs. Earl M. Waycott, Mrs. Alpha Wright and Mrs. Blanche Hackleton.

FINGERPRINTS ALONG HIGHWAY OF GOD CITED TO GRADUATES AS GUIDE UPON ROAD OF LIFE

The thousands of graduates leaving school this month to grapple with the problems of life were inspiration for the sermon of the Rev. Samuel Edgar, of the Reformed Presbyterian church, Sunday morning, speaking from the text, Isaiah 58:11, "I will guide thee continually," He said, in part:

"Every highway throughout the land has its sign posts to help the traveler find his way. What satisfaction to stop on a dark night at an unknown crossroads and find the sign post telling you that you are on the right road and after a short drive you shall be back again into well known territory. "There are fingerprints all along life's highway for our direction and to aid us in finding the way of God. The highway of life is the way back to God and the way of service for Him.

"No one questions the need of signposts along the highways, they are ever in demand. No one doubts the need of fingerprints along life's highway, for we see such a short way ahead. We start out in the morning and know not what is ahead through the day. We know not what a day or an hour shall bring forth. "We are thinking of the thousands of young men and women that shall stream out of our great educational institutions this week and the week to follow. How many of them are asking as to 'whither bound?' How they wish they knew where they were going and what they were going to do. And we older ones could be most happy to tell them if we only knew. While it is not for us to guide them in details there are certain fundamentals in life we would like them to follow as they enter new highways and reach into the unknown future. God forbid they should lose the way.

"First, let us notice then, some visible fingerprints of life. Moses was out in the desert busy with the every-day affairs, when he was stopped by one of God's fingerprints, the bush that burned and was not consumed. He turned aside to see this strange thing.

GREAT SUPPERS OF GOSPEL ARE SERMON THEME

"There were two great suppers related for us in the 14th chapter of the gospel according to Luke," said the Rev. H. W. Meyer, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church, speaking from the text Luke 14:15-24, "The Great Supper," Sunday morning. "The first supper mentioned in the chapter," he said, "was great because Christ was there as honored guest, teaching great lessons. The second supper mentioned was great because He told of it in the parable and presented Himself as the center-most thought.

"Christ had been invited to the home of one of the chief Pharisees to eat bread and it was on the Sabbath day. They watched Him, evidently to entrap him in some violation of their religious code. A man was before him sick with the dropsy. Jesus asked, 'Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath day?' and He forthwith healed the man. For some reason or other they held their peace. Many guests were there and evidently there was a scramble for the chief places of honor, so Jesus gave them a parable on humility. Christ also had something to say on the matter of charity or expression of love: 'When thou makest a dinner or supper call not thy brethren—nor thy rich neighbors, lest they also bid thee again, and a recompense be made thee. But when thou makest a feast, call the poor, the maimed, the lame, and the blind. And thou shalt be blessed . . .'

"These two great suppers with Christ's comments would give us much room to speak on charity and brotherly love, or even the 'New Deal' and the U. S. A. going for Socialism, but Christ wanted to present an entirely spiritual lesson concerning the reception and rejection of Himself, so we shall stay by the main thought of Christ's parable of the Great Supper. One guest was impressed by Jesus' lesson, for we find him speaking up with enthusiasm: 'Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the kingdom of God.' The parable followed. 'A certain man made a great supper and bade many.' The Trinity God is involved in the first few verses; the 'certain man' was God, the 'prepared supper' was salvation that God provided through His Son. 'God so loved the world . . . ' well described by John the Baptist, 'Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sins of the world'; the servant sent out to invite, bring, and compel is the Holy Ghost working through the apostles, prophets and evangelists, and through every living Christian. The many who were invited to the great Supper—to believe in Christ—included Christ's host and his fellow guests, who are those of the parable who began to make excuse: 'must go to see my land, am going to prove my five yokes of oxen, pray have me excused. I have married a wife and therefore cannot come.

"Three classes of people are involved. First, the 'bidden', those who had come in contact with God's word and lived under the shelter of God's grace, also nominal Christians of today. Secondly, the people of the streets and the lanes, the poor, the maimed, the halt, and the blind—the spiritually blind and lame, and poor who were to be brought in. These lived in the shadow of God's word, but had not come in contact with it. They live in the shadow of the church today, but

And behold: It was God's finger-pointing him to Egypt. To his life work. To the deliverance of God's people from the tyranny of Egypt. That fingerpost led him into the riches of God's plan for him.

"Peter's vision on the housepost pointing him into a new highway. To follow the directions meant dropping of beliefs of the past, meant believing that the Gentile world was worthy of the grace of God. That fingerpost pointed to the home of Cornelius, and Peter obeying, went nothing doubting, and lo the Holy Spirit fell upon those who heard the word in the house of Cornelius and the door was open for the Gentiles.

"Second, We need to know how to read these fingerprints of God. This is the ever present question amongst us all. How am I to know the Divine plan. There are three things that God hath given to aid in our direction. First we have the Word of God, which, said the Psalmist, is 'a lamp to my feet and a light to my path.' This God hath given us that all may read and learn. Then we have the guidance of the Holy Spirit. Then, God hath given us the power to discern, given us the will to judge and decide.

"Third, We need faith to follow the guide. Without faith it is impossible to please God. No use of signs along the highway if travelers pay no attention to them. No use in paying a guide for his help and then wander away alone at the end of the highway. Let us into His highway and lead us into that highway if we will only follow His directions.

"Read God's fingerprints. Follow the directions, enjoy the new pathway and all that Jesus our guide shall open ahead for us."

PASTOR TELLS GOD'S PROMISE TO CHRISTIANS

Christian zeal in the service of God grows lax, but His covenant to forgive the returning sinner will be kept, said the Rev. William Schmoock, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Sunday morning.

His sermon subject, "The Lord Cares For His Own," was taken from the Book of Judges. He said, in part:

"In the book of Judges we are told how the children of Israel began to grow lax in their appointed task of driving out the original inhabitants of Canaan and of occupying the land, their zeal began to lag and they were in danger of complete apostasy. "But the Lord comes to His people and reminds them of their sin of disobedience with the intention of working repentance in their hearts. He also reminds them of His threat that if they would not obey His voice He would leave the heathen inhabitants in the land as a constant source of danger for Israel. However, the Lord also invites Israel to return to Him in repentance. He also reminds them of true repentance. He reminds God's arms are always open, waiting to embrace the returning sinner. The plea of the Lord won the hearts of the people. They wept over their sins and again turned to the Lord.

"Israel here portrays the life and experience of the Christian. At first we are filled with love and zeal for service in God's kingdom, but gradually we become more and more lax, our love begins to grow cold, and our zeal to die. But God comes to us in His Word as He came to Israel at Bochim. He reminds us of our negligence, shortcomings, and sins. He tells us also: 'Ye have not obeyed my voice. We did not fight against the original inhabitants of our hearts, but permitted selfishness, worldliness, and lusts of all kinds to remain undisturbed until they threaten to destroy our Christianity altogether.

"What a comfort for us to learn that even under such conditions God remains true to His covenant which He made with us in baptism. His love and mercy is constant. He tells us: 'I will never break my covenant with you.' Our compassions fail not, they are new every morning; great is His faithfulness. The Lord welcomes us back with extended open arms. Let us return to Him."

Mrs. M. C. Pollard Hostess To Class

TUSTIN, June 11—Members of the Berean Bible class of the Tustin Presbyterian church enjoyed a delightful party recently at the home of Mrs. M. C. Pollard, Santa Clara avenue, Santa Ana. Guests worked at fancy work and inspected the lovely flower gardens. Refreshments of cookies and feed punch were served on individual trays.

Those sharing the hospitality of the hostess were Mesdames Bertha McMillan, Louise Satterwhite, H. Greenwood, Mary Greenwood, E. E. Smith, C. P. Marshall, Effie Slusser, Eva Logan, Laura Custer, W. L. Leiby, Kate C. Ebel, Laura Bearss, J. O. Preble, C. H. Whitney and George Hatfield.

uninfluenced by its message. Thirdly, those of the highways and hedges who were to be converted to come in, were the gentiles of that day; are the pagans of this day."

BOOK 13 ON LIQUOR COUNTS OVER WEEKEND

Thirteen persons were booked at the county jail over the weekend on liquor violations, including two for drunken driving, three for investigation of drunk driving and eight for drunkenness.

Pedro Carrillo, 39, Los Angeles, was released from jail yesterday on a $500 bail bond after being jailed at 3:27 p. m. yesterday for drunken driving by Police Chief Gus Barnes of Placentia.

Jack Matta, 35, R. D. 5, Box 435, Santa Ana, was booked at the county jail for investigation of drunken driving by Officers John Elitiste and V. G. Wolfe of Orange at 4 a. m. Sunday. According to the officers, Matta was driving all over West Chapman avenue in his car and was very rowdy, vulgar and intoxicated when placed under arrest.

Ellis Taylor, 39, and Frank W. Warren, 47, both of 424 South Olive street, Anaheim, were booked at the county jail at 4:10 a. m. Sunday for investigation of drunken driving by California Highway Patrolman Dan Adams. Both men claimed to have been driving Taylor's car when it crashed into the rear of a small truck on the Orangeforth road one mile west of Fullerton. Since both had been drinking and were unable to give coherent details of the accident, Adams placed them in jail. Taylor assumed the blame for driving when questioned by Adams today, it was learned. The men were to be arraigned in justice court this afternoon.

Starts One Year Term William S. Conner, 37, Long Beach carpenter, booked himself at the jail Saturday to start serving a one year sentence for drunken driving, imposed as the result of an automobile accident at Huntington Beach in January. In which a Long Beach girl was killed.

Following a search of brush and orchards near the Santa Ana river on Santa Ana boulevard yesterday afternoon, Ramon Mendoza, 42, 171 Orange street, Orange, was arrested and booked at the jail for drunkenness by Santa Ana police. Mendoza's car crashed into the parked car of a Bakersfield man, whose name was not taken by police. After the crash, the Mexican ran from his car and hid in the brush. Motor Officer Ed Lentz secured police reinforcements for the search and the man was finally found by California Highway Patrolman Ben Garf.

When the Bakersfield man refused to sign a complaint against Mendoza, police charged him with drunkenness and jailed him. Joe de la Rosa, 40, Orange, was treated at the Orange county hospital for head wounds before being transferred to the county jail yesterday afternoon on a drunkenness charge. The Mexican was arrested by Officer Pete Winslow after he had fallen down and struck his head on a truck wheel on North Lemon street. After being given medical treatment, he was jailed by Officers A. H. Westermann and James Johnson.

Blas Garland, 39, Indian from the Pala reservation, was arrested for drunkenness at Fourth and French streets and booked at the county jail by Officers Roy Hartley and C. V. Adams at 5 p. m. Two men were arrested by Officers P. L. Grouard and W. E. B. Sherwood at a pool room at Fourth and Garfield streets at 11:40 o'clock last night. When they started to arrest Fredrick Hernandez, 29, 917 East Pine street, and place him in the police car, John Quintana, 23, 907 1/2 East Sixth street, attempted to restrain the officers and was also placed under arrest. Hernandez was booked for drunkenness and Quintana for drunkenness and resisting an officer.

Paul Valenzuela, 23, San Juan Capistrano, was booked at the county jail Sunday morning for drunkenness and disturbing the peace by Constable C. J. Erra-carte of the mission city. John H. Evans, 50, Placentia, was released from the county jail yesterday on a $25 bail bond after being booked for drunkenness Saturday night by Police Chief John Stanton of Tustin.

Officers Paul Cozad and C. V. Adams arrested Antonio Ursua, 21, Delhi, at the home of his father Saturday night, and booked him at the county jail for drunkenness.

OFFICERS CHECK ON DOG POISONING

Following the news that another Great Dane dog had been poisoned, sheriff's officers are investigating the theory that the Westminster dog poisoned last Tuesday night might have been killed by the same person or persons who poisoned the valuable animal of R. H. Obarr of El Modena Saturday night.

Each dog was valued at about $500 and they were said to be among the finest animals in Southern California. A trace of strychnine was found in the stomach of the dog owned by Herbert Cook of Westminster and four dishes of fish, two of which were poisoned with strychnine, were found at a vacant house near the Cook property.

The stomach of the Obarr dog is being examined today by County Autopsy Surgeon J. J. Montanus for evidences of poison but that the dog was poisoned, judging from the pasture and condition of the body when found. The dog died on an alfalfa patch near the house on Santiago boulevard.

Pansy Morine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hogs, for many years residents of Santa Ana before moving to Crows Landing, California, died at her home, 230 South Beaudry avenue, Los Angeles, recently, according to word received here today.

Besides her parents, she leaves her husband, C. A. Morine, of Los Angeles, and a sister, Ida Mae Dean, of Lexington, Massachusetts.

Broiler Specials Subject for Last Class In Cooking

Santa Anans On Disabled Boat At Laguna Rescued

Distress signals from five persons in a disabled boat, tossed about in a choppy sea about a mile out at sea off the Laguna Beach coastline, yesterday afternoon brought Captain Ed Hobart of the life guard squad and his assistants to the rescue.

The occupants of the craft were Ed Vegely, city clerk of Santa Ana; his son, Bruce Vegely; son-in-law, Dr. Neal Raney; Mrs. George Baker and Mrs. Carney Beard. They were brought ashore and the craft taken in tow. The party was returning from a fishing trip to Dana Point with a good catch of fish, when the boat struck a choppy sea, kicked up by a strong wind, causing the motor to be soaked by the spray that swept across the beam.

Sailors At N. Y., Children at Fair Appear On Screen

Register World News Events, now showing at the Broadway theater in addition to the regular program, include a number of interesting late news events.

The news reel shows New York City playing host to Uncle Sam's fleet and men, children's day at the Century of Progress Exposition, Middle given their diplomas at Annapolis, and Carnera at Pompton Lake, New Jersey, as he ends training for his bout with Baer.

Sadie Ronfeldt Dies Suddenly Saturday Night

STUDENTS FUND INCREASED BY $35

About $35 was turned over to the Santa Ana High school student loan fund today, the money representing the proceeds from the "Talent Tots" revue staged Saturday night in the Willard auditorium.

More than 400 persons attended the event, staged by Vera Merilyn Getty as a benefit for the student loan fund. All of the money taken in was turned over to the student fund.

Forty-five talented young dancers from Santa Ana and Costa Mesa participated in the program.

DELHI HOME RAZED BY FLAMES TODAY

Children playing with matches were responsible for a fire this morning at the home of Manueles Esqueda, 540 Central avenue, Delhi, which completely destroyed the house and caused damage of more than $400.

The three room house was all aflame before firemen arrived and it was only after prompt work that a house next door was saved with a damage of only $25. The loss on the Esqueda house was set at $250 and the contents at about $150.

It was learned after the fire that small neighbor children had been playing with matches at the home and apparently started the blaze.

Lutheran Church Junior League Elects Officers

Electing new officers at its monthly meeting Friday evening, the Junior Mission League of St. Peter's Lutheran church chose Junior Sorenson as president; Elmer Kastrof, vice president; Margaret Fields, secretary, and Bromley Krook, treasurer.

The meeting began with a dinner at 5 p. m. in the church parlors, after which came the regular study course on "The Bible in Outline." This was followed by the true story of an Indian family, which revealed the deplorable conditions existing among outcast people of India. Mrs. Bart DeVol and Mrs. H. W. Meyer are associate leaders. The meeting was followed by an hour of recreation.

COMEDY, THRILLER PLAY WEST COAST

Two feature pictures of widely contrasting theme are offered on the screen of the West Coast theater starting today for a short engagement of two days.

"Springtime for Henry," a brilliant English comedy featuring Otto Kruger, Heather Angel, Nancy Carroll and Herbert Mundin, is one of the features on the double-feature program.

The other film is "Fog Over Frisco," an exciting and adventurous mystery thriller with Bette Davis, Donald Woods, Margaret Lindsay, Lyle Talbot and Hugh Herbert in the featured roles. The story concerns the operations of international bond swindlers, who do not hesitate at murder in carrying out their gigantic operations.

FINGERPRINTS ALONG HIGHWAY OF GOD CITED TO GRADUATES AS GUIDE UPON ROAD OF LIFE

The thousands of graduates leaving school this month to grapple with the problems of life were inspiration for the sermon of the Rev. Samuel Edgar, of the Reformed Presbyterian church, Sunday morning, speaking from the text, Isaiah 58:11, "I will guide thee continually." He said, in part:

"Every highway throughout the land has its sign posts to help the traveler find his way. What satisfaction to stop on a dark night at an unknown crossroads and find the sign post telling you that you are on the right road and after a short drive you shall be back again into well known territory.

There are fingerprints along life's highway for us. The direction is to aid us in finding the way if God. The highway of life is the way back to God and the way of service for Him.

"No one questions the need of signposts along the highways. They are ever in demand. No one doubts the need of fingerprints along life's highway, for we see such a short way ahead. We start out in the morning and know not that is ahead through the day. We know not what a day or an hour shall bring forth.

"We are thinking of the thousands of young men and women that shall stream out of our great educational institutions this week and the week to follow. How many of them are asking as to 'whither bound?' How they wish they knew where they were going and what they were going to do. And we older ones could be most happy to tell them if we only knew. While it is not for us to guide them in details there are certain fundamentals in life we would like them to follow as they enter new highways and reach into the unknown future. God forbid they should lose the way.

"First, let us notice then, some of the fingerprints of life. Moses led us in the desert busy with us every-day affairs, when he was stopped by one of God's fingerprints, the bush that burned and was not consumed. He turned aside to see this strange thing.

GREAT SUPPERS OF GOSPEL ARE GOD'S PROMISE SERMON THEME TO CHRISTIANS

"There were two great suppers dated for us in the 14th chapter of the gospel according to Luke," said the Rev. H. W. Meyer, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church, speaking from the text Luke 14:16-24, "The Great Supper," Sunday morning.

"The first supper mentioned in the chapter," he said, "was great because Christ was there as a guest, teaching great lessons. The second supper mentioned was great because He told it in the parable and presented himself as the center-most thought.

"Christ had been invited to the meal of one of the chief Pharisees and bread and it was on the Sabbath day. They watched Him, intending to entrap him in some violation of their religious code. A man was before him sick with a dropsy. Jesus asked, 'Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath?' and He forthwith healed a man. For some reason or other they held their peace, and any guests were there and eventually there was a scramble for the chief places of honor, so Jesus gave them a parable on humility. Christ also had something to say on the matter of charity or expression of love: 'Then thou makest a dinner or supper call not thy brethren—nor y rich neighbors, lest they also dine with thee and thou shalt be made again and again a recompense made.' But when thou shalt have a feast, call the poor, the lame, the blind, and the blind, and thou shalt be blessed . . ."

"These two great suppers with Christ's comments would give us such room to speak on charity, brotherly love, or even the 'new deal' and the U. S. A. go for Socialism, but Christ intended to present an entirely different lesson concerning the ception and rejection of Him. If, so we shall stay by the main thought of Christ's parable of the 'Great Supper.' One guest was pressed by Jesus' lessons, for he found him speaking up with enthusiasm: 'Blessed is he that eat bread of the kingdom of all ages to come.' The parable followed. 'A certain man made a great supper and bade many.' The Trinity is involved in the first verses; the 'certain man' was God, the 'prepared supper' was the invitation that God provided for his Son. 'God so loved a world . . .,' well described by him the Baptist, 'Behold the lamb of God which taketh away the sins of the world; the servant out to invite, bring, and compel is the Holy Ghost working through the apostles, prophets and evangelists, and through every living Christian today. The any' who were invited to the 'Great Supper'—to believe in Christ included Christ's host and his low guests, who are those of a parable who began to make use: 'must go to see my land, I going to prove my five yoke oxen, may have me excused, have married a wife and therefore cannot come.'

"Three classes of people are involved. First, the 'bidden,' those who had come in contact with God's word and lived under the shelter of God's grace, also known as Christians of today. Second, the people of the streets and lanes, the poor, the maimed, the blind, and the spiritually blind and lame, and the poor who were to be brought in, to live in the shadow of God's word, but had not come in contact with it. They live in the shadow of the church today, but

And behold: It was God's fingerprints pointing him to Egypt. To his life work. To the deliverance of God's people from the tyranny of Egypt. That fingerprint led him into the riches of God's plan for him.

"Peter's vision on the housetop in Jaffa was God's fingerprint pointing him into a new highway. To follow the directions of the past, dropping of beliefs of the past, and believing that the Gentile world was worthy of the grace of God. That fingerprint pointed to the home of Cornelius. And Peter obeying, went nothing doubting, and lo the Holy Spirit fell upon those who heard the word in the house of Cornelius and the door was open for the Gentiles.

"Second, we need to know how to read these fingerprints of God. This is the ever present question amongst us all. How am I to know the Divine plan. There are three things that God hath given to aid in our direction. First we have the Word of God, which, said the Psalmist, is 'a lamp to my feet and a light to my path.' This God hath given us that all may read and learn. Then we have the guidance of the Holy Spirit. Then, God hath given us the power to discern, given us the will to judge and decide.

"Third, we need faith to follow the guide. Without faith it is impossible to please God. No use of signs along the highway if travelers pay no attention to them. No use in paying a guide for his help and then wander alone and get lost. God will lead us into His highway and lead us in that highway if we will only follow His directions.

"Read God's fingerprints. Follow the directions, enjoy the new pathway and all that Jesus our guide shall open ahead for us."

BOOK 13 ON LIQUOR COUNTS OVER WEEKEND

Thirteen persons were booked at the county jail over the weekend on liquor violations, including two for drunken driving, three for investigation of drunken driving and eight for drunkenness.

Pedro Carrillo, 32, Los Angeles, was released from jail yesterday on a $300 bail bond after being jailed at 3:27 p. m. yesterday for drunken driving by Police Chief Gus Barnes of Placentia.

Jack Matta, 25, R. D. 5, Box 435, Santa Ana, was booked at the county jail for investigation of drunken driving by Officers John Etistie and V. G. Wolfe of Orange at 4 a. m. Sunday. According to the officers, Matta was driving all over West Chapman avenue in his car and was very rowdy, vulgar and intoxicated when placed under arrest.

Ellis Taylor, 33, and Frank W. Warren, 47, both of 424 South Olive street, Anaheim, were booked at the county jail at 4:10 a. m. Sunday for investigation of drunken driving by California Highway Patrolman Dan Adams. Both men claimed to have been driving Taylor's car when it crashed into the rear of a small truck on the Orangecor road one mile west of Fullerton. Since both had been drinking and were unable to give coherent details of the accident, Adams placed them in jail. Taylor assumed the blame for driving when questioned by Adams today, it was learned. The men were to be arraigned in justice court this afternoon.

Starts One Year Term
William S. Conner, 37, Long Beach carpenter, booked himself at the jail Saturday to start serving a one year sentence for drunken driving, imposed as the result of an automobile accident at Huntington Beach in January, in which a Long Beach girl was killed.

Following a search of brush and orchards near the Santa Ana river on Santa Ana boulevard yesterday afternoon, Ramon Mendoza, 42, 171, Orange street, Orange, was arrested and booked at the jail for drunkenness by Santa Ana police. Mendoza's car crashed into the parked car of a Bakerfield man, whose name was not taken by police. After the crash, the Mexican ran from his car and hid in the brush.

Motor Officer Ed Lentz secured police reinforcements for the search and the man was finally found by California Highway Patrolman Ben Craig. When the Bakerfield man refused to sign a complaint against Mendoza, police charged him with drunkenness and jailed him. Joe de la Rosa, 40, Orange, was treated at the Orange county hospital for head wounds before being transferred to the county jail yesterday afternoon on a drunkenness charge. The Mexican was arrested by Officer Pete Winslow after he had fallen down and struck his head on a truck wheel on North Lemon street. After being given medical treatment, he was jailed by Officers A. H. Westermann and James Johnson.

Blas Garland, 39, Indian from the Pala reservation, was arrested for drunkenness at Fourth and French streets and booked at the county jail by Officers Roy Hartley and C. V. Adams at 5 p. m. Two men were arrested by Officers P. L. Grouard and W. E. R. Sherwood at a pool room at Fourth and Garfield streets at 11:40 o'clock last night. When they started to arrest Fredrico Hernandez, 29, 917 East Pine street, and place him in the police car, John Quintana, 23, 907 1/2 East Sixth street, attempted to restrain the officers and was also placed under arrest. Hernandez was booked for drunkenness and Quintana for drunkenness and resisting an officer.

Paul Valenzuela, 23, San Juan Capistrano, was booked at the county jail Sunday morning for drunkenness and disturbing the peace by Constable C. J. Errarte of the mission city. John H. Evans, 50, Placentia, was released from the county jail yesterday on a $25 bail bond after being booked for drunkenness Saturday night by Police Chief John Stanton of Tustin.

Officers Paul Cozad and C. V. Adams arrested Antonio Ursua, 21, Delhi, at the home of his father Saturday night, and booked him at the county jail for drunkenness.

Richard A. Potter, 77, resident of Santa Ana for the past year, died at his home at 824 North Ross street Saturday following a short illness.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Katie Potter; two sons, Roy Potter of Winslow, Ariz., and Clyde Potter of El Centro; one daughter, Mrs. Mabel Avar, of Alhambra, and four grand-children, Richard T. Avar and Mrs. Sylvia Madison of Alhambra and Roy W. Potter and Anita B. Potter, both of Santa Ana.

Funeral services will be held at a time to be announced later by the Harrell and Brown funeral home.

Nominations for officers can be made from the floor at the meeting next week. A nominating committee has offered the following names as candidates for election:

Santa Anans On Disabled Boat At Laguna Rescued

Distress signals from five persons in a disabled motor boat, tossed about in a choppy sea about a mile out at sea off the Laguna Beach coastline, yesterday afternoon brought Captain Ed Hobart of the life guard squad and his assistants to the rescue.

The occupants of the craft were Ed Vegely, city clerk of Santa Ana; his son, Bruce Vegely; son-in-law, Dr. Neal Raney; Mrs. George Baker and Mrs. Carney Beard. They were brought ashore and the craft taken in tow. The party was returning from a fishing trip to Dana Point with a good catch of fish, when the boat struck a choppy sea, kicked up by a strong wind, causing the motor to be soaked by the spray that swept across the beam.

Sailors At N. Y., Children at Fair Appear On Screen

Register World News Events, now showing at the Broadway theater in addition to the regular program, include a number of interesting late news events.

Sadie Ronfeldt Dies Suddenly Saturday Night

A heart attack, coming suddenly Saturday night, was held responsible for the death of Mrs. Sadie Ronfeldt, 73, resident of Santa Ana for the past 19 years. She died at her home, 1529 West Second street.

She is survived by one brother, Morgan Smith, and two sisters, Mrs. Melissa Chandler and Mrs. Laura Weaver, all of Santa Ana. Announcement of funeral services will be made later by the Harrell and Brown funeral home.

STUDENTS FUND INCREASED BY $35

About $35 was turned over to the Santa Ana High school student loan fund today, the money representing the proceeds from the "Talent Tots" revue staged Saturday night in the Willard auditorium.

More than 400 persons attended the event, staged by Vera Merrill Getty as a benefit for the student loan fund. All of the money taken in was turned over to the student fund.

Forty-five talented young dancers from Santa Ana and Costa Mesa participated in the program.

GRADUATES TONIGHT

DELHI HOME RAZED BY FLAMES TODAY

Children playing with matches were responsible for a fire this morning at the home of Manuella Esqueda, 540 Central avenue, Delhi, which completely destroyed the house and caused damage of more than $400.

The three room house was all aflame before firemen arrived and it was only after prompt work that a house next door was saved with a damage of only $25. The loss on the Esqueda house was set at $250 and the contents at about $150.

It was learned after the fire that small neighbor children had been playing with matches at the home and apparently started the blaze.

Lutheran Church Junior League Elects Officers

Electing new officers at its monthly meeting Friday evening, the Junior Mission League of St. Peter's Lutheran church chose Junior Sorenson as president; Elmer Kaster, vice president; Margaret Fields, secretary, and Bromley Krook, treasurer.

The meeting began with a dinner at 5 p. m. in the church parlors, after which came the regular study course on "The Bible in Outline." This was followed by the true story of an Indian family, which revealed the deplorable conditions existing among outcast people of India.

It was learned after the fire that small neighbor children had been playing with matches at the home and apparently started the blaze.

COMEDY, THRILLER PLAY WEST COAST

Two feature pictures of widely contrasting theme are offered on the screen of the West Coast theater starting today for a short engagement of two days.

"Springtime for Henry," a brilliant English comedy featuring Otto Kruger, Heather Angel, Nancy Carroll and Herbert Mundin, is one of the features on the double-feature program. "Fog Over 'Fleeco'" an exciting and adventurous mystery thriller with Bette Davis, Donald Woods, Margaret Lindsay, Lyle Talbot and Hugh Herbert in the featured roles. The story concerns the operations of international bond swindlers, who do not hesitate at murder in carrying out their gigantic operations.

OFFICERS CHECK ON DOG POISONING

Following the news that another Great Dane dog had been poisoned, sheriffs officers are investigating the theory that the Westminster dog poisoned last Tuesday night might have been killed by the same person or persons who poisoned the valuable animal of R. H. Oharr of El Modena Saturday night.

Each dog was valued at about $500 and they were said to be among the finest animals in Southern California. A trace of strychnine was found in the stomach of the dog owned by Herbert Cook of Westminster and four dishes of fish, two of which were poisoned with strychnine, were found at a vacant house near the Cook property.

The stomach of the Oharr dog is being examined today by County Autopsy Surgeon J. J. Montanus for evidences of poison but officers say Oharr are convinced that the dog was poisoned, judging from the posture and condition of the body when found. The dog died in an alfalfa patch near the house on Santiago boulevard.

Former Santa Anan Called By Death

Pansy Morine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hoge, for many years residents of Santa Ana before moving to Crows Landing, California, died at her home, 239 South Beaudry avenue, Los Angeles recently, according to word received here today.

Besides her parents, she leaves her husband, C. A. Morine, of Los Angeles, and a sister, Ida Mae Dean, of Lexington, Massachusetts.

THE TINYTIMES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

The woman folks called Of Cross Patch, said, "I am glad you pulled the latch and came right in to see me. I've been lonesome all day long."

"I like wee little tots like you, but, frankly, I see very few. They've been told I am cross, but, as you know, by now, that's wrong."

"You bet it is," said Duncy. "Gee, you've certainly been kind to me. Why, look! You've almost finished with the sewing on my clothes."

"You'd hardly know that they were torn. From now on, I won't look forlorn. Your needlework's so clever that none of the patch-work shows."

Soon Duncy was all set again. He eyed his suit a bit and then said, "Is there something I can do, for what you've done for me?"

"Why, yes, there is," the woman cried. "Come on with me, lad, right outside. I have some rugs that will keep you as busy as can be."

"Ha, ha," laughed Goldy. "You are stuck. Now, isn't that just your tough luck that some small rugs need beating? It's a big surprise to you."

"Quite right you are, but I won't shirk," said Duncy. Then he went to work. It seemed a very short time till he shouted, "There, I'm through!"

Then, once more, off the Tinties went. A happy hour or two was spent in running long a little stream. Then Goldy shouted, "Hey!"

"A sight I see fills me with joy. Look! There's a friendly-looking boy. He has a dandy little boat. With him I'm going to play."

As she ran up, the youngster said, "I'm Bobby Shaftoe. Come ahead and join me on my trip to sea. I'm leaving after while."

"I'm going to ride my little boat. I only hope it keeps afloat." All of the Tinties eyed the boat, and then they had to smile. (Copyright, 1934, Inc.)

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

The woman folks called Ol' Cross Patch said, "I am glad you pulled the latch and came right in to see me. I've been lonesome all day long."

"I like wee little tots like you, but, frankly, I see very few. They've been told I am cross, but as you know, by now, that's wrong."

"You bet it is," said Duncy. "Gee, you've certainly been kind to me. Why, look! You've almost finished with the sewing on my clothes."

"You'd hardly know that they were torn. From now on, I won't look forlorn. Your needlework's so clever that none of the patch-work shows."

Soon Duncy was all set again. He eyed his suit a bit and then said, "Is there something I can do, for what you've done for me?"

"Why, yes, there is," the woman cried. "Come on with me, lad, right outside. I have some rugs that will keep you as busy as can be."

"Ha, ha," laughed Duncy. "You are stuck. Now, isn't that just your tough luck that some small rugs need beating? It's a big surprise to you."

"Quite right, you are, but I won't shirk," said Duncy. Then he went to work. It seemed a very short time till he shouted, "There, I'm through!"

Then, once more, off the Tines went. A happy hour or two was spent in running long a little stream. Then Goldy shouted, "Hey!"

"A sight I see fills me with joy. Look! There's a friendly looking boy. He has a dandy little boat. With him I'm going to play."

As she ran up, the youngster said, "I'm Bobby Shaftoe. Come ahead and join me on my trip to sea. I'm leaving after while."

"I'm going to ride my little boat. I only hope it keeps afloat." All of the Tines eyed the boat, and then they had to smile. (Copyright, 1934, Inc.)

How the Flying SOLDIERS of FORTUNE Faked Their AIR BATTLES

THE war-time aviator gets a lot of thrills, risk, his neck innumerable times, and—if he comes out of it alive—has a lot of very exciting stories to tell the folks back home.

But if he happens, in addition, to be a soldier of fortune, fighting in a plane instead of on the ground—

And if, on top of that, he's in the service of a Latin-American country where nobody knows much of anything about aviation—

And if all the aviators on the "enemy" side are his buddies, boon companions in many a carefree revel—

Then the stories he takes back home with him are likely to be highly humorous, as well as exciting.

A case in point is that of Col. Dean Ivan Lamb, one of the most experienced of all present-day soldiers of fortune. For Colonel Lamb's experiences include all of the "ifs" mentioned above, and they make very amusing reading.

Colonel Lamb recently recounted his experiences in a book, "The Incurable Filibuster," just published by Farrar and Rinehart. In this book he tells of some of the strangest aerial combats recorded in the history of war; bloodless combats in which the men on each side tried to see how good a show they could put on without endangering each other's lives.

HE got his first taste of it a few years before the World War, when aviation was still a very uncertain and little understood game. He had already become a veteran soldier of fortune, mixing in several Latin-American scraps as a machine gunner. At this time—the spring of 1912—he had just learned to fly, and had wandered down to Naco, Arizona, looking for excitement.

He found plenty of it, just across the border in Mexico. The revolution against Huerta was in full swing; the Mexican town opposite Naco was held by the Carranzistas and was being besieged by the Huerta troops. Presently Colonel Lamb got in touch with one Gen. Benjamin Hill, commanding the Carranza forces there. General Hill learned that he was an aviator and promptly hired him. Then he ordered a plane from New York.

The Huerta forces already had a birdman on the scene—one Philip Rader, a former San Francisco newspaper reporter and a good friend of Colonel Lamb's. He flew over the beleaguered town several times, dropping bombs. So, as soon as the new plane arrived, General Hill insisted that Colonel Lamb take to the air at once.

"Early one morning, while making a reconnaissance, I saw the enemy plane and edged over in its direction," writes Colonel Lamb. "As I neared the machine close enough to note details, the pilot pushed up his goggles. Sure enough, it was Phil Rader.

"He seemed to recognize me, and while trying to edge a bit closer we nearly locked wings. He quickly sheered off, shaking his fist at me, and then straightened out, flying parallel.

"He then drew a pistol and fired downward below my machine. For a second my heart stopped beating as I drew my own gun, but before starting action it occurred to me that he had not actually aimed at me, but beneath. Following his example, I fired twice, and as he suddenly tilted his plane my heart jumped into my throat, thinking that by accident he had been hit.

"He straightened out again and copied my example by firing two shots. We then fired spaced shots until our guns were empty at about the same time."

Needless to say, all the shots were wild.

Reloading a revolver in the cranky planes of those days was hard, but Lamb and Rader managed it and continued with their duel. The troops on the ground below looked up in admiration at the heroic aviators fighting a duel in the skies; and the duel kept on until both men had exhausted their ammunition, when they waved their hands in farewell and flew back to their respective hangars.

A little later Colonel Lamb found that his rickety plane was on the verge of falling apart. Besides, his pay was in arrears; so he took French leave and walked out on the revolution, moving on for a barnstorming career in the United States.

During the World War Colonel Lamb went overseas and served as a combat pilot in the Royal Flying Corps of Great Britain. He was finally shot down in action and invalided home. After the war he set out to look for more adventure in Latin America.

The Paraguayans paid them willingly for their exploits, not realizing that their "victories" were all fakes.

After varied experiences, he found himself in Buenos Aires. A revolution had started in Paraguay, and Colonel Lamb presently signed up as commander of the federal air squadron of 11 planes. A chum of his, an Italian flyer named Mazzolini, was simultaneously signed as commander of the revolutionists' air squadron.

Then Mazzolini and Lamb called together the various World War flyers who were in Buenos Aires looking for jobs, to pick out their crews. Lamb needed a larger staff than Mazzolini—the federals had 11 planes, and the revolutionists only six.

"The birds we had gathered together," writes Colonel Lamb, "seemed to have no particular preference for whom they fought, so it was arranged that I should choose two, then Mazzy one at a time, and the last choice would be one man each. In order to avoid hurting anyone's feelings for being the last man we lined them up and flipped a coin to see from which end of the line we should start."

At length they got their men chosen and set out for Paraguay. Both sets of fighters traveled on the same train, and they gathered in the dining car and made merry, drinking champagne together, until they reached the station where the revolutionists had to get off.

Colonel Lamb found himself under a colonel who had never been in the air and knew nothing whatever about what airplanes could and could not do. And one day this non-flying colonel was vastly excited to see two airplanes over the airdrome—one a federal plane piloted by one of Colonel Lamb's men, an English veteran named Stewart, and the other a plane manned by a revolutionist.

For some time the two planes chased each other about the skies. Bursts of machine gun fire could be plainly heard on the ground. At last the revolutionary plane went into a spin, straightened out, went into another spin and disappeared over the skyline, with Stewart on its tail, firing steadily.

STEWART returned, presently, and landed. The Paraguayan colonel was delighted, called him "the greatest hero of Paraguay," and presented the flying corps with a case of champagne, which was promptly consumed.

Colonel Lamb drew Stewart aside to scold him for shooting down one of their friends; but Stewart interrupted:

"Just a moment, old sock, ouah friend was no moah hurt than you are at this moment. Neither of us fired except when we were jolly well sure that the other would not be hit; just fawney the time required for the sound of the firing to reach the ground. I followed the blighter down to about a hundred feet, when he waved his hand and started hedge-hopping for the hills."

The flyers then all got together and arranged things.

"From that day," writes Colonel Lamb, "it was tacitly understood that when flying over enemy territory we, likewise, were to be always defeated. A few days later we read the official report of Stewart 'knocking down' one of the rebel machines, with a fine commendation of his valor—one case of champagne to the account of Captain Stewart.

"Each time a machine fell the old colonel opened a case of champagne in honor of the occasion and made a long official report. I was shot down five times in the same manner when well away from the airdrome, and in turn shot down seven of my friends.

"The colonel never seemed to grow suspicious of the numerous victories we piled up, and a case of champagne was always forthcoming. Some real ground strafing, bombing and reconnaissance was done, incidentally."

The home-made bombs they used caused the air force's one casualty. This same Stewart tossed one one day and it exploded prematurely, wrecking his plane and causing his death.

The war ended, eventually, with the revolutionists put to rout.

"We had 48 official victories to our credit," writes Colonel Lamb, "regardless of the fact that the enemy had purchased a total of only six planes."

Garland Little, 24, of Pico, arrested following a three-car wreck near Fullerton which cost two lives, today went on trial before a jury in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court charged with manslaughter.

With the jury selected in an unusually short space of time, the prosecution immediately bent to its purpose of proving Little responsible for the tragedy, which brought death to Mrs. May McCay, 66, of Walnut Park, and Edwin Epperly, 21, of Anaheim. The manslaughter complaint is based upon the death of Mrs. McCay, which immediately followed the crash last April 8. Young Epperly died a week later.

Jacob Deit, Fullerton police officer, was the first witness summoned by the state, to show the relative positions of the three cars involved in the wreck, when he reached the scene. He illustrated his testimony from a map of the scene.

Mrs. McCay was riding, at the time of the wreck, in a car driven by Ernest Hainline, of Huntington Park. Epperly was riding in a car driven by his father, Fred Epperly. Little was driving the third machine.

The state, it is said, will attempt to prove that Little had been drinking with two companions in a Fullerton park shortly before the accident, and that he was driving in a reckless manner when it occurred.

Deputy District Attorney Leo Frile is in charge of the prosecution, with Attorney Arthur O. Berge, Los Angeles, appearing for the defense. The jury consists of Mrs. Clara Daughenbaugh, J. M. Gunnett, John Dameri, Mrs. Edith J. Snow, Mrs. Clara R. French, LaRue Watson, Mrs. Mary Taylor, J. E. Baker, Margaret Edge, Mrs. Ethel Horton and S. Charles Chancelier.

"CAT FISH"

When we formerly fished in Eastern streams, a good, big catfish was considered a wonderful catch. Well, if you are fishing for a big catch in an orange grove, look at 21-acre, 37-year-old grove, good soil, good water, at $14,000, half cash, balance terms. Proper care will no doubt make it worth $1000 per acre before another crop.

We also have other good buys in groves.

HYPOCRISY DOESN'T INSPIRE CONFIDENCE

The death of Governor Rolph, and the ascendancy of Lieutenant-Governor Merriam to the gubernatorial office, changes, to a very considerable extent, the political complexion of the primary campaign inside the Republican ranks.

The personal wishes and relationships of Mr. Rolph being removed, political alignments of years standing are coming out more in the fore, and individuals who group themselves together to stand by one another for political profit, are finding expression in various ways through the opportunities presented.

When Theodore Roosevelt became president by the death of William McKinley, we recall that the ones who had made McKinley president, like Mark Hanna, were greatly disturbed as to just how Mr. Roosevelt would act, and what he would do.

He had run as a candidate for vice-president on the ticket with Mr. McKinley, and Mr. Roosevelt declared that he would carry out, as far as he could, the policies of Mr. McKinley, and retain those men in position, who would be willing to remain, whom Mr. McKinley had appointed. As far as we remember, he did this.

It is quite interesting and almost humorous to note how with one breath, those who have influence with our present governor, are speaking so reverently and affectionately of our late governor, and with the next breath expressing themselves as determined to rid public office of the men whom the late governor had appointed to the positions.

We are not saying this because of any desire to see any of them particularly retained in office, or any anxiety on their behalf, but to call attention to the hypocritical procedure as not the greatest indication to inspire confidence in the voters as citizens and taxpayers.

"The nation must be saved," and during campaign periods there is a very great tendency for a candidate and his friends to attempt to create in the public mind the idea that it is only through the selection of their candidate that government can continue to be stable. Just in proportion as this character of campaign is conducted, there should be suspicion in the minds of the people.

It is a time of all times when the people themselves should select their candidate. They should select a candidate who carries his own program in his own mind, under his own hat, and does not have a group of men to whom he must report, and whose advice he must follow, who are simply politicians interested in their own personal ends, and taking as much in the way of office and money from the people as they can and get away with it.

There are men running as candidates for public office on both major party tickets who consider public office a public trust, and who realize that if nominated and elected, the people's interests, and not special interests, must be their concern. And if we know anything about the needs of the hour, and the sentiment of the people, it is a man of this type whom the voters desire to select.

MUDDY THINKING

We notice in an exclusive article in the columns of a contemporary publication that the claim is made that the "new dealers" have taken control of American credit. That is, the emphasis is placed on the idea that the federal government has driven out private credit, and has substituted for it the credit of the federal government and individuals are being thwarted thereby.

They prove this through the declaration of the money-lending associations and corporations, and the fact that there are 20 per cent fewer private banking institutions than before the bank holiday of 1933. The figures are too clear and obvious to question.

But we do question the thought that the federal government has driven the private creditors out of the market. The private creditors went out of the market and refused to do anything to help the situation after the collapse of 1929.

We cannot forget that the vast amount of money that was loaned originally through the RFC to the banks of the country, was loaned with the idea that credit would be restored; that the banks would loan to borrowers, just as soon as they were convinced that they would be protected and helped by the federal government.

Neither can we forget that there was a practical refusal from New York to Sgedunk Swamp to pass the credit on through the private institutions to the people themselves. Credit for one reason or another was practically destroyed and unknown in this country, and it was because of that situation that the government was forced to do what it has done.

In fact, nearly every act of the federal government during the past year and a half has been due to an emergency that arose, which forced the government to act because there was no private agency filling the particular need. This is true of banks; it is true of loaning agencies; it is true of its welfare department, it is true of every work that it has been carrying on.

The government waited upon private initiative to do its part and to fill the need, almost to the point of the complete and total collapse of our economic and industrial life. It doesn't require any stretch of the imagination to contemplate what would have happened had the government not done this thing.

To say then, when the government has been forced to act, that it has driven out anything or anybody from work from which they had already "vamoosed," shows muddy, if not dishonest thinking. The government is going to continue this unquestionably as long as the need exists.

Just in proportion as private initiative will do equal service with the government in filling a need, we are confident that the government will rejoice in being relieved of that obligation. But there is objection to playing the "dog in the manger"—the dog will have to get out of the manger and let the horse eat the hay.

FIVE AUGURS OF PROSPERITY

With quintuplets and quadruplets making the first pages so frequently now, the parents who have in birth but a single child will hardly receive notice very shortly.

At first the father of the five seemed inclined to be either ashamed or frightened, and suggested that such fellows as he should be in jail. But as sympathy and notoriety, not to say fame, came to him in the way of financial propositions for the exhibition of his progeny, he began to walk more erect, look the world in the face and pride seemed to take the place of other reactions.

While the single individual birth may not be sufficient to herald with enthusiasm, or to "write home about" very frequently, yet until prosperity has continued with us long enough to renew its acquaintance and call it by its first name, there will be a measure of contentment in the happening of the "blessed event," even when confined to one lonely, unaccompanied boy or girl.

This is a new kind of prosperity. It is the kind of prosperity that we can enjoy the most if we find it entering the home of neighbors.

Mystery in Latin America Christian Science Monitor

Writers of today who are looking for new "mystery" ideas might go to South America and try to uncover some of the history of civilizations which left behind architectural and engineering masterpieces.

In some parts of the world archaeologists, geologists and other research workers have found carvings on stones and clay tablets from which they have been able to deduce something of ancient civilizations. Like a picture puzzle, the stories of Egypt, India, Persia have been worked out in some detail. But South American civilizations so far are largely unexplained.

Imagine a highway, thousands of miles in length, formed from solid stones, twenty tons or more in weight, all fitted together with an accuracy which mystifies modern engineers. No joining material was used and each block fits in place so exactly that the entire highway almost seems one solid stone. How was it done? No trace of any machinery ever has been found, yet the highway remains in practically perfect condition and is mute evidence of a vast building and mathematical knowledge.

What is the history of these ancient South American civilizations? Explorers recently brought back groups of pottery which have been placed in various museums. They prove that these Indians were skillful artisans, but how the vases were modeled, how their houses were built, whence came their mathematical knowledge, what manner of life was led, and other intimate details, remain unanswered questions. They stand as challenges to the adventurous and the curious.

Birds And Radio San Francisco Chronicle

Writing to a New York newspaper, a woman reports hearing a bird in Connecticut sing the four opening notes of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, and asks whether the composer may not have borrowed from the feathered songster.

Beethoven did, indeed, for he said so himself, according to Carl Czerny. The author from whom he cribbed those four notes, undoubtedly the most famous of all symphonic themes, was a bird called in Austria the yellowhammer, which he heard in a Vienna park. Beethoven had not then become wholly deaf.

This raises an interesting question. It is possible that Connecticut has a bird that sings the same song as the Vienna yellowhammer. It may even be the same species of bird. On the other hand, it is not possible that the Connecticut symphonist was one of our feathered mimics, a catbird or a mockingbird, and had picked up the notes from a radio.

With the radio now omnipresent in this country, it should be no surprise to hear the mockingbird singing almost any familiar theme, if brief. A bird so versatile that it can modulate from the crowing of a rooster to the scream of a saw going through a board should not stumble over simple musical phrases that it must hear over and over again from the radio. We wonder if, since the radio became common, instances have been observed of popular musical phrases sung by the California mockingbird. It might be well, in localities where the mocker is frequent, to watch, or listen, to learn if this bird, too, has become a radio fan.

A Menace to America Riverside Daily Press

That the United States is the largest user of illicit drugs of any "white country" in the world was the unpleasant information imparted to a group of ministers in Los Angeles recently by Dr. James S. West, president of the International White Cross Anti-narcotic league.

Dr. West pointed out that addiction to narcotics is easily acquired and that there is no cure. Any one who takes one-quarter of a grain of morphine once a day for from two to five weeks is characterized as an addict. He then is said to become a diseased person with less chance for cure than a victim of tuberculosis or cancer. Under the terrible pain of the withdrawal of the drug, the addict will and does commit unspeakable crimes.

Other painful facts included the statement that the drug evil last year cost Los Angeles more than $1,700,000 through thefts by addicts, and the narcotic drugs are purchased abroad for about $8 an ounce, smuggled to America and peddled at from 100 to 1000 per cent profit.

These disconcerting statements should be compelling enough to arouse support for the proposed modification of the Harrison narcotic act so that federal clinics may be established to care for the unfortunate victims. The present method of putting narcotic victims in prison is a disgrace to the government, in the conviction of the White Cross league head.

THE EASIEST WAY

Because I had never succeeded
I was troubled and sad and depressed,
So I went to a Prof.
Who advised me, right off,
To take an intelligence test.
He pointed out marks on a blackboard.
He made me do various sums,
He asked me how high
Was the top of the sky,
And where were the Javanese slums.

He showed me a number of pictures
And asked me who made them, and how,
He wanted to know
Where a farmer would go
If he needed to buy a new plough.
He inquired how high was an iceberg,
And what the Bengal tigers are for,
Where to look for the Croats,
And what were wild oats,
And why one can't see through a door.

My answers were all of them wrong ones,
My examiner said with a sneer;
But he told me I might
Be a trifle more bright
If I kept coming back for a year.
But I studied the old fellow's system
And now I am piling up pelf
And winning wide fame,
For forthwith I became An intelligence tester myself.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

CLARIFYING THE NATIONAL WILL

The other day I listed four basic decisions which we, as a people, must make and make soon if we are to avoid an increasing insecurity in our national life—a decision between democracy and dictatorship, between an economy of plenty and an economy of scarcity, between freedom and regimentation, between internationalism and nationalism.

But, as I said then, it is an open question whether we are equal to the challenge of clear decision on such fundamental matters, for we are suffering from a disintegration of will which Guglielmo Ferrero brilliantly defined some years ago in his Words to the Deaf.

There have been epochs more unkind, poorer and more ignorant than our own, but they knew what they wanted," he wrote. "Supported by limited ideas, a sure will directed them."

And, then, to our own epoch he shot this question, "What do we want?" And went on to say, "That is the question. Every man and every epoch should keep this question constantly before them, just as a lamp is kept burning day and night in dark places."

Ferrero is right. This is the essential question. To know what we want is the beginning of statesmanship.

Do we know what we want—now in the America of 1934?

Do we know what we want government to be and do in relation to the whole complex of American life and enterprise over which, at the moment of its highest potential power the chill and shadow of a vast futility fell?

Do we know what we want from statesmanship? Is it sheltered security or a chance to adventure in a fair field?

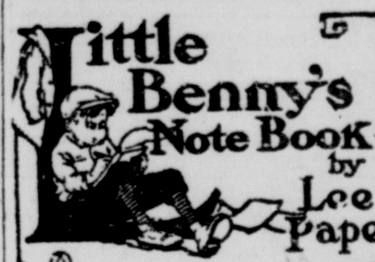

Do we know what kind of political order we want? What kind of social order? What kind of economic order?

Ferrero thinks not. "On the contrary," he wrote, "our will is in a state of complete confusion. Sometimes it is split in twain, at once desirous of benefits that are mutually exclusive. Sometimes it entirely strays away from reason and reality, lured on by a mirage. This disorder of the will is the disease from which our age is dying."

Again Ferrero is right. Certainly we cannot make the decisions events are demanding of us unless and until we conquer this paralyzing indecision of will.

We have a rendezvous with destiny. And what life is to be like in the quarter century ahead—whether it is to smile on us or smite us—will be largely determined by the answers we give now to the sort of basic questions I listed the other day and rehearsed in the opening lines of this article.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

FORGETFULNESS

Dear Children:

How many times a day do you forget something that you should have remembered? This forgetting your business is a nuisance to yourself and to other people. Your teacher asks, "Where is your report card?" "O, I forgot to have it signed." Your mother says, "Where is the bread that I asked you to bring home when you came from school?" "O, I forgot. I'll run back and get it."

There are just so many hours and minutes in a day. Each time that you forget something you use more precious time and get nothing out of it. When you have to make time out once and twice and even three times to remember to do what you should have done in the beginning you are using your time and energy and getting no return. That's a bad business. It is like paying three times for one thing before you get it. Such waste, you will agree, is stupid.

Because you forget so many things people lose faith in you. He said he would do it but you never can depend on him. He is likely to come along and say he forgot all about it. Better get somebody else that you can depend on to do the job.

That means that you are going to be out of a lot of things that you would like to be in, but that is to be expected. The boys won't want you on the teams because you will forget practice hour, you will leave your ball home and have to go after it. You will forget your pass and have to go home to get it out of your coat pocket. The girls won't want you in their schemes because you will forget the dates, the jobs, the thousand and one odd things that you have to do when you belong to things. Forgetting is expensive. It costs you your reputation for dependability.

It is not that you have a bad memory. It is really because you want to do other things that please you more than the things you forget. You forget what does not interest you. You forget all that displeases or troubles you. You remember everything that promises you pleasure. You may not like to believe this but it is true whether you know it or not. Did you ever forget to do something that you liked very much to do? Not often enough to give you the name of forgetfulness.

Sometimes forgetting is caused by sickness and fatigue. That is unusual and people will understand it. The forgetting that bothers us all is the selfish kind that is used selfishly. Forgetting time and making people wait, forgetting errands and making people scurry about to make last minute arrangements while you go scott free, forgetting other people's needs and remembering your own, is the inexcusable forgetting that you must overcome if you want to be successful.

You can soon remember all you need to by thinking of what other people would like to have you do. By wanting to help the people about you make yourself remember. There is no trick about it. If you can remember your name and address, your meal time, and your birthday, you can remember to do your errands, attend to your school routine, and keep your appointments. You remember when you wish to remember. Don't deceive yourself about it. Forgetting is more habit than accident.

Yours, A. P.

HYPOCRISY DOESN'T INSPIRE CONFIDENCE

The death of Governor Rolph, and the ascendancy of Lieutenant-Governor Merriam to the gubernatorial office, changes, to a very considerable extent, the political complexion of the primary campaign inside the Republican ranks.

The personal wishes and relationships of Mr. Rolph being removed, political alignments of years standing are coming out more in the fore, and individuals who group themselves together to stand by one another for political profit, are finding expression in various ways through the opportunities presented.

When Theodore Roosevelt became president by the death of William McKinley, we recall that the ones who had made McKinley president, like Mark Hanna, were greatly disturbed as to just how Mr. Roosevelt would act, and what he would do.

He had run as a candidate for vice-president on the ticket with Mr. McKinley, and Mr. Roosevelt declared that he would carry out, as far as he could, the policies of Mr. McKinley, and retain those men in position, who would be willing to remain, whom Mr. McKinley had appointed. As far as we remember, he did this.

It is quite interesting and almost humorous to note how with one breath, those who have influence with our present governor, are speaking so reverently and affectionately of our late governor, and with the next breath expressing themselves as determined to rid public office of the men whom the late governor had appointed to the positions.

We are not saying this because of any desire to see any of them particularly retained in office, or any anxiety on their behalf, but to call attention to the hypocritical procedure as not the greatest indication to inspire confidence in the voters as citizens and taxpayers.

"The nation must be saved," and during campaign periods there is a very great tendency for a candidate and his friends to attempt to create in the public mind the idea that it is only through the selection of their candidate that government can continue to be stable. Just in proportion as this character of campaign is conducted, there should be suspicion in the minds of the people.

It is a time of all times when the people themselves should select their candidate. They should select a candidate who carries his own program in his own mind, under his own hat, and does not have a group of men to whom he must report, and whose advice he must follow, who are simply politicians interested in their own personal ends, and taking as much in the way of office and money from the people as they can and get away with it.

There are men running as candidates for public office on both major party tickets who consider public office a public trust, and who realize that if nominated and elected, the people's interests, and not special interests, must be their concern. And if we know anything about the needs of the hour, and the sentiment of the people, it is a man of this type whom the voters desire to select.

MUDDY THINKING

We notice in an exclusive article in the columns of a contemporary publication that the claim is made that the "new dealers" have taken control of American credit. That is, the emphasis is placed on the idea that the federal government has driven out private credit, and has substituted for it the credit of the federal government and individuals are being thwarted thereby.

They prove this through the declaration of the money-lending associations and corporations, and the fact that there are 20 per cent fewer private banking institutions than before the bank holiday of 1933. The figures are too clear and obvious to question.

But we do question the thought that the federal government has driven the private creditors out of the market. The private creditors went out of the market and refused to do anything to help the situation after the collapse of 1929.

We cannot forget that the vast amount of money that was loaned originally through the RFC to the banks of the country, was loaned with the idea that credit would be restored; that the banks would loan to borrowers, just as soon as they were convinced that they would be protected and helped by the federal government.

Neither can we forget that there was a practical refusal from New York to Squeed Swamp to pass the credit on through the private institutions to the people themselves. Credit for one reason or another was practically destroyed and unknown in this country, and it was because of that situation that the government was forced to do what it has done.

In fact, nearly every act of the federal government during the past year and a half has been due to an emergency that arose, which forced the government to act because there was no private agency filling the particular need. This is true of banks; it is true of loaning agencies; it is true of its welfare department, it is true of every work that it has been carrying on.

It doesn't require any stretch of the imagination to contemplate what would have happened had the government not done this thing.

To say then, when the government has been forced to act, that it has driven out anything or anybody from work from which they had already "vamosed," shows muddy, if not dishonest thinking. The government is going to continue this unquestionably as long as the need exists.

Just in proportion as private initiative will do equal service with the government in filling a need, we are confident that the government will rejoice in being relieved of that obligation. But there is objection to playing the "dog in the manger"—the dog will have to get out of the manger and let the horse eat the hay.

FORGETFULNESS

Dear Children:

How many times a day do you forget something that you should have remembered? This forgetting your business is a nuisance to yourself and to other people. Because you forget so many times people lose faith in you. "He said he would do it but you never can depend on him. He is likely to come along and say he forgot all about it. Better get somebody else that you can depend on to do the job."

That means that you are going to be out of a lot of things that you would like to be in, but that he is expected. The boys won't want you on the team because you will forget practice hour, you will leave your ball home and have to go after it. You will forget your pass and have to go home to get it out of your coat pocket. The girls won't want you in their schemes because you will forget the dates, the jobs, the thousand and one odd things that you have to do when you belong to things. Forgetting is expensive. It costs you your reputation for dependability.

It is not that you have a bad memory. It is really because you want to do other things that please you more than the things you forget. You forget what does not interest you. You forget all that displeases or troubles you. You remember everything that promises you pleasure. You may not like to believe this but it is true whether you know it or not. Did you ever forget to do something that you liked very much to do? Not often enough to give you the name of forgetfulness. Sometimes forgetting is caused by sickness and fatigue. That is unusual and people will understand it. The forgetting that bothers us all is the selfish kind that is used selfishly. Forgetting time and making people wait, forgetting errands and making people scurry about to make last minute arrangements while you go scot free, forgetting other people's needs and remembering your own, is the inexcusable forgetting that you must overcome if you want to be successful.

You can soon remember all you need to be thinking of what other people would like to have you do. By wanting to help the people about you make yourself remember. There is no trick about it. If you can remember your name and address, your usual time, and your birthday, you can remember to do your errands, attend to your school routine, and keep your appointments. You remember when you wish to remember. Don't deceive yourself about it. Forgetting is more habit than accident.

Yours, A. P.
